SHEEP DOGS PROVE WILY OLD TACTICIANS

LONDON, Sept 8.— (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—This is the time of the year when, in many a rugged shire of the North, the countryside is agog over Sheep Dog Trails. Probably no contests of skill are presented under more natural conditions. A tract of rough ground, a cart for judges, a few hurdles, and a dozen or so of sheep - - - these comprise the simple paraphernalia. The town-dweller is not likely soon to forget a day at the Trials, such as those held at Dougarie, on the Isle of Arran. Dougarie is one of the shooting-boxes of the Duke of Montrose. We visitors motor to Dougarie across the shoulder of the island from Brodick. Passing through one of the valleys we notice, on the sky-line, a mile or more up on the purple-covered hillside, a stag. He bounds off when the noise of the car reaches him. We are to see him again, though.

The place for the Trials is on a hillside looking over the Sound of Kilbrennan. There are many pairs of competitors. Most of the shepherds are no longer young. Their dogs, too, - - - unkempt rather, and not too sociably inclined - - - carry themselves with the gravity which comes of increasing years and a sense of responsibility. Half-way or more up the hill is a cart into which clamber the two judges. They signal for the first pair of competitors to begin. A shepherd and his dog take their position at a flagstaff. Away on the top of a hill four sheep are released. The spectator really needs a pair of glasses, unless he has exceptional sight and is accustomed to this sport. The sheep, with natural natural simplicity, welcome their release and straightway set about to browse. But only for an odd minute. The shepherd at the flagstaff half a mile away has given the soft word to his dog, who starts off at his speediest. But by no means in a straight line. Wary old tactician, he makes a flanking movement of a width such as army commanders in the war vainly used to dream of. The dog's swift and sweeping journey brings him well to the left of the sheep. Far as he is from them the sheep have sensed him, and are beginning to move in their usual erratic fassion. The grey-haired shepherd, tied by the rules of the contest to the flagstaff is watching keenly. He gives a soft but penetrating whistle. On the instant the dog flattens himself on the heather. The sheep stop galloping and herd together. Now another whistle and the dog moves off again. Another whistle and once more he lies flat. At length he has manoeuvred the sheep into position for a straight run to the pen of four hurdles.

The shepherd is now permitted to leave the flagstaff and approach the hurdles. With the help of the dog he has to pen the sheep. He must not touch either the dog or the sheep. We all know how sheep can put the sublimest jay-walker to the blush, but one ought to behold a Sheep Dog Trial to appreciate what a healthy respect for doing what he is wanted is engendered in the most obstinate of the sheep species when he has a wise old dog at his heels. The latter has one eye for the sheep and one for his master, and neither shepherd nor dog allow themselves to be flustered. Without hurry or fuss the sheep are penned within a minute or so, and the hurdle is made fast.

This, in its simplest elements, is the manner of conducting Sheep Dog Trials. There are extra tests in most contests, such as separating a particular sheep from the rest. The great object is to pen the sheep, or to divide them, in the shortest time. When a competitor is finished his dog obediently comes to heel. Another shepherd and his dog take their place at the flagstaff, four more sheep are released on the hillside, and the same test is repeated. The trials last the greater part of the day. Finally there is the prize-giving. The Duke of Montrose and his party were present at the trials at Dougarie. Arran Island belongs to her Grace the Duchess, who inherited it from her father, the Duke of Hamilton. When we all gathered in a circle and the trophies were handed out the Duke offered a few pleasant sentences about the gentleman who at present rents the shooting at Dougarie. Motoring back to Brodick that evening along the narrow road we overhauled the winner of the chief event, clasping the silver cup, his partner in the day's triumph jogging close at heel. Both were about to take to the fields to reach their hut, so we could not offer them a lift, but the man gave an appreciative if restrained sort of grin when we waved our congratulations. The dog took no notice. He appeared indifferent to the salutations of any-one but his master.

We did not see the stag on the hillside again that evening. But next day, when we were on another road, we encountered a couple of keepers resting in the heather. A dead stag was alongside. A little further we passed the tall figure of the Duke, carrying his gun.

KINGS COUNTY

A very large exhibit of sheep was a feature of the fair. It was noted that the number of the black faced breeds shown is on the increase, while the white faced breeds are falling off somewhat. The quality of the animals was better than that of any year preceding. Mr. F. F. Baird of the Dominion Livestock Department judged this class as well as the swine. The average quality of the latter was also better than former years.

