WAR MEMORIAL

of the Charlottetown Branch of the Legion rested on the Holy Table and removed only to be dipped in salute in memory of the fallen during the act of dedication. Remembrance-tide music provided by the Choir under the direction of Miss E. Lillian MacKenzie, Mus. Bc., included Sir John Stainer's Anthem, "What Are These That Are Arrayed in White Robes" and Geoffrey O'Hara's bass solo, "There Is No Death" by Mr. Raoul Raymond.

Rev. Mr. Somers took his text from Revelation VII, 14-15: "These are they which came out of great tribulation and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve Him day and night in His temple; and He that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them."

Purpose of Memorial

"This memorial," the speaker said, "commemorates the heroic sacrifice of eight young men who went forth at the call of duty. Comfort, ease, ambition, they forewore. The dreams and dreams of youth they quietly surrendered. They counted not their life dear unto them, and were faithful unto death. From school and college, from shop and office, from home and church, they went in the hour of their country's need. Canada's loyal sons they were, selfless and reliable as their country knew they would be. Because they went and because they died, liberty has still her dwelling-place amongst us and fills our streets and fields with the music of her holy songs."

"These eight were Canadians; they were Islanders; they were Charlottetownians. John Agnew, William MacLaren and Jack Stewart served in the Navy; Ira Clark served in the Army; William Andrew, George Auld, Niell Burnett and John MacLaren served in the Air Force. They were all young; they were all eager; they were all hopeful. They had all identified themselves with the cause of the Redeemer. They all made the supreme sacrifice, holding nothing back."

"All these facts had to be borne in mind when the design of the windows was drawn up. The colours in each, for example, had to be blended and contrasted as to fit the larger pattern and overall design for the south wall of the Church. Ten windows—memorials all—shall fill this wall. In these three upper panels stands The Good Shepherd, flanked on either side by the opened scrolls of prophecy and evangelist. To the right of the War Memorial stand the two great figures of the New Testament, St. Peter and St. Paul. To the left, the windows now being prepared in the studios in Toronto, will stand the two great figures of the Old Testament, Moses and Isaiah."

"All the variegated aspects of tone and colour and style had to be harmonized and blended, so that each part, unique and alive in its own significance and appeal, would also harmoniously contribute some facet of loveliness to the completed master-design and scheme."

"We offer this, the work of much loving thought and skill, now to God with the prayer that all who in this present, and in the years to come, may gaze upon the glories, may, by the Holy Spirit, be filled with thoughts pure and noble, and be drawn to the vision and love of heavenly things, so that when sign and symbol shall at last have passed away, they may have in things which God has prepared for them that love Him."

Youthful Heroes

"As you look carefully at the windows you will note that the figures in each case are those of young men—all youthful heroes from the pages of the New Testament. In the window on the left we have the figure of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, holding in his hands the palm of victory, the traditional symbol of his sacrifice; he holds in his right hand the stone which he used to strike the man who had blasphemed against him. In the central window stands the beloved St. John, the close friend of our Lord, who served so faithfully and who wrote so gloriously before his banishment and death on Patmos Isle; he holds in his hand the open book of his Gospel. In the third window stands St. Timothy, St. Paul's devoted young helper in the mission of the Evangelist; he has the cloak and parchment which the aged apostle asked Timothy to bring to him in his prison cell. In each case the face is young and guileless, the expression honest, serene; the temper and spirit portraying those qualities of youth that so enrich and so ennoble the

Provincial A.Y.P.A. Annual Meeting

The Provincial Anglican Young People's Association held its annual meeting on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Mary's Hall, Summerside, with a splendid attendance. The opening hymn, "Youth of the World Arise" with Miss C. M. Coles at the piano was followed by prayer by Rev. L. A. Dignan.

The president of each of the following branches gave an annual report: St. Paul's, St. Peter's, Milton, New London, Kensington and St. Mary's, Summerside. The secretary was authorized to write a letter of appreciation to Mrs. Maurice Weeks, Charlottetown, for her hospitality during the visit of the Dominion president, Miss Hazel Journeaux.

The retiring secretary-treasurer, Miss Blanche Hogg, submitted her annual report. The newly appointed officers are as follows: Deane organizer, Rev. A. E. Pierce, R.D.; honorary president, Mr. C. Ross MacKenzie; president, Mr. Arthur MacLean; vice-president, Mr. Clayton Mill; secretary-treasurer, Mr. George Anderson; chaplain, Rev. L. A. Dignan; drama committee, Miss Carol M. Coles; Bible reading fellowship, Mr. Graham Jenkins; A. Y. P. A. Monthly, Miss Helen Acoon; Sunday School, by Post, Miss Barbara Pickard; patron, Rt. Rev. R. H. Waterman, D. D., Bishop Coadjutor of the diocese of Nova Scotia.

