DISASTROUS STORM IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 21—A furious wind storm accompanied by a deluge, swept over Western and Northern Maryland, this city, and the Chesapeake Bay, this evening. In Baltimore houses were roofed, gutters ripped off, skylights and window-frames blown and trees uprooted.

STORM STRIKES NOVA SCOTIA.

DIGBY, N. S., July 22—The worst gale ever known in Digby in the summer time has prevailed here all today changing from southeast to northeast.

SALLOW FACES

Often Caused by Tea and Coffee Drinking. How many persons realize that tea and coffee so disturb digestion that they produce a muddy, yellow complexion?

"All of us—father, mother, sister and brother—had used tea and coffee for many years until finally we had all had stomach trouble more or less."

"We all were sallow and troubled with pimples, breath bad, disagreeable taste in the mouth, and all of us simply so many bundles of nerves."

"We didn't realize that tea and coffee caused the trouble until one day we ran out of coffee and went to borrow some from a neighbor. She gave us some Postum and told us to try that."

"Although we started to make it, we all felt sure we would be sick if we missed our strong coffee, but we started drinking Postum and the result was a delicious, healthy, and strengthening food."

"We read the statements on the pkg. got more and in a month and a half you wouldn't have known us. We all were able to digest our food without any trouble, each one's skin became clear, tongues cleaned off, and nerves in fine condition. We never use anything now but Postum. There is nothing like it." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Well-being," in pkg. "Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest. Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest."

GUARD AT ST. ANNE'S.

CHATHAM, July 22—Miss Bridget Flynn, daughter of Peter Flynn, St. Margaret's was one of the pilgrims crowd the other day at St. Anne de Beauspre. She had been suffering from a sore arm for several years, and for the last year and a half was compelled by orders of an American doctor to have the ailing member strapped to her body. It was perfectly useless as far as work was concerned and caused the young lady much pain and uneasiness.

AUTOMOBILE RAN OVER EMBANKMENT.

BOSTON, July 22—Charles W. Piner of Dorchester was instantly killed and two other men and a woman were slightly hurt when the automobile in which they were riding ran over an embankment in order to avoid a fast-approaching train at what is known as the White Mountain crossing of the Boston and Maine Railroad, just above Rochester, N. H., early today. The car turned turtle when it dropped a distance of eight feet.

The party was up at Mr. Piner's cottage at Kezar Lakes spending Sunday. They had just started for Boston in the car. As they neared the railroad crossing a passenger train suddenly came round the bend. Warwick, who was driving the car, turned the machine sharply to avoid a collision. The machine was going at a fair speed. The turn was sharp and before he could swing the auto back again it had slid over the embankment.

In the car's descent it turned turtle, flinging Warwick beneath the heavy structure. The others were thrown out. Piner shot for over the hood of the car and struck on his head. His neck was broken.

EUROPEAN NEWS

BOMBAY, July 23 (Special)—Bombay, a modern city of telephones and electric trams, has been the scene of a remarkable Mahometan religious "revival," set in an atmosphere that vividly recalls the Arab nights.

"His stir of religious inspiration was the result of the visit to the city of the Pir Sahib of Bagdad, the High Priest of the Faithful, a leader who is to the Moslem what the Pope is to the Roman Catholic. He is looked upon with the utmost veneration by the followers of the Prophet, and they flocked daily to the bungalow where he took up his quarters in order that their eyes might look on the blessed face of the saint (for as such he is regarded), or that they might perhaps be allowed to kiss his feet. The Mahometans in this city alone number many thousands, and their numbers were reinforced by every train that arrived from the country districts during the visit, to such an extent, in fact, that his Holiness was compelled to appoint certain hours of the day on which to appear to the people, in order to give himself even a minimum of leisure and privacy. Special services were held in all the mosques, and all over the town itinerant preachers seized the opportunity of exhorting their street-crowds to faithfulness and fervor.

The culminating point of the ceremony was reached when the Pir consented to drive through the streets of the native quarters of the town so that even the poorest and busiest might see him. The Mahometan community rose nobly to the occasion. A "firman" went forth that the faithful should contribute according to their means to a fund for decorating the streets, and for several days before the preparations were made on a most elaborate scale. The narrow, dirty streets were transformed into gardens of flowers, with festoons of greenery and bunting, and lit up with fairy lamps and lanterns, till the miserable slums were like fairyland. When driven along the route half an hour before the Pir Sahib was timed to start on his way, he had stumbled into the land of the Arabian Nights. Candles and oil and acetylene lamps threw myriad-colored lights on the great blossoms which covered the houses, and danced on the streamers of flags which formed a continuous roof.

