P.W.C. Completes Successful Year

Commencement Marks Close Of First Term As Junior College—Work Of Session Commended.

The first commencement exercises of Prince of Wales College, as a junior college, were held yesterday morning, when nine students graduated from the institution. The session of the college was well filled with friends and relatives of the students. Premier MacMillan presided. The Principal, Dr. S. N. Robertson, reviewed the year's work in his address. His Honour Lieutenant Governor DeBols, who presented the prizes, diplomas, and certificates, stressed the importance of education to the man engaged in agricultural pursuits and to the business man. Mr. H. H. Shaw, Chief Superintendent of Education, outlined briefly the development of Prince of Wales College, and referred to the functions of a junior college. The Premier stressed the importance of maintaining a high academic standard, and stated that it was proposed to raise the standard in the teaching profession by the refusal of licenses to individuals under eighteen years of age, and eventually by requiring an additional year of academic training.

Growth of College

Prince of Wales College dated from 1860, and in 74 years had made a great growth. Its attainment had been reached by natural growth. Fifty years ago about 100 students had enrolled. From 1879, when women students had been admitted, the body had shown a measurable increase. Three or four years ago the students had numbered 350, and that was the number at the time when the plans for the present building had been made. The new building had been planned with that number and the natural increase in mind. The Principal doubted if the government had been prepared for the large increase of the last three or four years. At the present time the student body numbered 600. There might be several explanations for this great increase. Whether it was the development idea of the real use of the institution to the province or whether it was a reaction to the depression was difficult to say. There was now a Fourth Year class of twenty and an increasing commercial class of 60 or over, which had increased the number. It was a very satisfactory condition to find

ROBBERS ARE REPULSED BY BANK GUARD

Six Bandits Frustrated In Attempt to Rob South Holland Savings Bank.

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) CHICAGO, May 25.—A bank guard who had watched months to avenge his son's death today repulsed a band of six armed bandits, killing one of them outright, mortally wounding another and disabling a third.

Stomping the banks in the quiet little suburban town of South Holland the six bandits found themselves trapped. Before they could fire a shot, one of their number was dead, another dying and a third hit and staggering. The others dragged the third man into their car and fled completely routed and in flight.

The guard was Jacob P. De Young, 53 years old. Four months ago his only son was killed in the same bank by, police said, the same hold-up gang. De Young routed the robbers with five shots from a high-powered rifle. Those who could flee ran out into the fire of three or four vigilantes recruited on five minutes' notice to trap the gunmen.

Four escaped, leaving one dead and one dying. Three hours later a speeding car slowed before the Jefferson Park Hospital on the south side of Chicago and dumped out a wounded man who, police said, was Isadore Pincus, one of the South Holland gang. Hospital attaches said he was near death from loss of blood.

The dead man was identified as John Cozzi, 21, of Chicago. The fatally wounded man, police said, was Ben Tocco, 19, also of Chicago. He died from loss of blood late today.

South Holland was prepared for the robbers. Shortly before opening time for the South Holland Trust & Savings Bank, Police Chief Leonard H. Lagesteep split a small, fast sedan existing past the bank today.

"I think it's a stickup," he told Charles E. Waterman, President of the bank. De Young mounted his post. A steel shield on the balcony of the bank, commanded a clear view of the floor below.

Lagesteep hurried across the street of Dutch truck farmers, and warned Neal Van Kanegon, garage owner. Van Kanegon got out an elephant gun. Lagesteep loosened two pistols in their holsters.

The bandits' car stopped. One man took to a station at the bank door. Another waited in the car. Four went in. All were masked.

"This is a stickup," the leader shouted. Then came the time De Young had been waiting for since they found his son, Picer, 31, dead in the bank last Feb. 10.

He drew a bead on the leader and shot. The bandit buckled and dropped. De Young swung his gun toward the second man, climbing up an eight-foot partition to get at the money drawers. One shot knocked him from this perch.

