Aims & Objects Of Legislation Re Farm Loans

Procedure Under Farm Loan And Farmer's Creditors Arrangement Acts Explained By Mr. E.W. Manson.

Helpful information as to the procedure under the Canadian Farm Loan Act and the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act was given in an address last night at the Gentlemen's Club, Summerside, by Mr. E. W. Manson, official receiver under the Acts. The text of Mr. Manson's address, which is of general value and interest, follows:

The Canadian Farm Loan Act and the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act represent the effort Parliament has made to provide machinery whereby in a period of reconstruction following the great economic depression there may be arranged that debt adjustment which is fair to all our citizens, debtors and creditors will establish a more certain foundation on which to build and plan for both classes and thus develop an improvement in mental attitude and the morale of the people.

While the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act is entirely different and will be operated independently of each other, yet they are companionate acts and in certain cases will be operated together. For instance, a man might have a mortgage on his farm of $2,000 and have other outstanding liabilities of $2,000 additional where he could only get a loan from the Farm Loan Board of $2,500, a meeting of his creditors under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, which would arrange such reduction that would bring the amount of his indebtedness within the amount which the Farm Loan Board could advance.

Method Of Procedure

At the time of the filing of the farmer's application with the Official Receiver, that official files notice in the court and the Recording Office in Summerside and with the Prothonotary in Charlottetown. This immediately acts as a stay of all legal proceedings and no creditor may at once proceed to enforce his debt or shall commence or continue any proceedings under the Bankruptcy Act for ninety days.

A meeting of the creditors is then called to consider the debtor's proposal. At such meeting if the creditors are not satisfied with the proposal as submitted, they may, by the concurrence of a majority, modify it or alter it and if one-half in number and three-quarters in value accept such proposal when altered or modified it shall be deemed to be duly accepted by the creditors. The Official Receiver shall then file same in the court and it thus becomes binding on both debtor and creditor but should the debtor make default in carrying out his compromise or scheme of arrangement, if it is shown to be a failure of his own, he may be proceeded against for the recovery of his debts as though no such arrangement had ever been in force but if it is shown that such default was through fault of his own his arrangement may still stand.

If however, the creditors do not agree to the farmer's proposal and no arrangement can be arrived at the meeting of creditors then either the farmer or any creditor can request that through the Official Receiver, the Board of Review be assigned to take the matter up and formulate a proposal. Notice is again sent out to the creditors that the Board of Review will sit on a certain day and review the case. After which they will formulate a proposal which will be submitted to the creditors and if not accepted by the creditors may, nevertheless, be confirmed by the Board and become binding on both debtor and creditors.

Object Of Legislation

In a case where a farmer owes a large mortgage and usually a large amount of overdue interest together with a great amount of unsecured liabilities and he finds himself in the position where he cannot pay his bills and probably the mortgagee threatening to foreclose his mortgage, parliament has devised legislation to take care of his case and this is known as the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act which is operating in this Province at the present time.

The legislation under this act is very far reaching and not only involves the farmer but the business and professional men as well.

Recognizing the sorry plight of many farmers and also recognizing the fact that if farmers were to be sold out under mortgage and the whole farm structure of the country endangered the foregoing act was brought into being.

This Act being comparatively new and its functions not clearly understood by the majority of people a few words of explanation might not go amiss.

The Act is operated by an Official Receiver and a Board of Review.

A farmer finds himself in financial difficulties, he comes to the Official Receiver to whom he explains his difficulties. It is the duty of that official to go into his affairs thoroughly and advise him what course he, in his best judgment, thinks the farmer had better follow. If he cannot receive a Loan from the Loan Board he advises him to that effect; if he finds that his affairs are in such a condition that it is impossible for him to live and pay his bills and that he is threatened with foreclosure and eviction, then he advises him to take advantage of The Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act.

The Official Receiver's next duty is to aid the farmer in preparing

Many Calls On Finances Children's Aid Society Disclosed At Meeting

At the regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society for Prince County, which was held on Tuesday evening, Dr. J. A. MacPhee presiding, it was reported by Mr. V. J. Harrington, agent, that many demands had been made on the Society for clothing and footwear.

Mr. Harrington said he had furnished many children with boots and clothes so that they could attend school. He had been given some second-hand clothes, which had helped out a little but the financial calls on the Society had been very heavy in the past month.

He reported a case where a mother had deserted her children and left the Province, and the father was not able to take care of them, and they were being looked after by friends.

