Best Liniment of All Destroys Every Pain But Never Burns

"How thankful we are to get hold of such a wonderful household remedy as Nerviline," writes Mrs. E. P. Lamontagne, Alberta. "In this far away section, far away from a doctor or druggist, every family needs a good supply of liniment. Nerviline is the best of all liniments. Nerviline is not a burn, it never burns, it never acts in a score of ways. If it's rheumatism, aching back, pain in the side, sciatica or stiff neck, you can laugh at them if you have lots of Nerviline handy. For earache, toothache or cramps I don't think anything could act more quickly. For a general all round pain remedy I can think of nothing more valuable and speedy to cure than Nerviline.

The above letter is convincing—it tells how reliable and trusty this old time remedy is. Nerviline for forty years has been a household word in Canada. Scarcely a home in Canada you can find without Nerviline. Every community has its living examples of the wonderful curative properties of Nerviline which will cure pains and aches anywhere in the joints or muscles. It's penetrating, soothing warming and safe for young and old to use. 25c per bottle at any dealer's anywhere.

ALLEGATIONS DENIED. PETROGRAD, via London, Feb. 20.—Viscount Milner, Minister without portfolio, and member of the British War Council, took occasion at a reception held here today in honor of the delegates to the Entente Allied Conference to deny allegations printed in Austro-German newspapers that the prolonged sojourn of the delegates in Russia was due to a divergence of views among them. Lord Milner averred that complete harmony prevailed at the conference from the beginning, and that the protraction was due entirely to the multiplicity of matters needing discussion.

MARS HAS UPSET CUPID IN THE PRINCE OF WALES' LIFE

LONDON, February 14.—There is very little likelihood of a marriage being arranged for the Prince of Wales while the war lasts, speculation grows concerning the matrimonial intentions of the heir apparent, especially as the number of suitable foreign princesses is very limited. Will he seek a British wife? is often asked. That such a decision would be heartily applauded by the whole nation goes without saying. Discussing this subject in an entertaining fashion in the Star, Mr. J. Plint writes:—"Before Europe was set ablaze several now enemy royalties were mentioned as possible brides, but as these are naturally altogether out of the question further reference to them is unnecessary. It has been understood that the king and queen have disliked public speculation about their oldest son's marriage, regarding such gossip in the light of an intrusion upon private family affairs, as undoubtedly the subject was before his royal highness reached manhood. But the heir to the throne, being now of marriageable age—he will be three-and-twenty in June—the matter becomes one of national importance.

SOME ALLIED PRINCESSES. Last June Princess Yolanda of Italy, the eldest of King Victor Emmanuel's children, was alluded to as a possible bride for our future sovereign, but it is more than likely that such a match had not ever been considered. A union has also been suggested between the Tsar's eldest daughter (the Grand Duchess Olga) and the Prince of Wales. The Tsar is first cousin to the king and the Tsarina is nearly related to our royal house, being the youngest daughter of the beloved Princess Alice, and another first cousin of King George.

Nor would a marriage with Princess Margaret of Denmark, a favorite niece of Queen Alexandra, be outside the possibilities. Lately Princess Waldemar by his marriage to the late Princess Marie of Orleans, one of the cleverest princesses in Europe, has since the war, frequently visited Queen Alexandra, and this gave rise to wild hints that she might be a possible bride for the Prince of Wales. But the match which would give the most complete satisfaction throughout the country would be one with an English bride.

AN ENGLISH QUEEN

The entire nation would like to see another British Princess of Wales at the Court of St. James. We had one in our present queen and the war has strengthened the national desire that the next Queen Consort should not be chosen from a foreign court. A small and fortunately rapidly diminishing section of the community, which almost believes in the divine right of sovereigns, would receive with something like dismay the idea of the Prince of Wales choosing a wife from among his father's subjects. But why should not the custom which prevailed up to Tudor days obtain again? The tradition of excluding from the English Court a Princess of Wales or a Queen Consort of English birth may be said to have originated with the Stuarts who all went abroad for wives or husbands.

THE GUELPHS ALSO. George I. and his wife—his cousin Sophia, only daughter of the Duke of Brunswick—had parted when he succeeded to the British throne. George II. found a wife in Wilhelmina, daughter of the Margrave of Brandenburg-Ansbach. His son, the unfortunate Frederick, Prince of Wales, had a German wife, Augusta, daughter of Frederick II. Duke of Saxe-Gotha. Frederick's son, George III., followed their example and chose a German bride, Princess Charlotte, daughter of the reigning Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz. George IV. married his cousin, Caroline, daughter of the reigning Duke of Brunswick, a lady who caused endless trouble here. William IV. chose for his wife the reigning Duke of Saxe-Meiningen's eldest daughter, and Queen Victoria's consort was a Princess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

AN ALL-ENGLISH THRONE

No wonder there is an increasing desire to get rid forever of foreign influences. Only shall we be perfectly safe from this in the event of the heir apparent taking unto himself a British wife and if he should do so, the last murmur of disaffection, to quote the Pepsys of today, Mr. George Russell, "will be drowned in the thundering chorus of national rejoicing." The number of suitable foreign princesses is very limited, but if the Prince sought for a bride at home he would have by no means a circumscribed choice, and whoever the happy girl might be she would receive the heartfelt congratulations of the whole kingdom.

GOOD DIGESTION

To be able to eat what you want and to digest it properly is a priceless blessing. Good digestion is not appreciated until you lose it. Then you cannot afford to experiment, for strong medicines are hard on weak stomachs. If you have indigestion do not be persuaded into believing you can cure yourself by the use of pre-digested foods or so called stomach tonics. There is no toner for the stomach that is not a tonic for every part of the body. It is through the blood that the stomach gets its power to assimilate and digest food, and as the blood goes to every part of the body any improvement in its condition not only results in strengthening the stomach, but every organ in the body. Rich, red blood is absolutely necessary to good digestion. If your stomach is weak and you are troubled with sour risings in the throat, a feeling of pressure about the heart, or nausea after eating, try the strengthening treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. So many dyspeptics have been cured by this medicine that every sufferer from stomach trouble should try it. You will soon know the health in other ways if you give this medicine a fair trial. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. JOHN GOULD. ALEXANDER McDONALD. On January 24th, 1917, Gleanery Lot 7, Prince County, lost one of its most estimable citizens when Alexander McDonald, familiarly known to a host of friends as "Big Alex.," passed to his eternal reward. Born in Little Judique, Cape Breton County, Nova Scotia, seventy-four years ago, he early in life immigrated to this province and settled at Gleanery in Lot 7, hewed for himself and founded out of the primeval forest a sustenance and a home, worthy indeed of his physical ability and an unflinching industry. He was first married in 1881 to Margaret McDonald, of Cape Breton, who died in 1883, and bore two children, Mrs. David Stewart of West Point and Mrs. MacMillan of Rufford Falls, Me., both surviving. He was subsequently married in 1883 to Ellen MacDonald, of Gleanery, who predeceased him one year ago. The family surviving are, John on the homestead; James, a New York police officer at Tignish; Jessie of Waltham, U. S. A. and Mrs. Furze Keefe, of Summerside. The funeral to Lot 7, on January 26th, was a large one, despite the fact that sixteen degrees below was registered, a testimony to the esteem