But by far the most interesting part of the scene was the moving through below this gaudy canopy. Thousands and thousands of Mahometans, Sunni and Shiak alike, swarmed in every direction, all clad in their gayest attire—glowing crimson, deep blue, flaming scarlets, golden yellows. The golden-turbaned Memon rubbed shoulders with the tall Marwari, the bejewelled Hoja with the hunched, bearded Muvil, the ruddy Jat with the pilgrim Bukharan. All

CHARLOTTETOWN AND ELSEWHERE

It pays to buy in this province

Miss Carrie Acorn, Charlottetown, was a passenger yesterday afternoon to Souris, where she will spend a few weeks, visiting relatives there.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins, Moncton, N. B., well known in Charlottetown, who have been spending the past few weeks attending the camp meetings at the Beulah Camp Grounds, arrived home Saturday.

The Guardian is in receipt of some copies of the Portland Daily Press, containing reports of the recent gathering and meetings of the National Division of the Temperance of North America. The meetings were largely attended and of great importance to the temperance people. Among those whose names are mentioned with prominence in respect to the cause are Rev. R. H. Stavert, formerly of this province and Rev. G. A. Lawson also well known here, both now of New Brunswick.

Through the efforts of G. Leonard Grant, Charlottetown, one of the summer residents in Georgetown, enthusiastically cooperated by others, a boating club has been organized in the eastern capital known as the Georgetown Boating Association, with the following excellent staff of officers—Temple W. McDonald, President; W. W. Jenkins, Vice President; Elmer Jenkins, Secretary; Seymour Knight, Treasurer; and an Executive committee consisting of the above named and the following: Stewart Charles Fitzgerald, J. D. Stewart, Frank D. McDonald, C. L. Grant, J. C. Manual and Percy Manual. Premier Mathieson and ex-Governor McKinnon were elected honorary presidents. The first act of the new association was to arrange for a regatta to be held in Georgetown harbor on August 17th. Already a considerable fund has been raised by membership fees and private contributions part of which is to be devoted to the purchase of a silver challenge cup which will be open for competition to motor boats in the Maritime provinces. Complete arrangements have already been made for the regatta which is going to be on a more than ordinarily large scale. There will be motor boat races, dory races, rowing races, ladies' rowing races, swimming races and other events.

Races and sets and castles, all ages and conditions, were represented on this night of nights, all alike chattering in shrill voices and wandering restlessly hither and thither in excited expectation. It was like the jumbled vision of a dream.

At various points along the route his Holiness was presented with garlands of flowers until by the time he had reached the end of the journey his carriage looked like the triumphal car in a pageant. The procession itself was simple in the extreme. Half a dozen cavalcades from the body-guard led the way, each carrying a carriage with the Police Commissioner; then came an open victoria with his Holiness, a pale-faced, bearded, intellectual-looking man, younger than one would have expected; and another body of cavalymen brought up the rear. There was no speech-making, no charring, nothing but profound salutations and eager, reverent looks. It was certainly an Arabian Night.

ROME, July 23 (Special)—A drama of jealousy seems to be bound up in the murder of Giuseppe Lanfranco, whose body was found in the Lake of Varese on Sunday.

Lanfranco was a master builder of San Pedeale, who was shortly to be married. One day last week he left home, saying he was going to Varese to buy furniture for his new house. His fiancée begged him to return soon, as she was nervous of a rival. From last Tuesday till Sunday nothing was heard from him until his body was found in the lake. He was blindfolded, his hands were tied behind his back, and a thirty-pound weight was attached to his feet.

PARIS, July 23 (Special)—It is only two years since the first "auto-bus" made its appearance in the streets of Paris and now there is only one of the old three-horse omnibuses still surviving—the chocolate "beetle," known as the Madeleine Bastille—and that will be replaced before another month is over by a steam vehicle. The picturesque quality of the boulevards may suffer, and so undoubtedly do the nerves of the householders on the routes, but there

The Montreal butter market has been very active during the past fortnight and prices have advanced about 1c per pound. This activity was caused by the large inquiries from Canadian centres, mostly in the Northwest, and values went so high that there was no hope of any export business on the same basis. Dairy butter is quite plentiful and dealers are buying it at about 20c. f.o.b. in the country in both boxes and tubs. Not very much western dairy is seen on the local market this season, as prices in Ontario seem to be slightly higher than ours. Talking with the head of a city butter firm this week we were told that from reports received pasturages in Canada is none so good this season and that had it not been for the long cool spell we had in May and June it would have been still worse. As usual at this time of year these are dull; that is to say there is not much business doing. Trade is mostly on an export basis, and the last price we saw quoted was the sale of a P. E. I. factory at 12c. f.o.b., which is, we should think, a satisfactory figure to the cheese factory. There is a very small supply of eggs in this market at the present time; in fact, no surplus whatever, which is rather surprising for a time of year when hens are supposed to be good producers. The trade are expecting to draw their supplies from Prince Edward Island.—Maritime Merchant.

STARVING TO DEATH.

