S. S. LESSON

LESSON XI. DECEMBER 11
NEHEMIAH AND HIS ENEMIES.
Neh. 6: 1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT
"The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid."—Ps 27: 1.

POINTED SUGGESTIONS.
By Rev. D. W. Snider.

Success is rarely permitted serene and secure enjoyment. Enemies peep over the wall or attempt to steal through some unfinished gate or t cast up some besmirching dust or scandal. Nehemiah and his enterpris had persistent, strategic, conscient less foes.

But success which is built up or answers to prayer and duty cannot be overturned by the assaults of an hypocritical combination of men. Their mischief returns to themselves. The rebound of their hypocrisy be comes their undoing.

The man whose life's service is guided by the spirit of righteousness and whose conscience is enlightened by the eternal principles of well-doing is given a power of ready discernment of evil. Jesus had it in full measure. Satan utterly failed to snare Him. And Nehemiah understood the meaning of the fair and feigned brotherly speeches of those who sought to do him mischief. Everyone is tempted when he is drawn away by his own lust and enticed.

Pre-occupation is a magnificent safe-guard against the entrance of the questionable or unworthy or vicious into the doings of the day. The idle is an easy prey for the wrongdoer. The one who does not esteem his labor to be of first importance is not strongly fortified against the seductive call of evil. The work in which the spirit of consecration enters, and is the first-hand duty, is always "a great work."

How often the smiles and flattering speeches and promises of alluring and golden quality of the tempter give away to the menace of a threat and lifted judgment when they are resisted. But where one cannot be enticed into a course of action he ought not to be frightened into it. The difference in the masks the devil wears has made no difference in his intentions. The spider's web means the devoured fly.

It has been noted that Nehemiah was a man of prayer. Verse nine tells he sought strength from God when danger appeared imminent. But there was no sense of panic in his prayer. He was not on the rush to find God. He was rather as the child who confidently clasps the hand of his father more tightly when peril is nigh.

Among the most efficient tools of those who intend the overthrow of others are bribery and conspiracy. Alas, that a traitor can so often be found. Briber, traitor, conspirator—these words stand for characters to be hissed at, execrated and driven to their own place whenever they appear out of their hell. Whatever they touch should be burned by the fires of righteous wrath—the friendship, the business, the politics, the courts. Look at verse eleven. There is something grand in language like that because it stands for one of the choicest and strongest traits in noble and Christian character; namely, One should not think more highly of himself than he ought to think. But in the name of God, and because of what he believes God has done and is doing, and will do, a Christian ought to think of himself in full terms of self respect. It does not stand for selfishness or selfrighteousness. It is the appreciation of one's own consecration to God.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST ABOUT NYALS REMEDIES

Nyals Family Remedies are scientifically and accurately compounded for specific purposes. Your druggist will recommend them because he knows the formulae from which they are made—knows their value for the purpose for which they are intended.

There is nothing mysterious or "Cure-all" about them, and they are recommended by the druggist because he would rather sell a standard preparation than one of unknown value.

Nearly every druggist carries Nyals Remedies, and all that do recommend them highly, not because of the profit in them, but because of their real value.

You may not know whether certain medicines will benefit you, but the fact that your druggist knows every ingredient in each Nyal Remedy, and its medicinal action, puts him in a position to advise you safely.

Nyals FAMILY REMEDIES

are put up uniformly in bright dandelion-colored packages. Ask your druggist about them. There is one for each everyday ailment. You'll find it a pretty safe rule that the druggist who recommends Nyals is a good man to deal with for your other drug-store wants.

Leonard Wood Testimonial

The heating system you installed in my house recently consisting of a jacket heater and four radiators is by far the most modern, simple, scientific and economical that I have ever seen. This system heats every room in my house to any degree of temperature I desire, makes less work, annoyance and ashes than one stove, but does the work of a hot a dozen. It's saving on coal and any child or woman can attend to it. I don't see how any person who was good heating a small cost can ever be without your system. LEONARD WOOD, Mount Herbert.
