374 OUT OF 718 STUDENTS FAIL

(By The Canadian Press) HALIFAX, Sept. 27—Overcrowding of Halifax schools is responsible chiefly for the great percentage of failures among the students writing high school entrance examinations according to G. K. Butler, City Superintendent of Schools. In the grade eight final examinations at the end of the last school year, only 374 out of 718 students were successful—slightly higher than 50 percent. Grade nine students fared only slightly better. Undoubtedly, Superintendent Butler declared, "one of the chief contributory causes of the situation is the lack of sufficient accommodations." There were too many pupils in each class, he said, and as the result teachers were unable to give the proper attention to their pupils. Added to that, he said, was the fact that pupils were pushed ahead faster than they should be to ease the pressure of those coming up from lower grades. Many of these were graded without filling proper requirements, he insisted, and could not meet the higher standards of the next class.

WOMEN INSISTED ON APPLE TREES

(By The Canadian Press) VANCOUVER, Sept. 27—The Maple Ridge-Pitt Meadows Fair Association is asking residents to dig up relics of the past from the barn and attic. How about some apples from the 96 year old trees of James Robertson? someone asks. There are apple trees at Fort Langley grown from seed saved by the wives of Royal Engineer officers who, hearing of their way out of the newness of the country, determined that there should be apples. This is a new version of the story above Eve and the apples. Two kinds of people are necessary for a strong committee. Some to make speeches and some to do the work. The fellow who thinks no other man can cover his territory is paving the way for a new name on his Company's pay roll.

TIPS FOR JACK FROM 4-YEAR-OLD

(By The Canadian Press) SAINT JOHN, N. B., Sept. 27—Back from the sporting district of the southwest Miramichi River comes Jack Russell of Saint John with tales of a former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, Jack Sharkey, the Boston bar, who is there getting his fill of some of the best of the famed New Brunswick salmon fishing. "Sharkey is a fine chap," said Jack. "The thing that made us all like him right from the start is his human quality. My four year old son Billy heard of him saying that Jack Sharkey was coming. When the ex-champ arrived, Billy came in. "Is Jack Sharkey here?" he asked. "This is Jack Sharkey," the big boy said. He picked Billy up on his shoulders and added that they were going to be 'great pals'. And maybe a little boy wouldn't get a thrill out of that—being pals with a former world's champion. "The two of them spent half an hour that evening wrestling around on the bear rugs in the living room of the big camp. "The next day," he concluded, "I went outside and there was Jack Sharkey practising casting just in front of the house. And there, too, was Billy, showing him how. "Am I doing it right?" Jack was asking. "Don't whip your rod back so far," Billy instructed, "and watch your pause on the back cast." "That was the way it was all the time. The famed boxer seemed to like nothing better than being told how to get along in the back woods by a four-year-old kid.

SEES EUROPEANS LOOKING YANKEE

(By The Canadian Press) NEW YORK, Sept. 27—A growing vogue for "looking American" in fashionable European circles was reported by Mrs. Toke Collier Davis, stylist on her return from abroad. "Many European women are going in for sports and business activities in emulation of American women," the stylist said, "and looking American is apparently beginning to be fashionable."

Creamery Butter And Factory Cheese

The production of creamery butter in Canada in 1933 was the second largest in quantity in the history of the industry, being exceeded only by the year 1931. The amount produced in 1933 totalled 218,537 pounds, an increase over the preceding year of 4,850,129 pounds or 2 per cent. The increase in value amounted to $2,906,045, the total value of the butter made in 1933 being $43,381,524, as against $40,475,479 in 1932. With regard of this year 1934 for the seven months ending July 31st, creamery butter increased 6.3 per cent over the same period last year. Present indications would suggest that with the August production taken into consideration, the output for the eight months ending Sept. 1st would be more than 5.5 per cent above that of the previous year. There were eighteen fewer dairy factories in operation in 1933, the total number being 2,716. Creameries, numbering 1,236 showed an increase of 17, but 1,126 cheese factories were 46 less in number than in 1932. Combined butter and cheese factories, 331 in number, showed an increase of 14. Ontario and Quebec are the principal cheese producing provinces, the former with 73 per cent, to the total of 1,126 pounds in 1933, and the latter with 23 per cent. The combined production of the two provinces represents 90 per cent of the whole. Compared with the cheese output of 1932, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia were the only provinces in 1933 to show increase. Canada's production of factory cheese totalled 111,044,828 pounds, a decrease from 1932 of 9,479,619 pounds or 8 per cent.

If your foot slips you may recover your balance in 1933, but if your tongue slips you cannot recall your words.
