Rules Governing Guardian "Famous Canadians" Contest

Everyone who is a paid in advance subscriber excepting employees of The Guardian and their families may take part. As many members of one family of a paid in advance subscriber may compete as desire and any subscriber may send in as many sets of answers as he or she wishes, but each set must be complete and will be judged individually.

The successful competitors whose subscriptions are paid farthest into 1932 will have the preference.

Clip the picture and coupon underneath it every day and write the answer on the blank line. Save all your clippings until the end of the contest and then send them to the "Famous Canadians" Contest Editor of The Guardian in one batch. Name and address should be included, clearly written or printed, and securely attached to your solutions. It will facilitate handling if you bind your solutions by sewing along the top, or using paper fasteners.

In sending more than one solution, each solution must be enclosed in a separate envelope.

Please attach sufficient postage as, otherwise, it may be necessary to refuse acceptance of the mail.

In case of a tie The Guardian reserves the right to publish one or more tie-breaking puzzles.

The judges' decision will be final in all matters, and The Guardian will not undertake to enter into correspondence with any individual regarding the decision of the judges.

DEFINITION

The words "Famous Canadians" as applied to this contest is taken to mean either individuals or families of Canadian birth, or individuals who although not born in Canada have gained national recognition in the past or in the present. Among the names eligible are such men or women as Edward Johnston, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Co., whose origin is Canadian, but whose chief fame has been gained outside his native country; and as Sir William Van Horne, railway builder, who although born in the United States, gained permanent recognition for his work in developing the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Mr. Landrigan who has been manufacturing in this city for four years and previously in Souris for three years is doing a very extensive business in the manufacture of woollen goods. This firm does all the work in connection with the manufacture of its commodities. The wool is sent to the mills by the customer and the product is returned in the form of finished blankets.

BRIDAL SHOWER—A very delightful social evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Mallett, Union Road on Monday, October 12th. when their daughter Helen, was the guest of honor at a tastefully arranged miscellaneous shower given prior to her marriage, which takes place in the immediate future. Upwards of sixty guests were present, and the varied and choice selection of gifts testified to her popularity, both in the community and adjoining districts. The shower presents were opened by Mrs. Harry Newman and the accompanying humorous verses were read by Miss Tillie Prowse. In a pleasing manner, Helen expressed her thanks to one and all for the tokens of their friendship and good will, and sat down amid applause and the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." Piano music, which added much to the enjoyment of the evening was furnished by Mrs. Fred Henderson. A bounteous supper was then served, and this being the concluding event of the evening, the party broke up shortly before midnight, the guests departing with many expressions of good wishes to the bride-to-be for her future happiness.

Investigations In Atomic Structure Are Summed Up

ROME, Oct 14—(A .P.)—The great problem of "what the world is made of" seems about to be solved, Guegliemlo Marconi said today in opening a meeting here of 50 world scientists.

The scientists, including seven Nobel prize winners one of them Madame Curie, gathered here to try to solve the mysteries of nuclei and electrons. Among those attending are Robert A. Millikan of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, and Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago.

Premier Mussolini, other Italian cabinet ministers, physicists of half a dozen nations and directors of the Alexander Volta Institute, under whose auspices the conference was called together, attended the opening meeting.

"Twenty five centuries have passed since Thales, first scientist of Ancient Greece, thought of the answer to the question "What is the world made of?" Senator Marconi said, "and only now in our day it seems that the great problem is about to be solved."

Reviewing recent discoveries of physicists who have been investigating the composition of the atom and paying tribute to Dr. Millikan's researches in charge of electrons, Marconi said that all these discoveries pointed to one idea—the unity of matter.

"This was at the bottom of the idea of the alchemists, which was derided by almost all great chemists and scientists in the last century," he said. "It is true that we can not do what the alchemists dreamed of, that is, change lead or mercury into gold.

"When that or something similar becomes possible we shall perhaps have another crisis of the gold standard and exchange.

"However, the Englishman Rutherford has already been able to obtain hydrogen from nitrogen, aluminum and other elements, demonstrating brilliantly once and for all that transmutation of elements is no longer utopian, but has become possible today within very restricted limits. Who knows where the future will take us?'

Marconi referred to the theory of Democritus that all matter consisted of atoms. He said that research es of modern scientists have shown that the atom consists of nuclei and electrons and have given surprising and encouraging results.

"Many," he said, "have full faith that in the atomic nucleus are hidden immense treasures which in the near future can be untilized for the benefit of humanity."

Police Baffled

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct 14. (By the Canadian Press)—Police were baffled here tonight by one of the strangest cases they have ever tackled. They have admittedly no theory as to who caused the death by strangulation of 13 year old Milton Koser, found in his bedroom yesterday with several pieces of cord and an elastic band around his neck.

His sister Ruth, 21, found his body on the floor of his bedroom when she came home. He was fully clothed and in addition wore a woman's broad leather windbreaker. It was on backwards. Over it he had a woman's heavy overcoat.

Theory that Milton was playing with friends and died as the result of a boyish prank is being considered by police.

31 SEATS TO BE CONTESTED

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 14 (By the Canadian Press)—Growing daily, the list of members of the 18th Quebec Legislature who face legal battles to hold their seats has reached 31 with many more to come.

Writs have been sworn in Superior Court against 28 Liberals and 3 Conservatives, members of the newly elected Legislature which is to assemble at Quebec City early in November. The writs charge election irregularities. Membership in the new Legislature will be 79 Liberals and 11 Conservatives.

A number of other contestations are believed to have been taken out in a number of constituencies but reports could not be immediately confirmed. Those whose elections have been challenged include the Premier of the Province, Hon. L. A. Taschereau, the speaker of the last Legislature, Hon. T. Bouchard, several Cabinet members and the probable House leader of the Conservative party, Maurice Duplessis.

The list, as available tonight, was: Liberal seats: St. Lawrence, St. Mary, St. James, Laurier, Mercier, St. Louis, Dorion, St. Henri Laval Maisonneuve, Jacques Cartier, all on Montreal Island, St. John's, Iberville, St. Hyacinthe, Temiskaming, Pontiac, Papineau, Richelieu, Quebec County, Montmagny, Matapedia, Matane, Chicoutimi, Levis, Dorchester, Bonaventure, Quebec Centre, Portneuf, and Montmorency. Conservative seats, St. Sauveur, Three Rivers and Yamaska.

Contestation on such a wholesale scale writes new political history in Canada and creates what political observers declare to be an impossible situation in the Courts Under the law three Superior Court judges must sit at the hearing of each case.

The actions against the Liberal members elect were taken following caucus here and in Quebec of defeated Conservative candidates. The Liberals, according to Premier Taschereau will contest few ridings. Both Premier Taschereau and Mr. Duplessis have issued statements deprecating the wholesale contestations.
