DRIVE WOMAN FROM TOWN AS A WITCH

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 13.—The cruel old days of Salem witchcraft have been revived here. Mrs. Meta Immerman, a poor seamstress from New York, was put in jail and then yesterday driven out of town.

In the week she was here Mrs. Immerman was insulted and mocked, her baggage was thrown out of her lodgings, and she was stoned, arrested and thrown in jail. Mrs. Immerman came to Allentown to take the Knapp barfoot treatment in the hope of restoring her eyesight, almost destroyed by overwork.

She took the treatment under John Kloss, who lives in a hut near town. She gave her address as No. 849 Central Park west.

The Y. W. C. A. sent her to the home of George Kipp, a butcher at No. 207 South Thirteenth street. In the house were also John Sobera and his young wife, soon to become a mother.

Mrs. Immerman was tall and angular, hair just a shade gray, and her faded gray eyes peered through very thick glasses.

On the fourth day John Sobera came home suffering from indigestion. He consulted a "pow-wow" doctor one of many in his town, who told him he was the victim of an evil spirit.

Then the Kipps and Soberas began to remember things. They remembered, Mrs. Immerman's strange diet of raw eggs and nuts and her nightly excursions to the city park to take the barfoot treatment in the dewy grass. That night, when the Kipps went upstairs to bed, they passed Immerman's room. The door was open and she was in bed. Kipp says her eyes burned like cats.

News like this travels. The next day the neighbors were saying that Mrs. Immerman was a witch and could make fire flash in her fingers. They had seen the electric flashlight she carried at night to help her near-sighted eyes, but didn't know what it was. That day little Winnie Kipp didn't feel well. When Mrs. Immerman came home she found a note on her bureau ordering her to leave the house. She could not afford to do so until the week she had paid far was up.

Next day she was hooted on the streets. At dusk she returned to find her trunk on the porch. She pounded on the door because she wanted the trunk key that was in her room. The Kipps called the police. The crowd yelled "Witch!" as she was taken away, and boys threw stones at her. She was in jail forty-eight hours.

In this city of 50,000 there are twelve Dutch "pow-wow" doctors who "cast out devils" and feed on the superstitions of their followers. Mrs. Sobera's baby cried the first week of its existence—another proof it was bewitched. Soberas now wear charms made of sawdust and broken needles. Cabalistic crosses are now chalked above each door in the Kipp home. On the front door are seven crosses with mystic quirks about their intersecting points.

PLUMBERS AND STEAMFITTERS RETURN TO WORK. CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 14.—An agreement reached between rival factions in the building trades will bring to an end a strike which has prevailed nearly a year, has cost the building industries of this city millions of dollars, has entailed the murder of at least three men, the kidnapping or assassinating of a fourth and the beating and maiming of more than 100 others.

It is agreed that the parties will have their members return to work on all jobs now on strike. The parties also agree not to interfere with the shops or employees who are at present employing members of either the United Association of Plumbers or the International Association of Steamfitters, pending the decision of the coming convention of the American Federation of Labor which is to be held at Atlanta, Ga., in November.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 15.—A double tragedy which offers unusual elements of mystery, is revealing on a little farm north of Minneapolis. In the cellar of the farm house, terribly beaten was found last evening the body of Mrs. Walter Bolton, wife of a bar tender, while under a few inches of fresh earth in the garden, was discovered the body of an unidentified man.

PRIEST SCORES WOMEN'S DRESS

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 15.—The Rev. Father Henry Ryan, curate of St. Mark's Church, Dorchester, yesterday morning attacked the present style of tight-fitting skirts and the headgear worn by the woman of today.

Father Ryan was delivering a sermon on "Be not too mindful of what ye shall eat, and what ye shall drink or wherewith shall ye be clothed." He declared the tight fitting skirts as hideous, and the false hair women wear comes from sick people and criminals, and is unhealthy.

He said in part: "The hideous tight skirts, drawn about the bodies of women today are uncanny in the extreme. Some of them hardly allow the wearer to move one foot ahead of the other, while they are so tight they cannot stoop to pick up a pin."

"The false hair that women wear often comes from sick people or from dead bodies or criminals. Some of the make-ups are hideous. He also criticized the brightening up of sallow complexions with powders and paints, and declared that "Christian head of women should not be allowed by the hideous propensities now today."