He also reported several cases of petty thefts by children, which were being dealt with by the Juvenile Court.

Among the cases of theft was that of money being taken from milk bottles which had been left on the door step awaiting the arrival of the milkman. Another matter brought before the notice of the Society by Mr. Harrington was the fact that small children were allowed on the streets at night until very late hours; and that the police had been troubled with this sort of thing a good deal just lately.

Mr. Harrington impressed upon the Society the importance of having the Curfew Bell by-law put into operation. He thought if the bell was rung nightly that it would have the desired effect of keeping the children off the streets.

There were a few cases of truancy, but a number of children were at home from school through illness or lack of clothing.

There is still a great demand for clothing and Mr. Harrington would call for same if citizens would let him know by telephone.—S.

O'Leary and Vicinity

A large circle of friends and acquaintances will regret to learn of the death of Nelson Currie, Springfield West, on March 30 aged 49 years. The deceased had not been in good health for the past three weeks, but only the last few days was his condition thought critical. His death came as a great shock to his sorrowing widow and family of eight children, three sons and five daughters—namely: Wilbert, Freeman, Lester, Muriel, Mary, Lulu, Clara, all at home also Mrs. Wilbert Waite of Springfield (nee Ruby). The people of this vicinity will long miss an obliging neighbor and kind friend. The funeral took place April 1st from his Springfield home to Bethel Cemetery where Mr. Currie was laid to rest beside his two children who preceded him. The hymns sung were "Nearer to My God to Thee", "Shall We Gather at the River" and "Asleep in Jesus." A duet was sung very touchingly by Mr. and Mrs. Ed MacDougall of Springfield, "We are Going Down the Valley One by One." Rev. Mr. Stirling officiated at house and grave.

The U. B. W. M. U. met at the home of Mrs. Janie Smallman, O'Leary, April 3rd with fifteen members and two visitors present. There was a splendid program arranged by the leader. One of the features of the evening was a questionnaire on "Our Organization, several members had readings and recitations and sacred songs. Roll call was answered by an Easter verse of scripture. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William Megison, Knutsford.

A lively debate "Which is the most useful an Old Maid or a Wheelbarrow," was held in Union Vale School, April 2nd. Ward Jolly debated for the old maids while Nessy Sheeloff upheld the wheelbarrow.

The excursion to Summerside on April 6 was a chance which 78 of our citizens of O'Leary and Vicinity took advantage of.

Billy Berry of Forest View had the misfortune to cut his hand very badly with an axe while splitting wood. Nine stitches were needed to close the wound.

Airforce Instructor Gets Award

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
OTTAWA, April 11.—A teacher of 18 years standing today was awarded the highest prize that can go annually to a Canadian aviator—the Trans-Canada Trophy donated by the late J. Dailzell McKee, one of the two first men to fly across Canada.

The teacher is Flight Lieutenant E. G. Fullerton, 41, second in command at the Rockcliffe air station of the National Canadian Air Force, just outside Ottawa. He has taught flying since 1917 when he was in the Royal Naval Air Service taking tyros into the air and his bringing them down again. His contributions to flying instruction methods in Canada won him the trophy for meritorious contribution to Canadian aviation.

Pays Tribute

In his announcement of the award on behalf of the trophy trustees Hon. Grote Stirling, Minister of National Defence, paid tribute to Capt. Fullerton's work as an instructor and credited him with responsibility for many of the methods and facilities used in training pilots. He added "the high standing of flying instruction, both in the R.C.A.F. and by all civil flying instructors, is due in large measure to his instruction and example."

It was the second time since the trophy was first awarded in 1927 that an instructor gained the prize and the second time it has gone to a member of the Air Force. In 1930 Squadron Leader J. H. Tudhope of Ottawa won it for his survey work on the trans-Canada Airway and in 1932 Maurice Burbridge, instructor at the Edmonton Flying Club, received it.

Recall First Flight Into North

EDMONTON, April 11.—Ingenuity of Flight Lieut. E. G. Fullerton who was today awarded the McKee trophy for his most outstanding contribution to aviation during 1934, saved his first flight into the far north from being a dismal failure.

Northland fliers recalled Fullerton and Pilot E. Gorman made a flight to Fort Norman during the oil rush in 1921. In landing at the northern port the propeller of one machine struck an ice hummock and was shattered.

The aviators laboriously built up layers of hardwood taken from a toboggan into a laminated block, binding them together with fish glue. Then they whittled the block into propeller shape, mounted it on the airplane and flew back to camp.

