and in London on the 30th day of June next. After a most enjoyable luncheon provided by the wives of the members of True Brothers Lodge the Brethren attended divine service in the United Church, Crapaud, where Brother W. A. Patterson of Stanley Bridge delivered a most inspiring address.

The various reports presented during the day indicated very clearly the progress this ancient fraternal institution is making in Prince Edward Island and the prominent part it plays in the social and charitable life of the province.

As the Grand Chapter of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island Royal Arch Masons is meeting in Charlottetown the previous day it is anticipated there will be an unusually large representation of members from Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Concluding Sessions Today Convention sessions will be held this morning and afternoon when the remaining reports and committees will be tabled and reports given by the resolution and nomination committees. This afternoon from 4 to 6 His Honour Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. DeBlis will be at home to Women's Institute delegates at Government House.

My report will be brief," she said, "for the reports of the supervisor and those of the various committees cover the year's work in detail." The object of the Institute was to provide a means for women to discuss rural problems, and to acquire information regarding their responsibility as home makers and as citizens, both of them objects which are all worth while. From that annual meeting in Stony Creek the work has grown to 29 countries of the world. It represents in this way a large number of rural women working together in one unit, in an effort to make a better rural world.

"We are a democratic organization," the President continued, "no one knows too much or too little, no one is too young or too old, to be a member of this great organization. From Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary, the Queen mothers, who are co-presidents of the Women's Institute at Sandringham, to the most lowly subject, we have the same rights and privileges. We do need the adventurous spirit and enthusiasm of youth, and we need definite objectives to concentrate on rather than scatter our energies over too many things."

The convention, the President believed, should give women the opportunity of coming together, getting acquainted with each other, finding out the privileges and limitations of other communities and exchanging ideas on objectives. It is only by the opportunity of comparison that one can see one's own situation in a true light. The President threw out a distinct challenge to the delegates when she said, "we dream of healthy, happy homes and a prosperous country side, and it is women can make that dream come true. In more ways than one the future of our race lies in your hands."

SUPERVISOR'S REPORT

"To the Honorable William R. Dennis, Minister of Agriculture and to the representatives from the various Institutes assembled in annual session, it is my privilege to submit the twenty-fourth annual report of the Women's Institutes of this province," Miss F. Jean Rodd said.

"The year has been one which has been marked by an event of great national significance, an event which has kindled the hearts and united the races of a vast Empire, and an event of importance to our women's organizations as well, in that in the crowning of a new Queen, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth became joint President of the Sandringham Women's Institute with its first and only royal President Her Majesty Queen Mary."

"It has been a year in which the links formed at the Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World at Washington have been soldered into a mighty chain of friendship and understanding, uniting in a common interest, women of every condition and people of all nations. The continuous progress in every line of Institute work in which our two hundred and fifty-six local units have been engaged during the past year has been accomplished only by the constructive and coordinated efforts of the whole membership. Our members everywhere have shouldered the burden of bringing health, strength and beauty into community life.

"Today we extend a hearty welcome to our guest speaker, Miss Doris Baker of the Department of Education, Truro, N.S.; Miss Ellen S. Adams, V.O.N. of Glace Bay, N.S.; Mrs. M. M. Coady, Director of Extension Department, St. Francis Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S.

Seventeen Branches Organized

"Seventeen Institutes have been organized since our last convention, namely: Fortune Bridge, Hamilton, Sinnott Road, Inverness, Kingston, Iona, Halliburton, Fort Augustus, St. Ignatius, Alberry Plains, Lincoln, Pownal-Alexandria, St. Mary, Ross, East, Park Corner, and Glen William. Roseville and Rollo Bay East were re-organized.

"Each Institute is organized to serve a district need, but in the complexity of human nature motives vary and interests differ. Each club should have a definite goal of achievement—a dream which can and should be realized. And the process of realization may be a very satisfying experience which will keep alive the torch of service, the flame of which will reveal new lessons to learn, needs to meet, and problems to solve. We wish you joy in every undertaking.