Father Ryan admonished the women to be natural, like the flowers of the field. He asked them to be as God had intended them to be, natural, not artificial. Such things he said were diametrically opposed to God's law.

IMPOSSIBLE TO REACH TOP OF ETNA

Attempt Made on Saturday a Failure

Special to The Guardian. CATANIA, Sicily, Sept. 17.—An attempt was made Saturday to ascend Mount Etna but was impossible to reach nearer than fifty feet from the craters owing to the intense heat and the thick smoke.

The eruption of lava continues near its source, flowing swiftly like water and out-distanced the men who raced it.

CATANIA, Sicily, Sept. 15.—Clouds of smoke from Mount Etna hid the sun, and made the atmosphere in the vicinity intolerable today. The volcano continued to throw out lava, cinders and ashes from the craters, and a hundred new fissures.

The river of lava, flowing forth has separated in a number of streams, the largest of which is moving toward Alcantra and is two miles from Francaville. The railway station of Sollichiata is in imminent danger. It is estimated that the eruption has caused so far a property loss of $20,000,000.

SHAKERS MAY WIN FREEDOM

KISSIMEE, Fla., Sept. 14.—Quietly going about her duties in the little Shaker settlement at Ashton, Sister Elizabeth and Brother Gillette today seemed all unmindful of the grim charge of murder hanging over them. Not a sign of regret for their gruesome relief of the dying sister whose agonies they soothed with chloroform which brought death was shown by either as they worked about the little truck farm of the Shaker settlement.

The exhumation of the body of the dead Sister Sadie proved the story of her death as told in the confession of the couple who, in answer to her pleading, asked her to "pass from the body." It also disproved an ugly tale that had been circulated as to the cause of the woman's death.

TORONTO, September 15.—Sir Donald Mann, who has just returned from a trip as far west as Victoria, British Columbia, says there is no truth in the report of negotiations now under way whereby an interchange of traffic between the Canadian Northern Railway and the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway may be arranged.

Regarding the Winnipeg Electric, Sir Donald said that there was nothing new, the offer of sale being at the moment in the hands of the legal advisers of the municipality and the company, who are embodying the position of both sides.

STOLYPIN IS LIKELY TO RECOVER

Bullet Grazed Liver But May Not be Fatal

Special to The Guardian. ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 17.—The latest medical examination of Premier Stolypin shows that the bullet grazed his liver.

There has been an increase in pain experienced by the Premier but the temperature remains normal and hopes for his recovery are entertained.

KIEV, Sept. 15.—There appears to be grounds for the hope today that P. A. Stolypin, Premier of Russia since July 1908 and one of the strongest officials that the government of the empire has developed in recent years would survive the attack of an assassin, fired upon as close range.

A detailed statement from the physicians was awaited with anxiety this afternoon but a dispatch sent to the premier's brother, Alexander Stolypin, at St. Petersburg in the early morning stated that the patient's condition was "very satisfactory" and the surgeons had not deemed an operation necessary.

Their tentative judgment was that the bullet had wounded the pleura and grazed the liver. The pulse of 70 was recorded. Following his removal from the play house the wounded man slept for four hours after the first consultation was held. The first intimations of the probable outcome from those in attendance, was that the premier had been dangerously wounded, but probably not fatally. The assassination was attempted under circumstances that lent themselves to a great dramatic scene.

The would-be murderer, a junior member of a legal firm, and the son of a well known attorney chose a moment when attention had been withdrawn from the second act. The curtain had fallen on the second act, and the Emperor and members of the Royal family were in the Imperial box. Premier Stolypin and his associates in the ministry sat in the front row of the pit. The Premier was speaking to the Minister of War and Count Polotsky. It was 11.30 when Bogrov, in evening dress moved down the centre aisle and drew a revolver like a flash. He emptied it point blank at the Premier.

TWENTY-FOURTH CHILD IN THIS FAMILY

QUEBEC, Sept. 13.—Mrs. J. B. Michaud, of Levis, is the proud mother of her twenty-fourth child, who, by his appearance the other day, about the 11.30 when Bogrov gave P. Michaud an opportunity of expanding his chest and strutting about the burg across the river filled with manly pride and perhaps a little pity of his neighbors, who did not live in such a prolific atmosphere as he.

