Why a White Light
Is the Most Natural

The objection has been made against acetylene that, because it resembles sunlight so closely, it's injurious to the eyesight.

It's claimed by these objectors that it's impossible to read under the direct rays of the sun.

That if we attempted to do this, our eyes would be quickly dazzled, and, if continued in, blindness would result.

The claim is not made for acetylene that it is as powerful a light as sunlight.

Acetylene resembles sunlight only in the quality of the light diffused—a clear white light.

If you could reduce sunlight to the same candle-power as an acetylene burner, you could read under its direct rays without any difficulty.

And, naturally, you would do this with more comfort, and less fatigue to your eyesight, than with any other known light.

The more nearly any light resembles sunlight—a white light—the more nearly perfect it is.

Because, it requires four times as much red light to read by, and five and one-half times as much yellow light, as it does white light.

All light other than acetylene light, contains strong yellow and red rays.

Therefore all other lights are much more trying on the eyes.

Calcium Carbide produces acetylene light of the highest and most brilliant lighting quality.

Beaver Flour
Makes More Bread

because it is made of the finest wheat, Manitoba Hard and Ontario.

Beaver Flour has "strength" —takes up water readily—and the dough "stands up" in the oven.

Beaver Flour has "flavor." Every good bread, pie and pastry maker knows just what that means.

Beaver Flour makes BETTER bread, and yields MORE Bread, Cake and Pastry to the barrel.