"To our Standing Committee we owe a debt of gratitude and we take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of their work. They have spent considerable time and effort in the preparation of their questionnaires which have brought in a satisfactory number of replies. There has been considerable increase in the demand for program material. During the past year we have sent out two thousand five hundred and sixty-six (2566) papers on different phases of Standing Committee work and on entertainment suggestions.

"The first requirement in order to hold and to increase membership in any organization is to promote a serious program. Institutes must offer an opportunity to acquire knowledge as well as to enjoy social contacts. Only the promotion of a well balanced program can accomplish the desired ends. Although the financial statements show a slight decrease in the total receipts and expenditure, we are pleased to report that the total amount raised by the Institutes amounted to twenty thousand one hundred and sixty-five dollars and forty-nine cents ($20,165.49) and the total amount expended thirteen thousand one hundred and eighty-seven dollars and forty-two cents ($13,187.42). As usual extensive community work has been carried on. Improvements have been made which cost two thousand three hundred and fifty-two dollars and twenty-seven cents ($2,352.27). The sick and visiting committees of the various branches are doing a noble work in bringing cheer to the sick and shut-ins. A great deal of charitable work has been done by our Institutes during the past year for opportunities for charitable service have been many. Patients have been sent to the Sanatorium and food and clothing have been given to the needy; four hundred and sixty-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($464.25) has been expended for charitable purposes. In addition donations to the T. B. League Sanatorium, hospitals and orphanages have amounted to three hundred and ninety-seven dollars and thirty-three cents. ($397.33). Two hundred and fifty dollars ($250) was also donated to the T. B. League from the Sinking Fund.

Public Health of Interest

"Public Health and Child Welfare continue to be of interest to all and the Institutes have served as valuable mediums in aiding the Provincial Public Health Department to carry on their program of health. Dental Clinics are giving free treatment to an increasing number of children. The Institutes have spent three thousand nine hundred and fifty-three dollars and eighty cents ($3,953.80) in their efforts to supply more adequate school equipment, healthier and more attractive school surroundings. School fairs have also been aided and prizes amounting to some one hundred and seventy-five dollars ($175) have helped to encourage boys and girls in this work.

"Our educational responsibilities do not rest entirely with our young people for our adults are in need of inspirations and our rural people have never had a better opportunity than at the present time when Adult Education offers an opportunity for acquiring knowledge of a very practical nature. Program material for interior decoration was supplied by our office. Some sixty (60) Institutes took advantage of this new phase of work. We are grateful to Mrs. P. A. Creelman for her willing and valuable assistance in giving a series of broadcasts which should stimulate homemakers to use sound and improved methods in decoration.

"On behalf of Miss Hazard and myself I take this opportunity to express to the retiring executive and to the members and officers of the Prince Edward Island Women's Institutes our sincere appreciation of their generous cooperation and valuable assistance rendered to us during the year."

Outlook Encouraging

"We are proud of our progress during the past year and the outlook for 1937-38 is encouraging but we must not sit with a self satisfied air, secure in the knowledge that we have accomplished great things. We must accept it as a challenge to carry on with undiminished effort.

"No thoughtful woman can enter into the fellowship of a Women's Institute without a sense of humility and a prayer for strength. Hold fast to your vision for what needs to be done can be done. Invigorate your courage, for the tasks ahead are not easy. Fix your determination, for the way is not short. Be of good cheer for there are not multitudes engaged in the same work?

Library System Renders Service

"The Carnegie Library System has rendered a service to our Institutes which has been keenly appreciated by the forty (40) units which have received seventy-four (74) boxes of books. Those clubs which have not taken advantage of the lending library facilities are missing a chance to enjoy a splendid variety of fiction and to gain a wider field of information on a diversity of subjects.