DEATH OF ARCHBISHOP NEIL MCNEIL

Head of Roman Catholic Church In Toronto Was 82 Years of Age.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) TORONTO, May 25.—Most Rev. Neil McNeil, Archbishop of the Toronto Archdiocese of the Roman Catholic Church, died at midnight Archbishop McNeil, who was 82 years of age, died in St. Michael's hospital. He was head of the Roman Catholic Church in Toronto for 22 years.

The aged prelate entered the hospital on May 10 with an intestinal ailment with angina. There were complications of the bladder and kidney trouble. Doctors decided an operation was necessary and it was performed May 15. The operation was successful and the Archbishop appeared on the road to recovery.

Pneumonia appeared, however, May 16, and Archbishop McNeil became gradually weaker. He had received the last sacraments before the operation.

Mother St. Martin, provincial superior of the Maritime Provinces of Congregation of Notre Dame, is a sister of the late Archbishop. Archbishop McNeil was the eldest of a family of eleven children, raised in Hillsborough, N. S. His father was Malcolm McNeil, a blacksmith and descendant of the McNells of Barra, a little island in the Hebrides.

While a boy Archbishop McNeil worked at the forge in his father's blacksmith shop. He was a keen student and advanced quickly, his ability in mathematics receiving receiving praise from his early teachers.

In 1896 he labored among the Roman Catholics of Newfoundland, spending 8 years in that country, journeying along the rugged coast in row boat and sailboat to visit his parishioners. He became Archbishop of Vancouver, Mrs. Christine Macdonald of Antigonish, N. S., and Rev. Mother St. Martin.

He was author of numerous publications on education and while in Toronto concentrated his activities in this field. He is survived by five sisters. They are: Mrs. Peter Smith and Mrs. Archibald Chisholm, both of Toronto; Mrs. Catherine Macdonald of Vancouver; Mrs. Christine Macdonald of Antigonish, N. S., and Rev. Mother St. Martin.

LEGION REPUDIATES REPORT

Returned Men Shown Every Consideration In Work At Rifle Range.

Interviewed by a Guardian representative regarding an article which appeared in yesterday's Patriot, Major F. B. Conrad, M. M., President of the Charlottetown branch of the Canadian Legion B. E. S. L., stated that there was some trouble in the first days of work which was started at the Kensington Rifle Range, owing to a misunderstanding between Mr. H. R. Large of the Employment Committee of the Legion and the engineer in charge of the work, both of whom acted in perfectly good faith. Major Conrad took up the matter in the afternoon, with the Patronage Committee and the trouble was quickly adjusted to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

Both he and Mr. Large feel that the Government has shown the returned men every consideration in this matter, as is evidenced by the fact that seventy percent of the men now working are war veterans. This percentage will be maintained. While only about twenty are now employed on the Butts, a much larger number will be needed in about a week's time.

Barthou Outlines French Policy

(By Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, May 25.—Aroused by war talk in the Chamber of Deputies, Foreign Minister Louis Barthou today vigorously outlined a policy of seeking peace, which involved refusal to disarm France or to agree to any rearmament of Germany.

"We don't want war," asserted the veteran minister, who, in the same speech, promised to take a strong stand on the matter of disarmament, which involved refusal to disarm France or to agree to any rearmament of Germany.

"The government will act with all the energy you wish."

Stressing the importance of the safeguarding of the independence of Austria, M. Barthou declared that while the government never interfered in the domestic affairs of another nation he had indicated to Chancellor Dollfus of Austria the advisability to ease the repressive measures against the Socialists imprisoned following the bloody Vienna riots.

Natives Killed By Wild Beasts

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) LISBON, May 25.—Snarling, man-eating lions are making raids on villages and spreading terror in the interior of Portuguese East Africa, it was reported to the government here today. One white woman and several natives are known to have been killed by the beasts, communications stated.

The government has offered a large prize for each lion slain, and a number of hunting parties have been organized.

SCOUT CONCERT PROVED GREAT SUCCESS

Interesting Program Presented By Boys Last Evening In P. W. C. Hall.

