

The Romance Of The Grocery
NO. 1
Nearly 90 years ago, when we opened our doors to the public, conditions were very different from those existing today. Even the humble paper bag was not then in common use. The sanitary cartons which protect your groceries from dust and the air were then but a dream of some enterprising manufacturer.

It is indeed a far cry, though in years but the lifetime of a young man, from the day we sold the first packaged breakfast food in Charlottetown to these days of phone orders, quick delivery and modern machine methods.

Royal Household is Being Reorganized
LONDON, Jan. 7.—The new Lord Chamberlain, the Duke of Atholl, the only peer in the British Isles permitted to maintain a private army, is believed to be partly responsible for the decision to thoroughly modernize the royal establishment and put in on a sound business basis.

It is not expected, of course, that this new drive for regal reorganization will be permitted to dim the splendor of Princess Mary's nuptials, but the Lord Chamberlain is said to delay his plan for saving the sterling in this decision, he is understood to have the enthusiastic backing of the King, who believes that the Royal Household should set an example for economy and efficiency.

The King already has forgone his yacht racing and other pleasures that were deemed too costly.

As one of the first steps toward reduced expenditure a number of sinecure jobs around the palace will either be eliminated or their salaries reduced. In bygone days, two of the great officers of state were the Lord Steward and the Master of the Horse, but both of these lately have been found to be redundant and their holders no longer perform any executive function.

The same course, it is learned has been taken in regard to the Vice-Chamberlain, the Royal Treasurer and the Controller of the Household, which in reality are political appointments given by the Government in power to three whips in Parliament, who perform no real duties at court, but receive their pay envelopes from the Royal Household.

All these offices are under the Lord Chamberlain, who has entire control of the royal establishment, from the royal stables to the royal kitchen, and including the hiring and firing of the employees.

THE PEOPLE'S VOICE IS THE VOICE OF GOD.
No: No: My friend, you are all wrong—all wrong. The people's voice is not the voice of God. Though you cry out, reiterate, reaffirm, Inset it is, with strenuous emphasis, Waving your hand aloft, or with clenched fist, Striking the desk before you to enforce The vehement words you say. The people's voice Is not the voice of God; rather I fear, Too is the devil's voice, the cry of crowds, The "crucify him" of the multitude, And not the still small voice of God that speaks Low in the heart, so low, so faint It is drowned In the tumultuous clamour of the mob. And only when the tempest has passed by, And the wild winds of passion died away, And silence comes, the humble voice of God is heard. Hears if he listens humbly and not else.

The people's voice is not the voice of God; Nor that of Reason, Justice, Love, Faith, Peace; No 'tis the voice of Passion, Crime, Revenge, Rank Superstition, Ignorance, Bigotry, A cry of wild confused discordant notes Mere noise untrained, untuned to harmony.

Where do all great ideas, all large aims, All schemes, that lift humanity, Have birth? In the majority? Ah; No, my friend, In the minute minority of one. Did the majority, since the world began Ever originate one noble thing? Do Science, Art, Invention, Government Owe ought to what you call the People? No:

Nothing and worse than nothing. All great thoughts, All Faiths, all Truths have at the outset found The world in arms to oppose and bar the way. To slay the prophet, pull the preacher down, And drown with tumult every singing voice. Christ perished on the cross because, forsooth, The great majority, who as you say, Being the voice of God, are always right, Fried crucify him; and to all the Saints, The holy men, who following preached His word, What in His wisdom did the World do? What but the axe the gibbet and the stake, Whom the majority cursed yesterday. Today it worships, Science had to bow before the Church's dogmas, even the Sun Was forced to make its circuit round the Earth. Despite of Galileo, for a time, Because your voice of God, your Church's voice, your dear majority, That always must be right, would have it so. Ah; but you say, however it may be in Science, Art, Invention, Creeds, at least in Government, in Statesmanship admit "The People, the Majority are right. Are they, indeed? What have they for Statesmanship, unless to change its name And not alone its name, its nature, too. To Politics, that hath no higher God. No better creed than Policy; that seeks Not what is Just, Wise, Right, Ah! No, but what Wrong though it be, seems simply politic And fits the passing passions of the day. No more, No less. The statements are the few Who know to guide aright the Ship of State. They who would trust the steering to the crowd. Large though it be, but trust it to the chance Of treacherous currents, shifting wind, tides, waves; The great majority the fickle crowd. We call the people, fluctuate here and there, Careless of right and wrong, each seeking naught But his own selfish, personal interest. This thing today, and then tomorrow that. What care that the State would steer its course By the strict chart of Duty, Truth or Right. Scoring all low demands, all coward claims, All devious doublings, all dishonest tricks. Nothing, and why? because the State to them Is but a market where to buy and sell. And Government a shop of offices, Call your majority into the pits, Whom vote they for? The ablest? The man most fitted for the work to do? Who seems all low and vulgar tricks to gain The vacant office? Who is straight erect.

