PREDICTS HARDSHIP FOR 1944
DUBLIN. — (CP) — Supplies Minister Sean Lemass has warned that 1944 will be the hardest year yet in most respects and that it will bring new and, perhaps, more serious difficulties.

He forecast inflation which might prove beyond the Government's power to control.

The falling of farmers who persisted in feeding wheat and flour to animals.

The disappearance of privately-owned lorries to provide for, as long as possible, the transport of essential goods.

Eire's main task, he said, "is to remain alive in a world where we have few friends, and which is too preoccupied with its own affairs to worry about ours."

WHAT GIVES COCOA ITS FOOD VALUE?

The high food value of Cocoa depends almost entirely on its Cocoa Butter content.

PERFECTION COCOA is guaranteed to contain 22% Cocoa Butter, which gives you the maximum obtainable of rich, energy-giving, body-building properties. For a delicious food-drink, be sure to ask your grocer for PERFECTION COCOA.

Regardless of price, there is none better. Yet PERFECTION COCOA costs less!

Canada Has Chairmanship For Rehabilitation

ATLANTIC CITY N. J., Dec. 1. — (CP) — Herbert H. Lehman, former governor of New York and director general of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration, said tonight he believed the standing committee on supplies, of which Canada was awarded chairmanship, was "one of the most important" of these set up to advise him.

Lehman said at a press conference earlier he had already set to work on the organization of a staff of 1,000 headquarters and 1,200 field workers.

He said his staff would be "truly international" but would not be chosen for any other reasons than merit and qualifications for the job.

Policies adopted here, including the financing plan, will have to be submitted to many of the legislative bodies of the countries concerned, Lehman said, and he hoped they would authorize contributions as quickly as possible. Meanwhile he expected to have enough cash for immediate organization expenses.

wall. In its place, over the door, he painted a small sign saying, "Closed." He reflected that people who didn't know what was going on wouldn't know what was closed because he had taken in the other sign but finally decided that this didn't matter in the least.

He was ready to leave.

The evening before his departure he investigated the bag Amy had packed for him and brought down stairs. In it she had put those few articles listed in a pamphlet Mr. Winkle had purchased at a newsstand for guidance.

"Travel light, Mr. Selectee," this advised. "Don't load up with baggage because you won't have any use for it. The Army is going to clothe you. Mr. Selectee complete to underwear, socks, and handkerchiefs."

Only on one point had Mr. Winkle deviated from the instructions. Upon examining her packing Mr. Winkle found that she had included his rubbers. He took them out.

Firmly showing a spark of her old spirit, Mrs. Winkle put them back again, re-apparing them in the Masse paper he stripped away. "With the rubber shortage," she said, "the Army may not have a pair for every man."

"I don't think they have rubbers in the Army," Mr. Winkle protested. "They won't let me wear them."

Claim Germans Have No Hope Of Military Victory

Three Peace Offers Reported Made But All Viewed With Suspicion.

LONDON Nov. 30. — (AP) — An Anti-Hitler group of old line Junker Germans, according to reports from inside Germany, is awaiting the psychological moment to attempt a government coup.

In London this group is viewed as likely to seize on any suggestion of merciful peace terms that may come from the meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

The reports which come through channels considered reliable although they cannot be identified say this group already has made informal armistice proposals which were rejected without discussion.

These wholly unofficial tenders, the reports continue, were not regarded by the allies as tenders at all and were dismissed, first, because they did not originate formally with the government in power in Germany, and second because they fell far short of the United Nations unconditional surrender formula.

The group reported ready to overthrow Hitler is said to be headed by Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt, Field Marshal Von Brauchitsch, Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder. These old line professional soldiers are said to have support among many Junker industrialists, Agrarians and Diplomats, all of them convinced there is no hope for a German military victory.

Brendan Bracken, British Minister of Information, Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State and others have warned against Germany's peace balloons.

