MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—The Bayer Studio have placed in their operating-room the most up-to-date background made for photographs. It is most beautiful in colours, and some idea may be had of the work it is intended for, when the painting of the goods, only 6 ft. by 8 ft., cost $50. Mr Bayer is one of the few in Canada having one of these grounds; and, if possible, it will make his Christmas photos more artistic than ever. 6291

THE WHY OF THE CONFLICT.—Special attention is directed to the article on page nine of this issue on "The Why of the Conflict. For What are the Nations Fighting?" by Leon Goldmerstein. Now that the war is the all-absorbing topic, everybody should learn all that can be learned about it, its cause, its progress and the hoped-for result. Germany is fighting for an expansion of its country far beyond its present frontiers. Her success would mean maintaining the present militarist system, with all its ugly influences on the life of the German people; and most likely a still greater deepening of the gulf between the governing military aristocracy and the common people. The Allies are chiefly fighting for the crushing of the spirit of militarism as the governing conception of the life of the great states of Europe. Peace will not bring either the permanent end of warfare in Europe or the Millennium in France and Germany. But peace will make life in Europe livable, which it is not today. That alone is worth fighting for. Read the article carefully and learn the "why."

PATRIOTIC MEETING.—A meeting in aid of the Field Army Service Fund and other patriotic objects will be held in the Public Hall at Peake's Station on Monday, November 2, at 7 p. m. Excellent addresses will be delivered by Mr Justice Fitzgerald and other able speakers. Everyone should make it a point of going to this meeting.

Admission, 25 cents. 6299-10-27m31

FROM THE CONTINENT.—Mr H. Ronald Stewart, son of Mr D. B. Stewart, this city, has been heard from. He sailed with the first Canadian contingent, and writes from Plymouth under date of 14th October. Arrived here today, safe and sound, after a fine passage of 10 1/2 days from Gaspe Basin. Thought we were to land at Southampton, but had orders last night to come here. . . . Sighted Land's End yesterday about 7 p. m., and came up with lights out, as we did all the voyage. . . . Perked boats, destroyers and cruisers were very numerous. Saw Eddystone Light, saw monument to Drake, the Hoc, and many of the "wooden walls of old England" as we passed up the river. Had a great reception—thousands cheered us. . . . Oh, the green fields and hedges, it is a sight never to be forgotten. We anchored in the stream off the dockyard at Devonport, which is just beyond Plymouth. Our ship was the second to arrive, all the ships (31) are here now. Believe the English Channel is considered unsafe for us, so we came to Plymouth. . . . The horses came over in good shape, only lost about 1 lb. Do not know where we camp, as little or no information is given out. Will write again when we get to camp.

FOX MEETING.—In the Board of Trade room last night there was a meeting of the shareholders of the Upton Silver Black Fox Company. An additional dividend of two per cent was declared, and this, together with the 10 per cent dividend paid some time ago, represents a total dividend for the year of 12 per cent. It was decided to add two and a half pairs of foxes to the stock of the Company, reducing the capitalisation to below eleven thousand. The officers were re-elected as follows:—President, Mr C. H. Black; Vice-President, Dr S. R. Jenkins; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr E. R. Brow; Directors, Messrs Robert Stewart and D. O'M. Reddin. The meeting decided to enter into an agreement with the keeper of the foxes for the care of the animals during the coming year.

FROM THE AGRICULTURAL GAZETTE.—The Agricultural Gazette for October gives some interesting information re field roots and garden seed supplies. Last year the importations from France at the port of Toronto alone amounted to 4,821 lbs. of radish seed, 1,865 of cabbage, 95 of cauliflower, and 6,825 of garden beet, 320 lbs. of garden carrot and 1,202 of celery. Canada obtained 1,909 lbs. of parsnip seed from Germany at the same port; 1,285,198 lbs. of beet and mangel seed were also obtained from France and Germany. The question is where are these seeds to come from for the seeding of 1916. The European crop for the seeding of 1915 was good and has been well gathered besides there is a considerable reserve supply which can be drawn on but the people of these countries are not likely to do much selecting of mother plants this autumn. Canadian farmers and growers should therefore make a special effort to produce a fair proportion of their own requirements. There is no mystery about growing these seeds. If some medium-sized roots are selected or tops not taken off too closely the roots also left on to some extent, these plants stored in a cool cellar and set out next spring in ordinary soil, nature will do the rest. Turnips, cabbage, beets and carrots give a heavy yield per acre and the Department of Agriculture is providing bonuses in order to encourage the growing of these seeds. This will give an excellent opportunity for the Agricultural and Educational Departments to try out their home project work. School teachers would do well to think of this and encourage their older pupils to make preparations this autumn by selecting the plants before they are harvested.

THE MINTO ARRIVES.—The D.G. S. Minto, Captain Read, arrived in Charlottetown yesterday afternoon, where she coaled. The Minto will undergo extensive repairs here preparatory to her winter's work. The Captain was accompanied by Mrs Read and children, and with them he will visit his former home in Summerside this week. Captain Read is one of the best mariners in the Dominion and under his command the Minto recently made a remarkable trip, covering in seventy-five hours a distance of a thousand and odd miles on her way from Hudson Bay to North Sydney last month. On the 25th August she left North Sydney carrying equipment and material for nine light-houses. She reached Fort Nelson on September 9, after a delay due to shortage of coal, which held her up at Burwell Island for three weeks. During the tedious wait at this dismal place, the officers and crew made the most of their time in hunting and fishing, and in the latter were well paid for their labours. According to chief steward Mr William Scott, there is no better fishing ground anywhere, and he carried back with him sufficient good sea food to last him six months at least. While the steamer was lying about two miles off Mansell one night, chief officer W. E. Sencaubaugh, who was standing in the forward part of the steamer, heard loud sounds coming from the water. The officer, who is an expert with the rifle, ran for his weapon, and on his return saw a large bear and two cubs swimming. He first shot the mother and then shot each of the cubs. The work of placing the buoys and erecting nine light-houses occupied about four weeks, and reflects

STAIN NOT THE SKY

(By Henry Van Dyke in the Independent)

Ye gods of battle, lords of fear, Who work your iron will as well As once ye did with sword and spear, With rifled gun and rending shell, Masters of sea and land, forbear The fierce invasion of the inviolate air.

With patient daring man hath wrought A hundred years for power to fly, Where flocks of human eagles sail, Dropping their bolts of death on hill and dale?

Ah, no, the sunset is too pure, The dawn too fair, the noon too bright, For wings of terror to obscure Their beauty, and betray the night. That keeps for man, above his wars, The tranquil vision of untroubled stars.

Pass on, pass on, ye lords of fear! Your footsteps in the sea are red, And black on earth your paths appear
