In Memoriam JAMES MOONEY On Wednesday morning October 3rd, the Angel of Death visited Peakes Station this time to call James Mooney to his eternal reward. Mr. Mooney was born at Millock on March 2nd, 1846 and has resided at Peakes for practically seventy years where he conducted a saw-mill and by his genial disposition he was extremely popular with all classes and creeds. During his illness which he bore patiently and cheerfully he was attended by his Pastor Rev. I. R. A. McDonald. He leaves to mourn the loss of a faithful husband and kind and loving father, a sorrowing wife, seven sons and six daughters, namely: James, Charles and Bob in the North; Joe, Henry and Leo of Boston, who arrived home for their father's funeral; Albert of New Jersey and Andrew Joe at home; Margaret, Florence and Annie of New York; Lizzie, Mary and Gerlie of Boston, who were both home for funeral also one sister Mrs. Mulligan of Charlottetown. McDonald and all that was mortal of a kind husband and loving father were tenderly laid to rest there to await his final judgment. DAVID A. MANSON On Wednesday morning, the 28th November, as the sun was rising in the East, shedding its light and grandeur to the inhabitants of the earth, there was one home in Elmsdale where its glories did not penetrate, for within death was enacting one of its saddest tragedies, about half past seven; all that was mortal of David A. Manson was hastening to that bourne from whence no traveller returns, without a murmur, struggle or pain he passed to the great beyond, and we feel like saying, "But oh, for the touch of a vanished hand, And the sound of a voice that is still." Dave as he was familiarly known was born at North-Charleston fifty five years ago. He was a man of splendid parts full of honor, his word was as good as his bond, and followed closely the Golden Rule. He was educated at the district school, where the foot of his class was unknown to him. When quite a young man he served his apprenticeship with W. A. Stewart, Merchant Tailor of Summerside. After leaving there he went to the United States where he held positions of trust in different States, and for a number of years was supervisor in the Bloomingdale Hospital, Worcester, Mass., and when the head doctor moved to Middleton Hospital, Conn. he asked Dave to fill a like position there, which position he held till he made up his mind to return to his native place, where he bought a farm, and spent some happy years in North-Charleston. Finally he sold the farm, and for seven years was the trustful caretaker of the Willow Hill Fox Ranch at Sherbrooke. In all the positions he held, he never was dismissed and always had to dismiss himself. He was a kind and obliging neighbor and a favorite in the community he lived. His hospitable home was open to all and none went empty away. His cheery manner and natural cordiality soon made you feel at home, and the time always passed pleasantly away in his company. And their name is legion who deplore his untimely and unexpected death. There are left to mourn a sorrowing and devoted widow (nee Miss Rosella Currie of Elmsdale) and four sisters, Mrs. Dr. Palmer R. Reynolds, of Santa Anna, California; Miss Catherine Manson of Glendale, California; Mrs. Mansel McNeill, of North Tryon and Mrs. Charlotte Cameron of Summerside, to all of whom we tender our sincere sympathy and trust that He who doeth all things well will apply the balm of consolation to their wounded hearts and a fulfillment of the promise that the burden laid upon them will not be greater than they can bear. His remains were laid to rest on Friday, the 30th, in the Trinity Church Cemetery, Elmsdale, and was followed by a very large concourse of people showing the respect they entertained for a man who was such a short time a resident.