WEBSTER, July 22—At the end of a conference of physicians today in St. Vincent's Hospital, Worcester, 5-year-old Timothy Meagher was brought back to his home on Green street, Webster, to await death by starvation. The boy swallowed a sewing machine hobbin last Sunday and has been unable to eat since. Since yesterday he has not been able to take even liquid nourishment. Science admitted today that his case was hopeless and that the lad must die. He had been submitted to an X-ray examination, which revealed that the spindle of the hobbin was firmly lodged in his throat at a place where removal was impossible.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Meagher, and the little group of relatives and friends of the family gathered at the hospital were heartbroken on learning that the boy was doomed. Sadly they made arrangements to take him back home. The journey was made as if they already were going to his funeral. News of the boy's condition passed through the town and there was none of the accustomed sound of children playing in the vicinity of the Meagher boy's home today. A cordon of the lad's playmates even stood guard on the street to warn teamsters not to make a noise while passing the house where the young sufferer lay. It is doubtful if the boy can live more than a day or two, as he is already very weak.

ROSENTHAL CASE NEAR SOLUTION. NEW YORK, July 22—The Rosenthal case is near its solution. That is the belief of Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, who expects today to arrest two or three gamblers and gamblers who were hired to shoot and kill Herman Rosenthal before the gambler could disclose more secrets of the transactions between the gamblers and police. Sweated and grilled by a fierce third degree Jack Sullivan, a former newsboy, held as a material witness, and Sampaul, the East Side gang leader, suddenly made statements early today from which the police commissioner pieced together important and heretofore missing evidence. These two men Sullivan and Paul, were taken into custody last night, along with Bridgie Webber, the gambler. Detectives have learned enough of the case to admit that the gamblers gathered together on Monday is no question about the superiority of mechanical traction in comfort and speed. Some curiosity is felt as to the disgruntled old four-wheelers whose roof seats were so dear to Victor Hugo, but it seems that though they are banished without much regret from the metropolis they find high favor elsewhere, and purchasers are plentiful at the depots of the company, flocking in from remote provincial towns to buy the ancient relics as bargains. They are sold for not much more than their price as firewood in some cases, and only the choicest specimens are reserved for amateurs at $100. Most of them go to hotel-keepers, while others are used as Sunday excursion pans and a few are taken by municipalities as diligences in places far from railway lines.

Among the latest innovations of the "summer taxi," which came out a couple of days ago as an experiment. This is merely an ordinary closed taxi-cab, with its roof thrown back and a smart red and white striped tenting stretched in its place. This species of parasol keeps off the sun, while giving a full open cab, round and all the air of an open cab. It is light and easily taken down in case of rain, when the roof is hoisted again.

COL. SAM HUGHES AND PARTY FOR ENGLAND.

OTTAWA, July 22—Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, minister of militia, and the party of Canadian officers who will accompany him to the autumn manoeuvres in England, will leave Montreal on August 21 by the steamer Royal George. They will attend the divisional manoeuvres from September 4 to 14 inclusive and will then attend the army manoeuvres from September 16 to 19 inclusive. In the party will be: Col. Hodgins, commanding the first divisional area; Col. J. P. Landry, commanding fourth district; Lieut.-Colonel Maunell, director of engineering service; Lieut.-Colonel Greville Hartson, chief inspector of military, Quebec; and Lieut.-Colonel E. B. Morrison, D. B. O.

TWO KILLED IN GUN FIGHT.

NEW YORK, July 22—Two little children were shot and probably fatally injured, and several other persons are believed to have been wounded late last night, when a gang of rowdies became involved in a running gun fight on the east side.

The battle took place in east Twelfth street and the thoroughfare was crowded with the rowdies, without warning, drew guns and began shooting at one another.

The police ended and there was a wild scramble to get out of the way of the flying lead.

Several persons were seen to limn away, but according to the police the two children were the only ones found to be seriously hurt.

NEWS OF THE SHOOTING. Six men are now in custody in the Rosenthal case, one of whom is held as a material witness, and five others charged with being implicated in the crime. Oddly enough Commissioner Dougherty says that no one of the gamblers were along on that excursion trip and the detectives now arrest

Karn-Morris Pianos Pianos of Prestige Notoriety may be bought or borrowed, but Reputation must be earned. The purchase of a piano is, in most homes, an event of a life time. The utmost care should therefore be used to select the right kind of instrument. The case of a "commercial" piano may be artistically modelled and beautifully finished, and if one bought a piano merely for its worth as a piece of furniture, judgment might well be based on excellence that appeals to the eye alone. But a piano should be more than an ornament in the home. A PIANO OF QUALITY is not merely so much wood and metal, but a thing of life, an instrument with soul. A PIANO OF QUALITY readily responds to the player's touch, thought and mood, making it possible to interpret the works of the great masters in all their sublimity, splendor, strength, brilliancy and delicacy. A Piano of Quality can be swayed by the will and skill of the player; it will produce the delicate shadings of expression, the exquisite minor beauties of tone, which are priceless to the true lover of music. Be careful when you select your piano, apply this test, and you will have a piano that will give a life long satisfaction and will be a pride and pleasure to your entire family as well as your circle of friends.
