

GERMAN ATTEMPT AT MISCHIEF-MAKING

Dr. Solf's Appeal to President Wilson Characterized by London Times as a Contemptible Attempt at Mischief-Making.

(Special to the Guardian)
LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Times describes the appeal of Dr. Solf, the German Foreign Secretary, to President Wilson regarding the armistice condition affecting the food supply of the German people as a contemptible attempt at mischief-making. The newspaper says that Dr. Solf has but to look at the armistice in order to see that the Allies and the United States contemplate such provisioning of the Germans during the armistice as shall be found necessary.

Apparently the German protest is based on a change made in the armistice terms by Marshal Foch after his first meeting with the German plenipotentiaries. In the original draft of the armistice it is provided that 50,000 railway cars shall be delivered to the Allies in the territories west of the Rhine. By the amendment this number is increased from 50,000 to 150,000 cars and it is against the delivery of this quantity of rolling stock that the German Foreign Secretary has protested to President Wilson, assuring him that the distribution of goods in Germany will be seriously hampered by the removal from service of so great a quantity of rolling stock.

It must be remembered that German rolling stock, or the rolling stock of Belgian railways now in German hands, has been used throughout Belgium for the carrying on of railway traffic. The country is thickly populated and the withdrawal of all German rolling stock upon the evacuation of the enemy troops would leave the population without the means of passenger travel or of transportation food and merchandise.

It is probable that when Marshal Foch was supplied by the railway experts of the allied armies with the figures showing the normal quantity of rolling stock required to carry on the business of Belgium, he found it necessary to increase the number of cars to be left behind by the Germans on their retirement to the east bank of the Rhine.

A change has been made in the armistice terms also which gives the Germans more time for the evacuation of the region along the Rhine. It is now proposed that instead of nineteen days from the signing of the armistice, thirty one days shall be granted within which the enemy must remove all his material and troops from that part of Germany west of the Rhine.

Some Changes in Armistice Terms

(Special to the Guardian)
PARIS, Nov. 13.—Article four of the armistice providing for the surrender of munitions and equipment reduces the number of machine guns to be delivered from 30,000 to 25,000; the number of airplanes from 2,000 to 1,700.

Article 8, forty eight hours, is given the German command to reveal destructive measures, such as polluted springs and wells and to reveal and assist in discovering and destroying mines or delayed action fuses on evacuated territory. No time limit was fixed originally.

Article 15. Renunciation is substituted for abandonment in stipulating that the treaties of Bucharest and Brest Litovsk are nullified.
