

IN THIS CORNER
The quiet that has reigned in boxing circles hereabouts for the past several months will be broken on Monday night next at the Sporting Club when Tom Claybourne, reigning Island champion of the light-heavyweight class, will fight against the slashing fists of 'Bomber' Shepherd.

The scrap was originally intended for Thursday night but both fighters anxious to be in the best possible shape asked to have the date advanced to Monday next.

Giving away plenty in the form of experience and boxing skill Shepherd nevertheless is being offered a good chance of dethroning the champion. One of the hardest hitters in the Province today the 'Bomber' with around three years experience inside the ropes has piled up quite a string of knockouts over both good and mediocre opponents.

Always on the forward move Shepherd is of the opinion that a good offensive is the best defensive in such a manner he has fought all his fights with great results. When he connects he hurts, and it doesn't make very much difference to him whether he has to take two or three stiff punches just as long as he can get in punching range.

But Monday night he will be facing by far the best opponent he has ever met. Claybourne, a wily, smooth southpaw battler is just as smart a boxer as is on the Island today. He has proven that many times in addition to this also possesses plenty of TNT in either hand.

Usually Claybourne can make in an opponent fight his style of battle and this has also brought results. Whether he can make Shepherd do the same thing remains to be seen but if the challenger is to capture the title he will have to figure out a way in which to beat the finest defence possessed by an Island mitt-slinger.

Both boys are rapidly nearing the peak of their fighting form and both are predicting a victory. Claybourne will enter the ring favored to win but should the Bomber connect with one of his free-swinging punches then the fur is very liable to fly.

Claybourne while strictly a boxer nevertheless can mix it plenty with any opponent when stung and if this should happen to be the case on Monday night then fans are almost certain of witnessing a grueling two-fisted scrap over the mile distance.

Interest is rapidly mounting in the scrap and with several other good bouts already lined up a large crowd should be on hand at the Sporting Club the night of June 1st to witness Promoter Joey McDonald's first card of the season.

With nearly 100 percent of the local balloters in uniform there is rather a drab outlook on baseball for the coming season. Now and again a few inquiries are made as to the prospects of having a league in operation but on the whole the attitude is that no intermediate teams will be in operation.

However there are plenty of juniors on hand to form a good junior league and with no competition coming from the intermediates it should be a good time to give juniors a boost and help the youngsters along to the status they enjoyed two seasons ago when a three-team junior league flourished all season and the ultimate Island winners gave a great account of themselves in the Maritime playdowns.

Lawson Little Confident Of Regaining Title

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—Batting up the hill toward the first division, the world champion Yankees snatched both ends of an American Baseball League doubleheader from Washington Senators today 12-4 and 3-1 for a record of six victories in their last seven starts. The first game was a sizzling adventure with the Yanks collecting 14 hits and the Senators 12 while the nightcap was a tight pitching duel between Rookie Marston Breuer of New York and Little Rene Montague, Washington's Cuban southpaw. Breuer gave up seven hits in obtaining his fourth victory and the only run scored against him was a homer by Buddy Lewis in the fourth. Montague permitted nine hits. Dickey hit a home run with two on. Gordon hit his fourth homer and two doubles. Detroit Tigers pulled within a game and a half of the second-place Indians on Al Benton's excellent relief twirling at Cleveland. The 8-5 outcome represented the Tigers' second straight American Baseball League victory over the Tribe. Cleveland shelled Hal Newhouser from the slab in a third-inning rally which produced four Cleveland runs. Detroit's 11 hits—the same number Cleveland garnered—included six doubles. The Browns defeated Chicago White Sox in both ends of a doubleheader, 10-9 and 7-5 at St. Louis. The sweep put them in sixth place. The Browns had three home runs and the White Sox four during the long afternoon.

Hot Shots On Baseball Front

By Judson Bailey
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—The grapevine is loaded with rumors that there is an ominous buzzing in Boston's beehive. One version is that Commissioner K. M. Landis is exerting pressure on owner Charles Adams to choose between baseball and horse racing. The Bee's owner also owns the Suffolk Downs Race Track. Reports have been around for some time that Landis refuses to let him use any of his personal funds to assist the Bee. Like Hamlin, Brooklyn Dodgers' pitcher, isn't really named "Luke" — his parents christened him simply "L. D. Hamlin." Bucky Walters rests in the dressing room instead of participating in batting practice before a game in which he is going to pitch. Jim Tobin, the big right-hander the Boston Bees obtained from Pittsburgh, has been sent to a hospital for another week's treatment. He hasn't worked an inning this season. The reason Billy Myers was out of the Cincinnati lineup so long was that Eddie Joost made only one error in 21 games at shortstop. Brooklyn pitchers have given up some 30 home runs already. Bill Stewart has been the plate umpire for the National League's last three no-hit games.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD INFORMAL PORTRAITS OUTDOORS

Excellent likenesses, and a "story idea," make this picture a fine example of a good informal portrait snapshot.

EVERY family album or picture collection should include good informal portraits of the family members. But many amateur photographers do not know how to take informal portraits, or realize how these differ from other popular types of pictures. In the first place, an informal portrait should not resemble a formal studio portrait. They are entirely different—and, as a matter of fact, the formal portrait can be taken much better by a professional photographer who has a light-equipped studio, with proper lighting equipment, and a sound technical knowledge of portraiture. The two main requirements of a good informal portrait are, first, a good likeness of the subject or subjects, and second, a suggestion of action or a "story idea." In fact, the informal portrait is closely akin to the "story-telling" type of snapshot. To obtain a good likeness, indoors or out, you need a nicely balanced lighting on the subject's face. A lighting, in particular, that is not too "contrasty." Indoors, such lighting is easily obtained by using two photo bulbs—one to illuminate each side of the subject. Outdoors, a pleasing soft lighting can be obtained by placing the subject in open shade—for example, on the shady side of the house, under the open sky. For a lighting with a little more "sparkle," place the subject in sunshine, but use a reflector (such as a white sheet or large card) to illuminate the shadow side of the face. In the picture above, the sun is at the right, and a white house to the left acts as a reflector. The subjects held still for this shot, and to insure plenty of exposure for the shadows, the picture was taken at f/8 and 1/25 second, on average speed film. The same exposure would be correct for these subjects in open shade. The story idea, of course, is obvious and gives the picture added interest value. Try to include such a story or "theme" in each of your informal portrait snaps of the family—and you'll find the pictures have more enduring appeal.

31 Speed Drivers Will Make Up Indianapolis Race

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28 (AP)—Thirty-one United States drivers, one Argentine and a Frenchman with a damaged car will make up the starting field Thursday for the 28th running of the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. The French entry is the Italian Masterati driven by Rene LeGros, a French soldier. The car threw a piston arm through the crankshaft this morning. Bernard Musnik, manager of the French team, said it could be possible to transfer to LeGros's car the motor used in the driven by Rene Dreyfus, eliminated today. Dreyfus will serve as "alternate driver." Billy Devore of St. John, Kas., and Floyd Davis of Springfield, Ill., won starting places today.
