

Instant Relief for Asthma, Bronchitis and Hay Fever

Originated and Offered by A. W. WEBBER, Patentee

One of the most eminent Asthma Specialists says: "I have not seen one who, if there were no serious complications, no matter how long the duration of the Asthma, could not be cured"

The discoverer and originator, also says:—"It is unfortunate that the current idea among general practitioners as to asthma is that it is incurable; for there is no distressing and disabling diseased condition more amenable to correct handling than asthma. Every case of uncomplicated asthma, properly handled, will improve, most will get well."

The discoverer and originator, a sufferer of 18 years of advanced asthma, in a very acute form, has had such experience of its excellent effects on all sufferers in any and all stages as to justify his statements.

C. E. W. Dodwell, Halifax, Resident Engineer, Public Works Department, of Canada, writes:—"I have no words adequate to express the relief and satisfaction that I have derived from the use of Webber's Anti-Asthma Spray (ANTAZMA) in the past month."

A Sister of Charity at Mount St. Vincent says:—"I had suffered for years from very severe attacks of Asthma until your treatment gave me immediate and lasting relief."

Sheriff Hall, Halifax, writes:—"For the past forty years I was a sufferer from Asthma, during which time I tried many remedies, none of which, however, gave me more than temporary relief. In December, 1921, my attention was called to Webber's Anti-Asthma Spray, (ANTAZMA Treatment) and I at once purchased an Atomizer and small bottle of the spray, and after using same from time to time I received such relief that I have no hesitation in recommending it to any victim of Asthma."

Mrs. Ross, Halifax, was troubled with Asthma for 21 years. After trying many remedies she first tried ANTAZMA Treatment the middle of last December, under the advice of her doctor, when suffering from a serious asthmatic attack that had lasted three weeks, day and night, with a physician and trained nurse in attendance. Two physicians stated they had never seen anybody suffer so much with Asthma, but four applications brought complete relief. She was up within three days and able to do her household work for the first time in years.

Mrs. Moses, 69 Primrose Avenue, Ottawa, writes:—"I received the refill for my Atomizer, and many thanks. It surely is a wonderful appliance, and I can assure you I am very grateful for your kindness and hope that you will soon have it on the market here to relieve many suffering with Asthma. I am wonderfully improved and know when I use it more freely than before I will be perfectly cured."

GOING BACK

Chapter 90

"Would you think me rude if I left you?" I asked. Colin looked at me in surprise. There was enough light from a big swinging arc on the corner for me to see him plainly.

"What do you mean?" he asked in return, though he must have guessed at once. "Would you think me rude, if I left you and went—up there?" I looked again at the yellow glow from the windows of my old home. Colin looked very much troubled.

"Of course I wouldn't think you rude," he answered. "Only—it isn't a question of rudeness." He took my arm and began to lead me down the street. "Don't do anything too impulsively," he began. "That's one of your faults, Connie. You'll stand almost anything, then you go off your head suddenly."

"And do the wrong thing," I finished, as he hesitated. "Yes."

We walked on down the street. I do not know why Colin wanted to get me away from the apartment house, unless he felt that if it were out of sight it would be out of mind too.

"Do you think it would be wrong to go back—to try and make it up again with Win?" "No. But I'm not sure this is the time."

"Why not?" He walked on, fairly urging me along. "Why not?" I repeated. "Didn't you just say that Win had come often to the exhibition to see my well, that he isn't entirely indifferent?"

"Let me go back alone," I said. "And come and have luncheon with me tomorrow, and I'll tell you all about it." He smiled a little as he held out his hand. "If he doesn't go down on his knees and beg forgiveness he ought to be whipped," he said. I almost ran down the street, my heart beating so rapidly it nearly choked me. I went into the big hallway—for the first time in more than a year. The huge Turkish rug on the marble floor was still there and the mirrored walls against the mirrored floor were still there. There was a new man at the elevator—I was glad of that. I did not want to be recognized and gossiped about.

"Mr. Taylor, please," I said. And as he went to the telephone to announce me, "Never mind, I am expected."

He stared at me curiously. I held my head high, trying to look calm. But he said nothing more 774-9-121.

Down in my heart there was a little exultation. It increased every time I thought of what Colin had told me. If Win had taken the trouble to hunt out my picture and look at it—it had taken him to an art exhibition alone, a place he would never have dreamed of going to certainly seemed to me a sign that Win cared.

Monday—The Unexpected He that would relish success should keep his passion cool and his expectation low. A crown, if it hurts us, is hardly worth wearing. Nothing is so improving to the temper as the study of the beauties either of poetry, eloquence, music or painting. They give a certain elegance of sentiment to which the rest of mankind are strangers.