Prayers by Archdeacon G. R. Harrison brought the meeting to a close, after which supper was served by the members of St. Mary's W. A. In the evening a program, which included two one-act plays presented by the A. Y. P. A. of St. Peter's and St. Paul's was greatly enjoyed.—S.

grandeur of its sacrifice. At the base of the first window is the crest of the Royal Canadian Navy; of the second, the crest of the Royal Canadian Army; of the third, the crest of the Royal Canadian Air Force, each against a background of Canadian maple leaves. These symbolize the circumstance that all three branches of the Service were represented in the sacrifice of these men.

"In the alcove above the figure in the first window is placed the Coat of Arms of the Dominion of Canada; in the second window the Coat of Arms of the Province of Prince Edward Island; in the third window the Coat of Arms of the City of Charlottetown. It is to the Christian his country is the world and his countrymen are all mankind.

"But as a Canadian is no less a patriot because in all the wide stretches of this fair land, in its busy towns and cities, in its quiet hamlets and places, there is no spot in his affections like his own home, so too he may honour and respect all peoples but love his own dear country best.

"Our fathers' sepulchres are here. And here our kindred dwell. Our children too; how could we love Another land so well.

"Yes; to quote the words of Lincoln, the mystic chords of memory stretch from every battlefield, patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone. Each familiar story and tradition of our country, each mantle of beauty and colour which nature has flung with generous abandon over our plains and mountains, and its haunting folk-lore, each stirring deed, each heroic name, are the glory of the glorious inheritance of all Canadians.

"Breathes there the man with soul so dead Who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land.

"Patriots and noble warriors, take then your rest! Noblest were you in the faithful service of your God and King. Your warfare is accomplished. Your victory is won. The powers of death that hold their victims, but your immortality remains secure. Amid the calm eternities of God, and in the glad fellowship of those with whom you won triumph to your shining peace, the hopes which sustained you here now know fruition, and your simple faith is lost in light."

"We offer this memorial—its religious and artistic splendour and the spiritual beauty of its symbolism and appeal—in proud remembrance of those who died that we might live. But a memorial of their sacrifice more precious, and without which all else is poor, unreal, and vain, is the consecration of our hearts and the dedication of our wills to the ideals of justice and truth and national righteousness, and to the extension throughout the earth of the peace of God.

"To many of you here present the attendant ceremonial of this hour, though giving rise to emotions of honourable pride, must inevitably also stab the heart and dim the eye. The wounds of the bereaved to which the merciful alchemy of time has brought some healing cannot but ache and throb again today. Memories come thronging back, memories of the awful language, eloquent of infinite affection; far too big for words."

"May all such find their peace and comfort in remembrance of the Cross of Christ and in the precious hopes which flow from it concerning the one who, following His light, are faithful to the end! Whoso loatheth his life shall find it. They are not dead, but live. "Holy is the true light and passing wonderful, lending radiance to them that endured in the heat of the conflict; from Christ they inherit a radiance of unfading splendour, wherein they rejoice with gladness evermore."

The Legion parade to the Remembrance Service was headed by the Band of the Prince Edward Island Regiment (17th Regiment). The parade was marshaled by Lt. Arthur Prude, sergeant-at-arms.

Recounts Impressions of U. N. Assembly

Unless radical changes are made, the world faces starvation in 26 years, Mrs. Allison MacMillan, Cornwall, (above), told a meeting of the Women's Institute as she recounted her impressions of her recent visit to the United Nations Assembly in New York.

Mrs. MacMillan, who is a past president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, said that the Food and Agricultural Organization of the U.N. had told the delegates that the world's population since the war was 85,000 new mouths to feed daily. It takes two and a half acres to feed each individual in the world, and at present there are only two acres available. The populations of India and China are increasing much faster than the food producing countries.

The speaker said the F.A.O. is doing some very constructive work along food supply lines. Better distribution of food is necessary, better farming techniques and a better knowledge of modern farm machinery. Mrs. MacMillan felt that more information on the work of the F.A.O. should be published so that rural women may become more familiar with its problems.

Mrs. MacMillan also urged that the Women's Institutes on Prince Edward Island should observe United Nations Day in the coming years. She regretted that only one Island organization had had a special meeting with a speaker on this subject on last United Nations Day.

A very interesting part of her report was the description of the places and personalities Mrs. MacMillan had seen on her visit.