A programme of sketches, songs and gymnastics put on by the City Boy Scout troops and Cub Packs under the distinguished patronage of His Honour Lieutenant Governor DeBols at the Prince of Wales College Hall last evening proved a huge success.

Ranging from the opening chorus down to the "Tantalizing Trio" the various numbers were run off with precision, exactness and so skillfully rendered that they brought rounds of applause from the large audience.

The harmonizing in the various choruses, etc., and the carrying out of the special acts reflected much credit on the Scout leaders and Cub Mistresses. The "Tantalizing Trio" composed of Bill Trainor, Lorne Calbeck and Niall Burnett, impersonating a group of world-beat radio artists provided a fitting climax to an evening of mirth and entertainment. Among the out of town guests at the concert was His Worship Mayor Lidstone.

The scouts are deeply grateful for the help afforded them by Mr. Austin Trainor in respect to "make-up" which greatly aided the appearance of the personages on the stage.

CONFERENCE ON ADULT EDUCATION

Prof. L. W. Shaw Attended Meeting For Organization At Toronto.

Professor L. W. Shaw of Prince of Wales College returned last evening from Toronto where he attended a conference on adult education convened by the Department of Extensions of the University of Toronto. Purposes of the gathering were to determine as far as possible the nature and extent of activities in this field, as carried out in the different provinces, to exchange ideas as to methods and materials, and to consider the advisability of some organization which might serve to co-ordinate the many scattered agencies now at work.

Nearly a hundred registered delegates and many interested visitors were in attendance, representing every province and almost every agency at the work in Canada. The conference met in Convocation Hall under the chairmanship of Mr. W. J. Dunlop, Director of Extension Work in the University of Toronto, and opened with two interesting addresses on adult education, one by Mr. F. G. Thomas, London, England, representing the World Association of Adult Education, the second by Dr. G. E. Beck of New York, representing the American Association of Adult Education. Both these men emphasized the fact that adult education must be a movement rather than a rigid organization. It is the individual rather than the large group that forms the centre of the work. The remainder of the first day was given to hearing reports from the delegates as to the work being carried on in different parts of Canada. The points of most general interest in these reports were the amazing amount of educational work that is being done among those whose formal schooling has ceased, and the widely divergent points of view as to what constitutes adult education. In the evening the delegates met at dinner at Hart Hall, the delegates and many others were the guests at dinner of President Cody of the University of Toronto, who during the course of the evening delivered a very fine address on the place of adult education in the life of the people.

The second day was given to a discussion of the reports of the delegates and of the committee which had been appointed to consider the formation of a national adult education association. After considerable discussion it was decided to appoint a temporary committee representative of the different provinces and the interests concerned, whose duty it would be to survey and further encourage and extend the work now being done, and to formulate plans for a coordinating organization for the whole of Canada. The Maritime members of this committee are: Professor A. B. Macdonald of St. Francis Xavier, Mr. W. K. Tibert, director of vocational training for New Brunswick, and Prof. L. W. Shaw of Prince Edward Island, who also represented the group of six Canadians who studied adult education in Scandinavia a year ago.

Previous to the conference this group of six had met in Ottawa to discuss the work which they had been doing since returning to Canada last Autumn, and to consider the problems likely to arise in the Toronto convention. The group had been asked to have one of their number give an address on adult education in Scandinavia. L. W. Shaw was chosen to give the address before the conference on

Soldiers Fire On Mob At Toledo

Yelling Crowd Of Strike Sympathizers Hurling Back By Revolver Fire—Appeals Made To Radical Elements In Nearby Cities For Assistance.

TOLEDO, O., May 25.—Khaki-clad national guardsmen whipped out their revolvers late today and fired on a brick-bat hurling crowd of 2,000 yelling strike sympathizers whom tear gas had failed to disperse. The troops, whose rifle fire yesterday killed two and wounded several, rushed the rioters' lines in Elm Street in a sudden foray after sporadic clashes throughout the day. The crowd scattered quickly at the first shots. Firing as they ran, the soldiers pursued the strikers and their friends down alleys and between houses.