"From July 21st to October 21st fifteen (15) district conventions were held. Miss Hazard and I came in contact with ninety (90) branches. During this month we have attended eight conventions comprising seventy-four (74) branches. The attendance has been small at the conventions held during the past month. Due no doubt to the lateness of the season. The conventions held last summer and fall were well attended and, on the whole, did much to strengthen the work of the branches.

"The Club work which began in 1935 continues to grow. The great factor in the success of this project has been the leaders who with enthusiasm and determination have carried the work thus far.

"At the local Achievement Days Miss Hazard and I judged the work and three awards were made in each class. An Achievement Certificate was presented to each girl who had satisfactorily completed the course. The Final Achievement Day was held September 29th when sixty (60) exhibits of first and second year work including both senior and junior classes were shown. Competitions were conducted in darning and button-making and demonstrations given on fitting and altering garments.

"It has been the aim of club work to foster in the members a sense of satisfaction in achievement rather than too keen a desire for competition. In the fall the first and second year work was revised and a third year added to the course. Twenty-four first year clubs were organized, eleven groups continued with the second year and four units are completing the third year work. Fifty-seven members competed in the essay contest for second and third year members. "What Club Work Has Meant to Me," or "The Story of Our Club Work."

"During this month Miss Hazard and I have visited two clubs and also held three Achievement Days. The club movement with its many possibilities for educating youth to become useful citizens needs the whole-hearted support of our organization.

"In September Miss Hazard and I judged the Home Economics exhibits at Georgetown, Souris and Alberton. At Egmont Bay we were assisted by Mrs. Annie L. Hunter who judged the knitting and weaving.

Home Economics Course

"Seventy-three (73) girls of whom seventy-three percent were farm girls attended the two short courses in Home Economics which began January 17th and February 8th respectively and continued for four weeks each. In addition to the regular instruction in cooking, sewing, home nursing and handicrafts, classes were conducted in folk dancing and community singing. Included in the handicraft classes were glove making and weaving. Interesting talks were given by Miss Edith Elliott of the Fruit Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, by Mr. H. H. Shaw, Superintendent of Education, Mr. W. R. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture and Dr. J. T. Croteau.

"At the closing exercises held in Prince of Wales College Auditorium each girl who took the complete course received a certificate. The girls of the last class were "At Home" to their visitors when tea was served in the dining room of the Home Economics Department.

"During the past two months we have revised and enlarged our cook book for use in the short course classes. The printing of these new cook books which are now on the press will cost us a considerable amount of money, and it will be necessary to sell them at cost price to Institute members and short course students. We hope you will find these books practical and helpful.

"Your Provincial Executive met three times during the year for the purpose of transacting Institute business. Our quarterly periodical the Institute News has concluded its ninth year of publication with three hundred and fifty-eight (358) subscriptions. This paper has proven a very definite help in keeping the branches alert and well informed of the progress not only local Institute activities but in those of a national and international character. We feel it should have a much larger subscription list and bring to a greater number of members news of other Institutes.

Cooperative Marketing

"A very large per cent of the questionnaires returned agreed that co-operative marketing was the most advantageous to farmers and fishermen. By the influence of co-operatives, higher prices are obtained for fish, hogs, poultry, eggs, potatoes and turnips may thus be sold in car lots and a higher price obtained. I do not doubt that our Women's Institutes can do better than encourage co-operative marketing. If we are to have a larger and better market for our surplus the only way is to organize into co-operative marketing. In passing let me refer to the reply from one of our branches. We consider co-operative marketing of great value especially where proper grading and inspecting is done. We think it gives the prestige and better profits to the producer. Would it be advisable for all Institutes, in all farming sections to study this next winter and compare findings at their district conventions?

"All children should be taught that Canadian grown and manufactured produce is best. Canadian products should always come first but not to the exclusion of others, children should be educated to use made in Canada goods whenever possible, if it is only to keep our money in circulation throughout Canada and Prince Edward Island and to encourage better industries at home, thereby providing better employment for our young people.