Argentinian and Russian proposals. Indications are the committee will favor the Canadian-French resolution which calls for continuation of secret talks among the Big Five and Canada to seek a basis of agreement.

John D. Hicherson, United States Assistant Secretary of State, told the committee Friday that the U. S. is sending isotopes, radio-active tracer elements, for research to some 30 countries. He asked what Russia is doing along those lines.

"Blowing up what?" he asked. "Pieces of rock. After all we are not going to just shake the air. That would be economically unprofitable."

The verbatim record of the Vishinsky speech Thursday records him as saying: "We are razing mountains, we are irrigating deserts, we are cutting through the jungles and the tundras; we are spreading life, health, prosperity and welfare in places where the human footstep has not been seen for thousands of years."

Vishinsky said Saturday statements had been ascribed to him about moving mountains with the help of atomic energy. He said someone perhaps thought of a report to this effect in a German paper but that had talked of blowing up mountains, razing them.

No Answer
After the committee adjourned, Hicherson told correspondents that Vishinsky's "wild language" did not answer one of the West's arguments.

The Western Powers contend that security from surprise atomic attack can be averted only by international operation and management of all large-scale atomic plants, with continuous inspection.

Russia argues that international operation of plants would be a limitation of her sovereignty and some form of "perpetual" rather than continuous inspection.

Teen Town Topics

Junior Teen Town celebrated its second anniversary Saturday night. Once again all the junior teenagers enjoyed an evening of fun at the Teen Town Hall.

The program consisted of movies, games, canteen and dancing. The movies were "Three Little Bruns Make Mischief," "Grey Owl's Strange Guests" and a sing-song "Let's All Sing." The movies really pleased everyone and were very interesting.

After the movies the dancing started in the gym. Special dances were held to get everyone out dancing. All the junior teenagers are quickly learning to dance. There was also many novelty dances, such as a Spot Dance, Snowball Dance, Ladies Tag, etc. The winners of the elimination dance were Barbara Whitlock and Jack Garnum. The winners of the pot-dance were Betty Foster and Bobby Allan. The door prize was won by Kenny MacVail. All these winners received prizes.

Huge Cape Breton Veteran On Visit To Murray Harbour

Known during the war as the "biggest" man in the Canadian Army, ex-gunner Angus MacPhail of Ainslie Lake, Inverness County, Cape Breton, at present weighing 404 lbs., arrived by plane on Saturday on his first visit to Prince Edward Island.

A keen scholar of the Gaelic, Mr. MacPhail is on a week's visit to friends in Murray Harbour, and may extend his stay.

Mr. MacPhail had some difficulty accommodating his huge bulk in the Maritime Central Airways' Loughheed 10 out of Halifax. He smilingly assured the other passengers that he was paying just one fare and found it more comfortable to sit in the allyway on the raised deck main wing beam. It was 26 years since he had been airborne and he stated he enjoyed the flight "very well."

Joining the permanent army artillery when he was 202 lbs., Mr. MacPhail said soldering was a lot easier to do the work he had been doing in the mines and he put on weight to a maximum of 437 lbs. He distinguished himself in the artillery as the only man in the Canadian Army who could pick up a 92 projectile, dead weight 382 lbs., and carry it upstairs—27 steps. On active service, the huge gunner had to have special web equipment made for him.

Six-foot four inches in height, he was not the tallest man in the army but his weight brought him considerable publicity as the "biggest." He said his family are all built on the same scale—his mother and father both were big people.

Mr. MacPhail has just been discharged from hospitalization. His car weight-lighting feats have had an adverse effect on his heart and he is susceptible to asthma. In receipt of a pension, he plans to move to the West to find relief from this ailment. He may live in Saskatoon.

Speaking in soft, pronounced Cape Breton accents, his eyes twinkled and his round face was wreathed in smiles as he pulled up the sleeve on his coat, right arm showing the highest crest of the Cape Breton Highlanders. "I was with the artillery but I have a very warm spot in my heart for the 'breed of manly men.' That's what that Gaelic on the crest reads," he explained.

Lady Astor Seeks Fund To Combat Glamor Girls

LONDON, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Lady Astor appealed for a million-dollar fund today to build an educational back-fire against the "sashed glamor girls" of Hollywood and their impact on world thinking.

The United States-born noblewoman wants the money for the Crosby Fund, which helps pay for study in Britain by university women of other lands.

Her goal is 400,000 pounds ($1,240,000) and her chief project is a new wing for Crosby Hall in London's Chelsea district, which houses the visiting students.

"My plan is for education of women from every country to understand each other and exchange their varying points of view," Lady Astor told a reporter.