Almost simultaneously two truckloads of soldiers whizzed to the downtown district to break up a shouting throng of 500 around the police station.

"We're going back to get help and we'll be back here and stop you," screamed the rioters as they retreated.

Stephen Kardo, 29, an employee of the Electric AutoLite Company, whose plant has been the centre of the strike disorders since Tuesday, was beaten severely by a group of rioters and carried to a hospital. Almost nude, he ran from the riot zone into the vicinity of the police station with howling men in pursuit. Officers rescued Kardo, who has been called a "scab."

At twilight another brick barrage started. It was the crack of rifle and spectators said a guardsmen had fired at the fringe of the crowd.

A 2-year-old boy was hurt in an early afternoon tear gas bombardment of rioters. He was struck by a gas projectile, pulled ambulance came striking to the scene. Guardsmen arrested five men. A gas bomb which one strike sympathizer plucked up and tried to hurl back at the soldiers exploded, but he was not hurt.

E. H. Dunnigan, assistant to Charles P. Taft, in attendance at the mediation of the strike, said after leaving a committee of automotive strike leaders: "The mediators have presented to the Union Committee a proposal for ending the strike."

"If the committee approves it, the proposal will be presented to a meeting of the union members later. If they accept it, the strike will be ended."

Meanwhile, Card Lind, Secretary of the Cleveland Regional Labor Board, reported to the National Board in Washington that a settlement plan was being arranged. Specific points of dispute, he said, will be left to arbitration later.

The strikers have demanded a 10 percent pay increase, recognition of their union, and seniority rights. Reports that quantities of dynamite had been smuggled into the city last night brought a careful scanning by police and the troops of any suspicious movements.

"Appeals have been sent to the radical elements in nearby cities to send all available men into Toledo to aid the rioting," asserted J. Arthur Minch, manager of the AutoLite Company. This information and the reports of the dynamite, Minch said, came to him from a detective agency.

The fourth successive day of rioting found the guardsmen in tin helmets, taking the barrage of missiles head down, they fixed their bayonets and guarded the strike town area with machine-gun nests. When a crowd became too large or unruly, the troops hurled tear bombs.

Charles P. Taft, son of the late President, who is a special mediator, representatives of the Regional Labor Board in Cleveland and other state and federal authorities worked hastily to patch up some sort of a truce in the extended battle which already has cost the lives of two men. Five other men have been wounded by rifle bullets and perhaps 80 others have been injured less seriously. A twelve-year-old boy was bayoneted in the thigh.

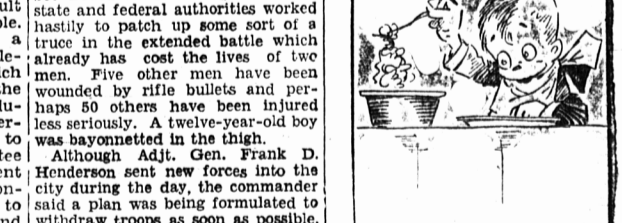

Although Adj. Gen. Frank D. Henderson sent new forces into the city during the day, the commander said a plan was being formulated to withdraw troops as soon as possible. Soldiers first came yesterday, and their number was swelled to the 1,000 mark today.

Wednesday afternoon. After two busy and profitable days the conference concluded to be called for further organization within a year. Among the prominent delegates present were Dr. L. C. Klinek, President of University of British Columbia, Dr. E. A. Corbett, head of the Department of Extension in University of Alberta, Dr. Fletcher, Deputy Minister of Education, Manitoba, Dr. W. E. MacNeill, Queens University, Dr. Filteau, Deputy Minister of the Catholic section, Quebec, Mr. Skinner, Assistant Superintendent of Education, Nova Scotia, Dr. W. L. Grant, Upper Canada College, and Rev. George MacDonald, St. Dunstan's University, Charlottetown.