In the Drill Shed where the agricultural products were shown perhaps the greatest improvement was noticeable. Potato experts were seen to view the exhibits of tubers with an enthusiasm and pleasure, to which they were not slow in giving voice. Other vegetable exhibits were correspondingly improved.

The poultry exhibit was larger than last year and was also of better quality.

Three bags of flour were donated by W. A. Poole and Co., Lower Montague for the best loaf of bread made from Regal flour. This class drew a large number of entries.

In the ladies section the culinary exhibit and the needlework department were up to the usual high standard always maintained in Kings County.

THE OPENING

The exhibition was formally declared open at 11 a. m. by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who in his remarks commended the improvement made in the Exhibition from year to year. He suggested larger prizes for the work of the Women's Department.

Mr. D. P. McKinnon, president of the Exhibition Association made a few brief preliminary remarks, and addresses were delivered by Mayor J. Howard McDonald, Premier Lea, Hon. P. A. Scully, and Mr. J. W. Boulter.

The premier expressed his pleasure on the quality of the exhibits. The roots and vegetables shown were better, he thought than any exhibited at any of the larger exhibitions or fairs abroad, indicating that Prince Edward Island is the best million acres in Canada. In connection with his recent trip the Premier stated that the corn produced in Ontario is not as heavy as that grown this year on the Island, while the turnips were not as good as those seen between Georgetown and Charlottetown. Quebec has not as good a crop of grain as that harvested here. The professor of the Division of Botany in the University of Pennsylvania who visited the Island recently with the Pennsylvania potato growers, stated that he could grow 1,000 bushels of potatoes to the acre on Prince Edward Island. The Pennsylvania farmers were surprised at the low price of land in this Province and at the low road tax. Splendid opportunities are offered in this Province for farming. The population could be increased by 25 percent, and the production by 100 percent, Premier Lea stated. The Province requires better roads, and it is hoped that it will be possible to do even better than has been attempted in the past.

Mr. J. W. Boulter Secretary of the Prince Edward Island Potato Growers Association in a practical address to the farmers, referred to the visit of the Pennsylvania potato farmers who represent one and one half times the potato acreage of the Island. A letter has been received from the Agriculture Superintendent of the C. N. R. Montreal stating that at an executive meeting of the party held before leaving Quebec a resolution was passed expressing the delight and pleasure of the trip to P. E. Island. Another resolution was passed condemning the United States Government for increasing the tariff on potatoes exported from Canada to United States. Such a resolution is sure to be of advantage to Prince Edward Island. Through the efforts of the Prince Edward Island Potato Growers Association the tariff has been kept for the last two years at about one half of what it otherwise would be.

A careful survey of the probable yield of potatoes in Canada this year indicates that there will be no increase, Mr. Boulter stated. Saskatchewan and Manitoba will have an increase, Quebec a decrease, Ontario a decrease, Prince Edward Island a lighter crop than last year.

Colt Time Tied At Brockton Fair

CHESTNUT BURR OUTSTANDING; MANY PROMINENT DRIVERS AT OPENING

BROCKTON, Mass., Sept. 10—Cestnut Burr, the two-year-old son of Chestnut Peter and Nita Guy, owned by Frank C. Niles, of Kansas City, Mo., and driven by Walter Britenfield, was the outstanding harness speeder at the opening day of the Brockton Fair card today, trotting a mile in 2.08 1-4 equalling the record for a colt over a half mile track.

Chestnut Burr's half-sister, Nita the Great, from Charles Mosher's Greenfield stable, was much the best of the 2.24 trotters, winning in straight heats over a field of eight starters.

Will Flemming had quite a task getting Margaret Grattan, owned by the Mahoney Brothers of Hyde Park, home ahead of Mordkin Mort Knight and Peter Gagnus in the first heat of the $2,000 race for 2.15 class pacers. Prince O., nine-year-old son of Lu Princeton and Owassia, took the 2.16 class trot in straight heats.

Foremost drivers of New England and the Maritime Provinces appeared including Britenfield, Crozier, Flemming, Nay, Brusie, Lasnes, Pickle, McGrath, Mosher and Kingsley.

"Give me a start" begged the auctioneer. "I have here a genuine Queen Anne sideboard, the only piece of its kind known to the world. Give me a start!"

"Fourpence!" said someone obligingly.

The auctioneer nearly fell from the rostrum. "I asked for a start," he said contemptuously.

