Notes by the Way

WHAT the Baldwin Government is losing ground in popular favor seems to be generally admitted, a loss that might have been anticipated, owing to various causes.

The Baldwin Government at this distance appears to be the best all round Administration that the Mother Country has had since the war, but since that era Governments have been limited to short terms of power in many countries.

The lack of an immigration policy has been in evidence at Ottawa from the beginning of the present Government's term of power. Premier King is in London and Hon. Robert Forke, the Minister of Immigration recently addressed the Liberal Association at Winnipeg.

How different and how irreconcilable the announcement of the Prime Minister in London is from that to which his Minister of Immigration is seriously considering in Canada is at once apparent.

That Mr. Hoover is preparing to spend some three million dollars in his Presidential campaign is a statement that is going the rounds of the press. It may or may not be true, but the legitimate costs which may be incurred by a candidate in persuading millions of electors to vote for him, are very great, without any resort to bribery.

A tax on bachelors has been imposed by Mussolini. In this he repeats an ancient Roman law, as in other matters he has favored the return to the traditions and practice of imperial Rome, which he admires.

That Body of Hours. By James W. Burton, M.D. VALUE OF BLOOD TO OTHERS, AFTER AN ILLNESS.

During the Flu epidemic in 1918-19, it was the custom to ask those patients fully recovered and about to leave hospital, to give a small quantity of their blood, about an ounce or two, which was injected into the blood vessels of cases of Flu seriously ill with broncho-pneumonia, which so frequently followed the flu.

In some patients with a temperature of 104 degrees F. after one injection of this convalescent serum, it is called, the temperature came down to 100 degrees F. and never did go up again, the patient recovering in a short time.

Now Drs. C. Wesselhoef of Boston, and F. F. Gordon of Northampton, Mass., tell us of an experiment with measles serum. They found that single doses of a serum made from the blood of measles patients who had recovered, had the effect of markedly reducing the severity of an epidemic of measles which invaded the scarlet fever and diphtheria wards.

Q. How many places are named Toronto? A. The name Toronto is applied to nine different places in North America, including the city of Toronto as the capital of the province of Ontario. The others are Toronto, Florida, with a population of 300; Toronto, Illinois, a small settlement; Toronto, Iowa; Toronto, Kansas; Toronto, Missouri; Toronto, Ohio near the Pennsylvania border, and Toronto, Texas on the Southern Pacific near the Rio Grande.

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE?

ALMOST daily the local Liberal organ treats its readers to an editorial rhapsody on the effectiveness of prohibitory law enforcement, at the same time indulging in vituperative abuse of all and sundry who dare to express dissatisfaction with conditions as they are in this Province.

The explanation that "since the Police Department has been provided with a patrol motor car the drunks are gathered in with far greater facility than heretofore" will not satisfy even the most ardent political prohibitionist.

Obviously from the bootlegger, who in turn is supplied by the rum-runner. These law-breakers, encouraged by the pious pretense that conditions are as they ought to be, are meanwhile plying their calling and their victims appear in increasing numbers in the courts.

The Saunders Government came into power on the pledged assurance that it would give this Province the best prohibitory law enforcement in its history. The failure of the Government to carry out its promise is notoriously evident to all who wish to see.

OVER PRODUCTION.

IF only one of the world's great countries were engaged in producing the world's food, the problem would be a comparatively easy one. The trouble at present is that practically every country in the world is engaged in providing the food supply and although in a general way the quantity that each country produces is pretty well known, yet there are the uncertainties of harvest and of weather conditions, so in reality the project is largely a matter of guesswork.

many, Poland and Algeria there was a considerable falling off.

There is little to indicate how many of these increases or decreases represent permanent trends and how many are due to temporary post-war readjustments. Similar uncertainty prevails in connection with other food products, so that in spite of the improvements which are being made in collecting agricultural statistics and the increasing accuracy of international crop reporting, there is little concrete material to assist the farmer in determining whether to increase or decrease the acreage sown to a particular crop.

This season the potato producing sections of Canada have learned much concerning the uncertainty connected with this commodity. That there has been over production here because of over production elsewhere is now known. The only safe guide in the matter of production is the old Greek maxim cautioning a wise man between extremes. It takes all kinds of food products to feed the world, and the solution of the question will necessarily be found in mixed farming.

DO WE NEED PROTECTION?

THE Ottawa Journal points out that during the month of August, according to figures issued by the United States Commerce Department, Canada sent the United States $85,850,000 for American goods. Nearly $3,000,000 a day.

During the same period United States purchases from Canada totalled but $43,239,000—about a million and a half a day. To put it another way, during the month of August, Canadian purchases from the United States were at the rate of about $8.50 for every man, woman and child in the country. American purchases from Canada were about forty cents for every man, woman and child in the United States.

And that isn't the whole story. Most of what the United States bought from Canada was raw material. Most of what Canada bought from the United States was the finished product—Canadian raw material turned into a profit for the United States.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The strength of emphasis is largely in the manner of expression. Thomas Fuller once said of a certain clergyman that he would pronounce the word "damn" with such emphasis that it left a doleful echo in his auditors' ears a good while after. The word is rarely heard in the pulpit today.

Mr. Hoover, Republican candidate for the Presidency of the United States, claims that the protective fiscal policy introduced by the Republican party had built up the industrial prosperity of that country, and he intends to stick to it. What protection has done for the United States would do also for Canada.

Curious the sagacity of the Post Office in identifying different cities by the alleged character of their inhabitants. Not long ago a Chiloan sent a letter to a friend addressed, "The Good City," and it reached the party in Toronto without delay. More recently, a correspondent in Boston mailed a letter addressed to "Hellfacts, N.S.," and sure enough it was sent immediately to the capital of the only prohibition province on the mainland, where it was delivered at the right
