Shows Great Pacing Form Over Heavy Track In Last Two Miles

Staging a gallant comeback in the last two miles over a rain-soaked track after yielding to the assault of speed thrown at him in the first heat, Scott Spencer, Harry Hirsch's fast pacing horse from Sydney yesterday continued his successes over Maritime tracks by capturing the $1000 Free For All race, feature event of the Old Home Week racing program.

In a meeting crammed with thrills in each and every mile, Scott did it the hard way. In the first mile as the field of seven bearcats hid for the first turn at a two-mile shot, he was forced to take back from the smooth-going Vella La Vella. Settling in positions after the first quarter he raced to the three-quarters pole and here an extra thrill was added as Gay Law, driven by Angie Allen, came from nowhere to pace to the front and as the Scott horse faded, fended off Vella La Vella's closing rush in the stretch to win the heat. Gay Law paid $49.00 on the pari-mutuels in his upset win.

Free For All Trot Highlights Final Day Of Great Race Meet

The Free For All Trot with five evenly matched horses scheduled to come to the wire headlines this afternoon's racing program at Canada's Finest Track and the event, held over until the final day should fit in nicely with what has been an outstanding racing program. Neil Kalmuck, Wait N'See, Eva Worthy, Marjorie Hanover and Leo Remor are time-tested and proven trotters; that they will make a mighty race of it goes without saying and before the event is finished fans will have witnessed one of the most stirring duels of the entire week's program.

Then there is the first division of the 228 Trot with six more evenly matched trotters coming to the wire and as is the case in the Free For All event, anything can happen before the final mile has been raced.

And don't lose sight of the two classified trot and pace dash events. Two two classes will go three miles each, with positions being drawn for each mile, and once again upsets are very apt to be numerous due to the manner in which the entries in both classes have been banded together.

The meeting concludes in the evening with the staging of the three evenly-matched classes postponed from Thursday evening. All three are evenly matched and should prove a fitting climax to this year's Old Home Week racing program.

Here is how they will go away, afternoon and night:

Open Season Dates For Ducks, Geese Revealed

OTTAWA, Aug. 18 — (CP) — In words, complicated legal language, the government today told hunters of ducks and geese just what they may and may not do this autumn.

In an 8,000-word document, the Resources Department outlined regulations and seasons for hunting migratory birds in the various provinces of Canada. In general, the regulations are much the same as they were last year, with a few changes in the open-season dates.

For the first time in history, the regulations extend to Labrador and Newfoundland, which became part of Canada last March 31.

There will be an open season for ducks and geese in the Avalon and Burin peninsulas of Newfoundland from Oct. 1 to Oct. 31. On the rest of the island the season will be from Sept. 15 to Oct. 31.

The bag limit for the island will be seven ducks and five geese for any one day. For the season it will be 100 ducks, exclusive of mergansers, and 25 geese, other than brant.

In Labrador, the season for ducks and geese will extend from Sept. 1 to Oct. 31. There the bag limit will be 25 ducks and five geese in any one day. The season's limit will be the same as that for the island.

Double Program Of Harness Racing Today

Weather conditions forced postponement of the Old Home Week racing program scheduled for last night and officials of the Exhibition Association announced that the three classes scheduled to start would take place this evening.

The original afternoon program, headlined by the Free For All Trot will be raced as scheduled this afternoon with the first heat being called at 2 o'clock sharp.

Lund Wins Over Bridgewater Fighter

Appearing on one of the preliminary bouts of a boxing card staged at Bridgewater, N. S., on Wednesday night, Bud Lund, a local fighter, defeated a featherweight champion scored a unanimous four-round decision over Gerald McEachern of Bridgewater.

One other local fighter, welterweight Austin Squarbriggs, also appeared on the card, but lost a split decision to Al Batten.

The bout marked the first victory for a Charlottetown fighter in a number of appearances there by local fighters over the past few months, and according to reports, Lund put on a splendid showing and has been asked to return there in two weeks' time when he will meet Billy Snowball in an exhibition scrap.

Sport Echoes From Prince County

Those who see the second game of the semi-final series in the Prince Edward Island League between the R.C.A.F. All-Stars and the Charlottetown Abegweits will probably witness as a side-show to the main attraction the culmination of one of the tightest races for batting leadership seen on the island for some time. The two contestants are Maurice Goodwin and Glen Matheson of the Abegweits. One more time at bat for Goodwin without a hit would put them into a tie. That's how close it is. And there is still a possibility that Verne Latser, the Charlottetown catcher, may sneak under the wire ahead of both. The unexpected can happen just as in a horse race.

Thrills Plenty

But the thrills weren't over by any means; in fact they were just getting underway. Vella La Vella again went to the front the second mile and after beating off challenges by Carl Frisco and Anti-Aircraft, stood held at the seven-eighths pole. The fast moving field were closely bunched as they hit into the stretch and what a battle it was. They really cut loose near the end and momentarily it looked as if Vella had the heat but Scott Spencer, going like lightning away on the outside, came the last few yards tremendously fast to take the mile.

For the entire half of the final mile Vella La Vella and Scott Spencer waged a tremendous, dramatic duel as they raced together neck and neck at the half Vella took back a little; at the three quarters the trailers led by Gay Law started to move at a fast clip and it was another exciting stretch but again it was Scott Spencer by a length, with Anti-Aircraft, in contention every heat, showing a flash of his old-time power by winning up in second place and paying place ticket holders $12.90 per ticket.

In This Province

In Prince Edward Island, the season for ducks, other than wood ducks, will run from Oct. 1 to Nov. 24. The season for geese other than brant will run from Oct. 20 to Dec. 5 while the brant season will be from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30. The bag limit will be seven ducks and five geese for one day, or 100 ducks and 25 geese for the season.