Trout Fishing Regulations

The following regulations regarding trout fishing are published as a timely reminder to all and sundry:

1. Except as herein otherwise provided, no person shall fish for, catch or kill any speckled trout, or any other kind of trout, from the sixteenth day of September in each year to the fifteenth day of April following in ponds and lakes, and from the sixteenth day of September to the thirtieth day of April following in streams, both days inclusive in each case.
2. No one shall at any time fish for, catch or kill trout by other means than angling, "jigging" or trot is prohibited.
3. Fishing for any kind of trout through the ice is prohibited.
4. Except as hereinafter provided, no one shall fish for, catch or kill in any of the waters of the Province, in one day by angling, or shall carry away a greater number of speckled trout or brook trout than in the aggregate shall weigh more than ten pounds, and

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Don't Forget Snapshots at Night

A few inexpensive photoflood lamps are all you need for indoor pictures at night. Diagram (right) shows proper placing of lamps for picture (left). Diaphragm opening, f.8.3; shutter speed 1/25 of a second.

ALTHOUGH you may not be one of those lovers of the great outdoors and prefer the warmth of the old fireplace or furnace these cold, wintry evenings, there is no reason why you should not enjoy your camera, for it is always ready for action in or outdoors—an all-weather friend.

Time passes quickly and before we realize where the days and weeks have gone the air begins to get a little balmy and we are thinking of the garden, the yard or those pleasant drives in the car after dinner.

The next three months, however, are ideal for snapshots at night in the house and if you have not already experienced the pleasure of this fascinating pastime you have certainly missed a lot of fun and failed to "follow through" on your amateur photographic hobby.

The "hey-ho-hey-ho" days of youth are the ones we always remember and as snapshots at night are so easy to take why not start in right now and make picture records of the many happy winter evenings at home. All you need are three or four photoflood lamps for brilliant illumination and a camera with an f.8.3 lens, or faster. Photoflood lamps cost only twenty-five cents each and as they are good for two hours of picture taking, the cost per picture is negligible. For the best results you should use the modern super sensitive panchromatic film. It is available in all standard sizes.

Let's suppose that Mary and you are entertaining Betty and Jack and everybody is as happy as the four-sons above seem to be. Let's make a snapshot at night of your party.

The diagram indicates the relative placing of the subject, lights and camera for this particular group. For an ordinary setting you can place the lamps accordingly.

After you have located the group in the finder and the camera is set place an ordinary floor lamp, with the shade tilted upward, at position "A" as close to the subject as possible but out of the range of your lamp. Lamp "A" should have sockets for three photoflood lamps. Two will do if you can have the lamp within three or four feet of your subject. (The light intensity increases as you place the lights closer to the subject and decreases when farther away.) Two photoflood lamps should be placed in lamp "B." Where shades on home lamps cannot be tipped for directing light on the subject, remove the shade. In such cases, some sort of reflector back of the lamps will throw more light forward. A white cardboard, a pillow case, or even a bright dishpan held directly behind the lights will help.

Set the diaphragm at f.8.3. If your camera is equipped with a self-timer, set the shutter speed at 1/25th of a second, turn your position in the group and snap—it has made a snapshot at night for you.

If you have a box camera you had better use a photoflood lamp (not to be confused with photoflood lamps). Here's what you do. Place the floor lamp slightly back of and a little to the right or left of the camera. Remove the shade and screw the photoflood lamp into one of the sockets. Be sure the current is "on." As you have located the group, opening the shutter, in the finder, open the shutter as you would for a time exposure and immediately turn on the photoflood lamp and after the flash of the lamp close the shutter at once.

Simple enough, isn't it?

The possibilities for indoor picture taking are endless and you are missing a lot of fun—and fascinating pictures—until you try it.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

no water to quench parching thirsts. The captain and second engineer stood off for nearly two days, but death finally overtook them only shortly before a passing fisherman plucked up the raft.

Their companions were half dead, though not in such bad shape as the two who had stood on the little upthrust near where the ship foundered. They had to be rushed to hospital as soon as they were landed from the boat that picked them up.

From none of the survivors was there a coherent account of the wreck. None could say definitely whether the Havmoy had capsized from the wind's force, or whether she had struck the reef that saved the men's lives.

The survivors were: Cook Hanson, Seaman F. Runholt, S. Antonsen, Fornas Patersen, K. Eversen, Bjerne Johansen and Fireman Byovne Nyrd.