Special Industries

"To the question "What special industry is of outstanding importance in our Province and why?" Agriculture is of the most outstanding importance due to climatic conditions and the extreme fertility of the soil, the early settlers of Prince Edward Island were chiefly farmers, and have educated their children in a similar profession. It also gives employment to a large number of people. Fox farming is also a special industry because of the income it brings back to the province. It is a pioneer industry, Prince Edward Island was the first Province to start ranching foxes, a great many farmers combine fox ranching with their agricultural duties. During the years of depression the manufacturing of cheese on Prince Edward Island was carried on to a relatively small extent, many factories were closed, others sold. It is gratifying to see the cheese market at a

Hospital Bazaar Continues To Attract Large Crowds

Gaining momentum as the week wears on the Charlottetown Hospital Bazaar reached a climax on its fourth night so far as attendance was concerned when a record crowd swarmed the Market Hall last night. Country folk out for fun and enjoyment touched shoulders with their city neighbors as they mingled freely in the spacious hall to form a happy and care-free crowd. The various booths were exceptionally busy and the committee in charge expressed confidence that the final lap of the seven-day bazaar would exceed their utmost expectations.

The star attraction last night—as every night—was the song program by Mr. Robert Irwin who again delighted the large audience by rendering a series of popular ballads and Irish folk songs. He completely captivated his hearers singing in a magnificent manner such well known songs as "The Minstrel Boy", "When Irish Eyes are Smiling", "Because", and others. This feature alone is well worth coming many miles to hear. This afternoon the booths will be open from 2 to 5 o'clock for convenience of shoppers attending the "Dollar Day Sales". The lunch counter as well as the fancy work and cooking booths will be doing business. The door prize last night donated by Fennell and Chandler was won by Bernadette Hughes.

point where it is possible to produce milk for the manufacture of cheese. It is to be hoped that this commodity has seen its lowest ebb, and with the tide of prices rising we look forward to a survival of this old and staple industry in the province.

"Our next question to be considered is "What lines of industry are of importance as imports?" Jute is imported for the manufacture of bags which is carried on extensively at Summerside. Ash wood is imported by the Indian people for making baskets, sugar for making candy, tin for manufacturing cans for the canneries. Radio parts for the assembling of radio sets, also tea, coffee, cotton, machinery, hard coal, automobiles and spices, we cannot get along without them and it is impossible to raise to grow most of them here.

EDUCATION AND BETTER SCHOOLS

Following is the report on education and better schools submitted by Mrs. Fred McLaren, committee convener. "This year more than ever I am impressed by the intelligent interest taken in this important branch of our work. The reports received show careful thought on the part of our Institute members and many helpful suggestions have been offered.

"As usual much has been done to improve the schools. Classroom have been cleaned and re-decorated, buildings have been repaired and equipment furnished ranges all the way from brooms and dustpans to black-boards, maps, globes, bookcases and new seats. Dictionaries and books of reference have been added to the school libraries and supplementary reading has been supplied, either from the Carnegie Libraries or by means of new books bought by the Institutes. The school grounds, too, have received some attention. Trees and flowers have been planted, flag poles erected and flags supplied and a few reports that their play grounds have been enlarged and fenced.

Personal Interest Needed

"Almost all the Institutes are interested in the establishing of home and school clubs but some consider that the work of such clubs is already attended to by the Women's Institutes. While this is true it is some extent, it is not to be obtained if the men as well as the women could be induced to take a more personal interest in the schools. Perhaps if the women held a few of their meetings in the school-house and invited the men to attend or if more women attended the annual school meeting and talked over with the men what improvements they have in mind they might accomplish something. The necessity of having the school grounds fenced and of sufficient extent to allow the children space for their games might be impressed on them as the first step in Safety First education.

"Another thing that calls for attention is the better enforcement of the compulsory attendance (Continued on page 9, Col 5)