"Some Pep" to that tobacco

It has moist freshness - It has wonderful flavor

Young man there's real chewin'. Take a bite. Feel the body and toughness of that tobacco. Feel how moist and fresh it is. How juicy!

Taste that flavor. Man, oh! Man. It lingers as long as there's any juice left, and take it from me, that juice does last.

The Schooner Defender Runs On Petries Ledges
NORTH SYDNEY, Jan. 2.—The schooner Defender, Capt. Leo Kipping, bound from Halifax for Port Aux Basques, Newfoundland, with a general cargo for merchants there, went ashore on Petrie's Ledges near the entrance to Sydney Harbor last night, and would be a total loss.

The vessel met heavy weather after leaving Halifax and her seams opened so that she was making water freely. The captain decided to come into North Sydney for repairs, and while trying to make port in the darkness and amid squalls the vessel struck and was carried well upon the ledge. The captain and crew got safely to land and spent the night at the houses of pilots at Low Point. The vessel is pounding heavily and her hold is full of water. It is thought likely she will be broken up today as a heavy on-shore gale is blowing.

The Defender was a vessel of 100 tons registered and was bought by Captain Kipping two years ago for $7000. What insurance there is on the cargo could not be learned.

TO OPEN LECTURE COURSE.
Dr. Clarence McKinnon will open the series of lectures on January 16th in the Grosvenor assembly hall planned by the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E. "Safeguards of Freedom" will be subject of the opening lecture; three others will follow by different speakers. These lectures form part of the educational work of the chapter during the winter. The four local primaries are active in carrying on good work in schools located in isolated districts in Halifax county.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE
At the general meeting of the Catholic Women's League held in the Assembly Hall of the Cathedral, Tuesday evening, Jan. 3, Dr. S. R. Jenkins addressed the members on the subject of "Sanitation and Hygiene." This subject was presented in a clever, attractive manner and closely followed by a large audience. An occasional question on the part of the audience when he traced the origin and growth of the common diseases, added considerably to the interest of his remarks. Speaking of the prevalence of Cancer, the Doctor said: "It is a fact that cancer, recognized as such at the beginning, and surgically treated may be cured. Not so long ago, it was a case was diagnosed as cancer the patient considered him or herself doomed. Now we are sure that there is every hope for success when a growth is removed at the early stages." The speaker urged the C. W. L. to co-operate with the medical profession in this work and predicted that prevention rather than cure would be the work of Physicians in years to come. The speaker was warmly applauded at intervals, and at the conclusion of his talk, a vote of thanks was presented by Mrs. P. W. Clark, and seconded by Mrs. D. J. Kelly, and fittingly acknowledged by the Doctor.

GREAT INTEREST IN HOCKEY SCHEDULE.—The opening game of the N. B. and P. E. I. Hockey League will be played on Tuesday, when the Abegweit will cross sticks with the hockeyists of Dorchester. N. B. The league, recently formed, embraces twelve teams from across N. B. towns and Charlottetown being represented by teams of four teams. Charlottetown is included with Moncton, Dorchester and Sackville in the Eastern section. The winning teams of the section will play off in February for the championship of the two provinces. This great interest will be evidenced not only in the sectional games but in the final play off. The first game of the section was played in Sackville on Tuesday last between the University team and Dorchester. The latter won easily by a score of 5 to 1. When it is remembered that our local team last year only defeated Sackville in their home rink by a score of 2 to 1, it is not surprising that the race for honors at this meeting will doubtless draw a crowded house. The city team has been putting in hard work and is now reaching into splendid condition. The local followers expect to see an even stronger lineup than that of last season. The team is exceedingly fast and is determined to offset the disappointing failure of the previous year. A game of speed and thrilling spectacles will without doubt be witnessed in the opening clash on Tuesday.

Mrs. Stillman Is In Montreal
MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—"I will give my life's blood to establish your innocence," are the words that constitute a telegram from Fred Beavais, Indian guide, named as correspondent to Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, who arrived in Montreal late today from Grand Piles (Que.) for the purpose of securing additional counsel to represent her at the hearing of Canadian witnesses which opens in this city on Jan. 11. Mrs. Stillman read the telegram to a gathering of newspaper men in the King Hotel, prior to returning to her rooms. She explained that her journey from Grand Piles had so fatigued her that she could not possibly give any further interview.

Beavais, whose home is in this city, left for the north country before Mrs. Stillman's arrival. James A. Stillman, Jr., her son, did not accompany her. He is still in Grand Piles, said Mrs. Stillman, "where he is assisting with John Crete to round up some additional witnesses for us."

James Stillman, Jr., accompanied his mother from New York to Quebec.

Asked today if any documents relative to the Stillman case were lost in the fire in Mayor Crete's house yesterday, lawyers for Mrs. Stillman said they had not heard of any loss.