The ability of the Anti-Hitler Junta to make good on their peace promises at this stage of the war is questionable. The Nazis themselves would not hesitate to promise such things in order to sow doubt, disunity and complacency among the Allies.

Three Offers

The first Nazi peace overture came from a group supported by some of Hitler's closest advisers, and this which cast suspicion on the motives. It was directed to certain circles in Russia and proposed an armistice on their terms in Poland and concluding economic and military agreements with Russia to freeze Britain out of Europe.

The second overture came from the same source but was directed to Britain. It suggested an armistice to allow Germany to concentrate on Russia.

The third offer, which the Germans still have left open, came principally from the generals and Junkers and asked these concessions in exchange for the overthrow of Hitler:

1. Guarantee that Germany would be occupied by forces from the west or United Nations forces unless a joint Anglo-American command — a precaution against Russian occupation.
2. Germany would be permitted to retain a reduced army to insure against civil war, demobilization gradually after a Republican Government was elected and established.
3. Guarantee that Germany would be allowed the right of economic rehabilitation.

Ships Engineer Has Queer Hobby

BY FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 1. — (CP) — He is named, and he is known for a large Norwegian vessel, is big friendly man with an unusual ability to make funny faces and strange noises. These gifts combined with a genuine love of animals, he says, are chiefly responsible for his success as wartime back-hitter for the trainers who usually bring wild animals back alive for public and private zoos.

Nannestad has friends in zoos all over the United States because since the war broke out he has brought in 400 monkeys, four gorillas, 20 chimpanzees, two cheetahs and hundreds of poisonous snakes.

In an interview he said that his relations with snakes were distant, but he and the other animals had a warm affection for one another. He explained his strange hobby by telling how the war almost ended the importation of wild animals and Shippers in Africa were becoming worried about the rapidly growing numbers of animals gathered in compounds, awaiting shipment.

So learning of this dilemma when his ship reached Africa one trip, Nannestad decided to bring some of these animals back. His services as keeper were supplied voluntarily.

"One of my first charges was a chimpanzee," Nannestad said. "He had the reputation of being dangerous. But I played with him like this (making a funny face) and talked to him like this (making a moaning growl) and soon he was eating out of my hands."

He said his favorite charges were Artie, Carolyn and Joanne, three gorillas now at the Central Park Zoo here. He visits them whenever he comes ashore.

ON ITS WAY BECAUSE OF A BATTERY

STARTING POWER—without which many of our mightiest war machines would be useless begins, under most conditions, with a dependable storage battery.

Starting war machines "on their way" by supplying storage batteries, is our most important job these days.

You can help in getting more storage batteries to the armed forces by making your existing battery last longer.

You can do this by having an Exide Dealer check your battery every 14 days. By means of his dependable Exide Sure-Start equipment, he can help you prolong your battery's useful life.

When you must buy a new battery, make sure it's an Exide. Where battery power dare not fail, there you will find an Exide — the dependable battery.

Food Situation Said Serious At Jap Ash Camp

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Dec. 1. — (AP) — Held prisoner by the Japanese in Ash Camp, Shanghai, for almost seven months Mrs. Phyllis Tingle of Vancouver, now in en route home. She arrived here today aboard the repatriation ship Gripsholm but her thoughts still centre in the China Sea metropolis where her husband remains a prisoner.

Mrs. Tingle, speaking of the serious food shortage in Shanghai at the time she left, said she did not see how the United Nations civilian prisoners still there can manage unless there is some unforeseen improvement in the situation. She said she thought they will suffer greatly from the cold and other privations this winter.

Mrs. Tingle lost 20 pounds while held by the Japanese. Since boarding the Gripsholm at Mormingo, Portuguese India, she has regained slightly more than 10 pounds.

The Japs gave the Ash Camp prisoners two meals a day—eight ounces of sorry bread, tea, fish that was not any too good, rice vegetables and in later months a little meat. The camp, former British army barracks on western road, had a canteen where inmates could supplement the food allowed them by the Japs.