"Well, you got it, didn't you?"

Angry Father: "Look here, Doris, I won't have young Jones bringing you home at midnight."

Doris (calmly): "Well, father, who else do you suggest?"

Little Spencer was on the carpet for errors in his home lessons.

"Tell me truthfully," said the teacher; "who did your home lessons?"

"Father!" burst out the child.

"Quite alone?" questioned the teacher.

"Oh, no!" Spencer replied. "I helped him."

For commercial use, Mr. Boulter warned, Prince Edward Island must do away with small potatoes this year, and there is no reason to believe that potatoes will not bring a good price, although economic conditions may keep the price from soaring. The speaker would not advise the farmer to market his product now.

—WHALES STILL PROBLEM—Attempts to dispose of the whale carcasses at Percival River by burning them have proved fruitless and expensive. Kerosene was poured on a number of them and ignited but this did not prove effective. It is proposed to dig a trench above the high water mark and drag the carcasses into it with horses and thus dispose of them by burying.

—CLERMONT—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Creed, Sr., from Montague, spent the week end in Clermont—Mr. Heath Foster, Marshfield, motored to Mills Point on Sunday.—Miss Helen Mill spent her holidays at her home in Clermont.—Mr. A. Cole, French River, motored to Marshfield on Sunday.—Miss Bessie Mill, Clermont, her friend, brother and sister, motored to Marshfield on Sunday.

—IMPROVING WAREHOUSE — The warehouse immediately opposite the C.G.R. Depot in Kensington is receiving some practical improvements. The owners, P. McNutt and Sons, have elevated the building about four feet and have excavated a cellar four feet, thus giving under capacity eight feet deep. This will afford safe storage for 6,000 cubic feet of perishable farm products. The work was performed by Mr. Harry Duggan, Sea View, with an able body of assistants. The work itself displays evidence of the practical ability of the contractor and the extreme care in developing details.—Y.

—ALASKA MINK ARRIVE IN PERFECT CONDITION—Mr. James Pendergast of Kensington purchased a pair of mink kittens from Juneau, Alaska, recently. The mink were shipped on August 29th and arrived in Summerside on Tuesday night, September 9th. The mink, from Alaska, Yukon strain, are as nice a pair of mink as one would wish to see. They are almost six months old and are very lively and healthy. The shipping crate they came in was very compact, and although small gave the animals every comfort. The express man, who has seen hundreds pass through Moncton, said it was the most complete crate he had seen, which no doubt accounts for the animals splendid condition. This is Mr. Pendergast's first attempt at raising these little animals.—S.

—NORTH BEDEQUE COMMUNITY CLUB—The monthly meeting of the club was held in the Community Hall on Tuesday evening of last week with Mr. D. B. MacDonald in the chair and a good attendance present. Interest was keen to hear one of "the native born" on the platform in the person of David Schurman, of the Experimental Station, Charlottetown. The subject, too, aroused interest for the address was on "Beautifying the Homestead." There was a brief preliminary program of readings and music as usual, Mrs. W. N. Jenkins, of Lower Bedeque, and Mrs. W. C. Schurman, of North Bedeque, furnishing the music in the form of duetts, with a reading by Rev. Mr. Nicholson. The address was most informing, giving full and detailed instruction of a practical kind about the need and value and methods of decorating the grounds about the house with trees, shrubbery, and flowering plants. Mr. Schurman emphasized first the need of setting apart for a lawn or yard about the home of a certain area for the exclusive use of the human tenants of the farm as against the usual custom of letting other animals, especially hens, ducks and geese, claim all the grounds right up to the doors and walls of the home. He showed by means of actual samples of trees, shrubs, and flowers, the best means of removing the usual bareness, and adding to the cosiness and beauty of the surroundings of the farm house. He dwelt upon how easily and how cheaply this can be done by the person of ordinary intelligence and means, just by doing a little at a time, and profiting by experience. He assured the public that at any time the Experimental Station would gladly furnish advice as to varieties, costs, methods of planting to any persons who would write for such advice. North Bedeque will likely profit next year by this lecture, and the travelling tourist will open his eyes to see the improvement made in the home surroundings.

—Miss Dorothy Cox, who is training in the New Hampshire Hospital, U. S. A., is spending her vacation with her mother, Mrs Cox, of Summerside. Mrs. Cox and family leave this week for Charlottetown where they will make their home.—S.
