

Put Real Mustard in Your Kit

Right at the top of the list of camping necessities is a tin or two of real Mustard.

Men who fish and men who shoot know what a spiciness and flavour mustard freshly mixed with cold water adds to the ham, bacon, fowl, venison and other good things they eat in camp.

MAY SEYMOUR FOOT LOOSE
by BEATRICE BURTON ONEA

MAY SEYMOUR, whose husband killed himself because of her love affairs with JIM CAREWE, returns home after a year's absence. She disposes of her inherited property, and with $8000 in her handbag, sets out to find and marry a man with money.

At Atlantic City she meets a divorcee, CARLOTTA FROKING, and Carlotta's friends, HERBERT WATERBURY and DAN SPRAGUE. Both men pay suit to May, the mistress of Carlotta who has been in love with Dan for several years.

May, however, sets her cap for Waterbury having made up her mind that he is the millionaire husband she is looking for. She spends almost all of her ready money on a fur coat, and expensive clothes to create the impression that she is a wealthy widow. Finally Waterbury proposes, and May accepts him.

She plans to marry him within a week before he has a chance to slip through her fingers, and when the $12,000 from the sale of her house arrives she turns it over to him to invest for her in Dan Sprague's oil well. But immediately she regrets it when Carlotta, on the eve of her departure for her California home, warns May not to trust Waterbury too far. She hints that he and Dan Sprague and a mysterious third man named "Oliver M. Brunell" work together to put over shady stock deals.

POP

"Oliver M. Brunell—never heard of such a man," said Waterbury.

"Terrible woman been trying to tell her. That Dan and Waterbury and the mysterious 'Oliver M. Brunell' were a triumvirate that worked together to put over shady stock deals? That they were out-and-out crooks?"

Carefully May went over Carlotta's words in her mind, as she walked slowly back to the hotel, hardly realizing where she was going.

Certainly Herbie looked like anything but a crook. His blue eyes had a frank, open way of looking at you. He had the air, always, of a man who had nothing to conceal—and yet, wasn't there a slack, cruel droop to his lips? Sometimes, they laughed unpleasantly, too—

"If I were you, I shouldn't trust Herbie Waterbury too far," Carlotta had said.

"Good heavens thought May, this was a fine time to tell her a thing like that—when she had just turned over to Herbie every soul she had in the wide green earth! She groused aloud as she thought of what she had done—

The fur coat she wore, the diamond-studded watch on her wrist, the black pearl ring—these represented her whole fortune—these, and the $14,000 she had signed over to Waterbury.

Moreover she owed a large bill at the hotel. She hadn't even paid for the coat that she wore pinned to the seat, scented fur of her coat. Nor for the dinner she had given last night in honor of her engagement to Herbie!

"Oh, what a fool I was to part with that money!" she thought wildly. "Women are such simps—they ought never to be allowed to handle their own money. Some lawyer or other ought to do it for them—or a guardian—"

She stopped suddenly. Where had she heard somebody say that before?

Then she remembered. Waterbury himself had said it the night before, when he had dropped her bag with its roll of $500 bills!

"It was not the kind of thing a dishonest man would have said, was it?"

"Oh, I don't know—I'm so mixed up I can't think straight," May finally decided.

Only one thing was clear in her mind. She would have to go straight to Herbie and ask him to give her money back to her—

"But, if I do that, the chances are he'll get sore because I don't trust him, and refuse to marry me," she thought. She could see that

The One Sure Way To Good Health

Is Keeping the Blood Pure by Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Impure, weak blood is the cause of most of the troubles that afflict people. This is the cause of the wretched feeling of languor and faintness, pains in the back and side, headaches and breathlessness that afflict women and make her daily life a torture. Get new health and strength in the blood must be enriched. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do in cases of this kind is told by Mrs. Augusta Emery, Woolford Station, Alta. who says:—

"Living on the prairie, and knowing that there are thousands of women like myself miles away from a doctor, I want to tell them what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. After my first baby was born I seemed to have little energy. I felt weary and run-down and unable to do even the ordinary household duties. I felt I needed a tonic and as I had long seen Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised I decided to try them. I got a supply and carefully followed the directions and before very long the result was wonderful. Day by day I regained my former strength and energy. The pills seemed to give me a keen appetite and I gained in weight and soon was able not only to do my work about the house but to help with many chores on the farm. For this reason I would advise women, particularly those on the prairie or the farm, to keep a supply of these pills always on hand. One trial will convince you of their worth. I have recommended them to many of my friends and never have they failed to produce good results."

You can get these pills from your druggist or by mail at 59 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cholera Infantum

Cholera infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months and unless prompt action is taken the little one may soon be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent the dreaded summer complaints. They are an absolute safe medicine, being guaranteed to contain neither opiates nor narcotics or other harmful drugs. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

she also says that you have notypewritten "Oliver M. Brunell, turn up near Pittsfield! . . . Now what have you got to say to that?"

Waterbury opened his mouth to speak, ran his tongue over his dry lips, and then leaned back suddenly, as if someone had given him a push.

"Why?—what?" she stammered.

"Why?—what else did Carlotta have to say about me?"

"Nothing much," May answered, calmly, "except that you were a bachelor, like Dan. And that you and he were in on a lot of shady deals with a man named 'Oliver M. Brunell.'"

"Oliver M. Brunell—never heard of such a man," said Waterbury.

May laughed. "I thought you said he was the man who gave that cane to your father," she said. "You see, those are his initials—O.M.B." At that instant her eye fell upon the letter he was holding in his hand. It was a pale, blue, official-looking letter, and upon it was

LIVING-ROOM COMFORT
An arrangement both practical and artistic for the living-room is an easy chair with a large stool just the same height and size as the seat of the chair. When slumped up to the chair it makes a smart lounge and still it can be used as a convenient separate seat.