The shock is a frequent visitor in the Michaud household, where there is always a warm greeting for him. There is a tinge of sadness to the history of the Michaud family, however, and the hearse has often left the door, bearing away another loved one to the little narrow lot in the cemetery. Nineteen deaths have occurred in the family since Mr. and Mrs. Michaud started housekeeping, and only five children survive to bring the name down to posterity.

SUDDEN BLINDNESS STRIKES AVIATOR

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—Stricken with blindness in Broad street station today, while on his way to York, Pa., to arrange for a series of exhibition flights in that city, Thomas J. Towler, a Boston aviator, was led to the Haberman Hospital by a baggage master and placed under the care of physicians.

Doctors told the young man that in their opinion his sight would never return, and he later employed a man to act as his guide back to his Boston home, where he will seek the advice of skilled oculists.

The young aviator declares his eyes were injured while watching blacksmiths at work on his machine a day or two ago. The mechanics, he explained at the hospital today, used electrical machines to weld parts of his monoplane together.

The machine emitted a light stronger than the most brilliant arc light and he says he watched them for more than an hour with no protecting glasses.

SEPTEMBER HEAT IS PARIS RECORD

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Never has there been such a September in Paris. This statement may appear exaggerated. However, the fact remains that to find anything approaching it one must go back to the exhibition year; but 1900, though hot, had at all events some rain. This year, 1911, is one of drought and intense heat.

Those who have passed the summer at Paris would be amazed were they to look back at the weather reports for the month. The daily maximum and minimum thermometer records compared with those of the previous year and the entries of extreme temperatures corresponding to days since 1874 show as nothing else what blazing days the capital has seen. They must go back to August 23 to find the statement that it rained yesterday, and then it was not really rain, but merely a shower in the early morning.

Since then on several days it almost looked as if the drought were coming to an end and that rain might fall on the morrow, but the record of the following day shows another cloudless 24 hours. August 31 it was overcast from dawn to sunset and the temperature was appreciably cooler. Then came the first day of the new month. The thermometer had shown an average and the mercury several times has maximum of 30 degrees centigrade reached 34 and even climbed to 36.8 degrees on Saturday last. A glance at the record of extreme temperatures since 1874 shows that this is far above the average. Taking the temperatures of corresponding dates since 1873 one finds from the readings for the first twelve days of September an average of 25 degrees centigrade. This year's average is 30 degrees.

A LIBERAL CANDIDATE IS ELECTED

Irregularities in Nomination Papers the Cause

Special to The Guardian. MONTREAL, Sept. 17.—J. A. C. Ethier, the Liberal candidate in two Mountains, has been declared elected owing to irregularities in the papers of his opponent.

The Nomination of Fautex, Conservative, was only in part on official paper and certain declarations were not made as required by law.

GIRL'S PARENTS TOLD HER NOT TO SALUTE THE FLAG

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 15.—School authorities here have taken time to consider action with reference to Catherine Audsley the 14-year-old girl who has refused to salute the American flag and take the oath of allegiance.

The State Board directed Supt. Shull to send in a detailed account of the affair and they will give him further instructions by return mail. This year the school law requires the saluting of the flag and renewing the oath of allegiance every morning. In conversation with a reporter Mrs. M. F. Audsley said that her daughter acted as she was told to by her parents.

Mr. Audsley is a British subject who never became a citizen of the United States. A few weeks after Catherine was born she was registered as a British subject. Her mother says that if the child saluted the American flag and took the oath of allegiance to the country, she would be acting improperly. The girl's father came to New York and placed the matter before the British Consul, who informed him that he would send to the proper authorities in Perth Amboy the papers confirming the statement that Mr. Audsley's children are bona-fide subjects of Great Britain.

Some time ago the local authorities were forced to send for the Audsley children to attend classes as they were of school age. Catherine was directed to the grammar school and Douglas to School No. 1. If the assertion that they are British subjects is established, then, according to some of the authorities, Truant Officer Meshrow had no right to force them to attend school.

Supt. Shull explained the law Wednesday, and said it is up to the State Board to act in conjunction with the Attorney-General.

Mr. Audsley when seen last night, said: "I don't prohibit my children from paying all the respect due to the American flag, if they are allowed to eliminate the oath of allegiance."
