ARE CLEVER TRICKSTERS WITH COINS

(Dominion News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 15.—"Patsy," the notorious Irish confidence trickster has resumed his old game of victimising visitors to Great Britain.

Usually his victims have been Americans, but this time he chose a Japanese for his dupe. T. Nito, staying at the First Avenue Hotel, Holborn, was so entranced with his latest story that he handed him $2500 in notes and then vainly waited for his return.

The story which "Patsy" told to Mr. Nito, who comes from Tokio, and is paying his first visit to London, was that he wanted to give a large sum of money to the victims of the earthquake. Mr. Nito agreed to forward the money, and to show that he was a responsible person handed over his $2500 in notes to "Patsy" and a confederate went out of the restaurant where the talk had taken place to count the notes "in a better light," and did not return.

Less than a fortnight ago "Patsy" brought off his 15th coup this year by stealing valuables worth $2,000 from William Stephens, who stayed at the Bedford Hotel. He then adopted the usual procedure of lying low until his victim left England.

"Patsy" could nowhere be found by the detectives who scoured London for the plausible rogue for the few days between the theft and the departure of Mr. Stephens. Then, when his victim had sailed for the United States, he came out of hiding and looked for another dupe. The police were powerless because they could not produce a prosecutor.

"Patsy" must have a keen sense of humor. When he victimized Mr. Stephens he stole a camera with which his photograph had been taken. "Patsy" had the camera with him, but left it behind in the restaurant without the photograph, as he sauntered off with Mr. Nito's money.

CHEAP AUTO GOGGLES MADE FROM OLD WAR GAS MASKS

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Automobile goggles advertised for sale for ten centimes each or a little over 170 to the dollar at the present rate of exchange, recently brought a rushing business to a second hand store on the left bank of the Seine, and caused much speculation as to how, in these days, any manufacturer could place such an article on the market at the derisive price.

A former pilot solved the riddle. The goggles had been cleverly cut out from the original gas masks issued hurriedly to the French army when gas masks made their appearance on the western front as a weapon of war. One model, it was recalled, was cumbersome and inefficient, but the pilot had to put up with it for nearly a year until the improved model was manufactured.

The second hand shopkeeper had discovered several thousands of them in the war stocks and bought them by the hundred weight.

MOVIES MAKING MORE WORK FOR PHOTOGRAPHER

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—"The moving picture film is making the work of the every-day studio photographer easier," according to Egon Jacobson, photographic psychologist.

"Movie fans, who continually watch the best actors of the world posing artistically on the screen, are gaining valuable hints of how to place themselves before the camera," Jacobson continued.

Never in history have people flocked to the photographer as they are now—despite the hardships generally admitted throughout the world, Jacobson asserts. The movie has much to do with this while the advent of news photography in newspapers has also given impetus to the art.

And, Jacobson asserts, man is much more vain than woman when it has to do with photography. The fact that woman takes so much time preparing for the sitting and then is never satisfied with the result, while mere man walks hurriedly before the camera, strokes a stray hair into place, twitches his unruly tie, then picks up the finished product with a self-satisfied glance at the result—these are indications, Jacobson says, that woman seeks the ideal, while man, in his vain way, is satisfied that Apollo never had anything on him.

BILLION IN GOLD WAITING AT BOTTOM OF THIS RIVER

WELLINGTON, Oct. 15.—One billion dollars worth of gold dust lies at the bottom of the Kawaru River in this country.

No one owns it. It has been there for thousands of years and can be seen glistening along the river bed.

When New Zealand rivers were cutting their channels through rocky country many years ago they washed through many tons of gold-bearing quartz.

Gradually this quartz was worn away and carried down stream, while the river bed, composed of water freed from the mountains. Building the dam will not be expensive, according to the syndicate which has the project in hand.

Work will be begun in 1925.

Artillery Salute For Lady Squire

(By Dominion News Service)

YORK, Oct. 16.—Kirkstall was in holiday mood on Thursday, consequent on the fact that Lady Cardigan was paying a pleasant and agreeable visit to her tenantry. The incident was the more interesting because it is only within the last few weeks, that her ladyship married Viscount de Lancastre, Marquis Extraordinaire at Minister Plenipotentiare on Disposition de St. M. D. Poi de Portugal.

She and her husband took the estate in West Yorkshire as part of their honeymoon tour.

The principal master of the ceremonies was Mr. Bennet, of Market, one of the stewards of the estate, and Major Butler of the Abbey House, also took a leading part in carrying out the welcome to Lady de Lancastre. Among those present were the Rev. J. Cassels, of Bury, the Rev. W. Freeman, of Woodkirk, and a number of the tenants who were headed by the Rev. T. S. Bowers, vicar of Kirkstall; who read the address of congratulation. When the lady of the estate arrived in the Abbey grounds, (which belong to the Cardigan family) in a chariot with four horses and outriders, she was received with much enthusiasm, a salute of 15 guns being fired by the Artillery of which Mr. Butler is the major.

The reception took place in front of the East window of the Abbey. The hundreds of employees at Kirkstall Forge took part in the proceedings. A saloon carriage and an engine awaited the visitors to the Forge, and by these means, the countess and her husband were enabled to observe the extensive and varied character of the Company's works.

PRETTY DAMP CITY OF DETROIT

(United Press)

DETROIT, Oct. 17.—Near beer is as hard to purchase as the real article is easy in a majority of Detroit's "near beer" saloons.

A customer may ask for "near beer," but in four out of five places he will be served with the real article, resting from 3 to 9 per cent. alcohol.

"Police officers are practically unanimously in favor of repeal of the prohibition amendment," Police Commissioner Croul declared. Croul admitted it is almost impossible to cope with the situation under existing laws.

Investigators for a local newspaper said they found 10,000 wide-open places in which beer, whiskey and other intoxicants could be purchased at moderate prices. One hundred and fifty saloons, blind pigs and speakeasy places were found in one section ten blocks square.

Many of the saloons, equipped with the pre-volsteadian brass rail and mahogany bar, are to be found in the heart of the business district. At least one oasis may be found in practically every neighborhood in the city.

In the downtown section, Michigan Avenue is especially known among the citizenry with a thirst. The saloon in general in this district consists of a "cigar store" in the front, with heavy curtains over the street windows. Picturesque swinging doors lead to the rear—from where tinkling glasses and popping corks invite all comers.

The red-faced, bearded barkeep is still in vogue, filling orders as in the days of yore. Draught beer sells for 25 cents a stein, while the bottled goods may be had for twice that sum. Only precaution used by the "barkeep" is in ringing up the coin. Payment for a stein is first rung up as "15" and then as "10," allowing the latter figure to remain in slight on the register. A bottle sale is rung up "40" and "10."

In Hamtramck, Ecorse and River Rouge, suburban towns, the saloons operate with wide-open doors.

In the saloons of River Rouge the man in overalls and shirt-sleeves predominates. Many of the places in this suburb, as a matter of precaution, will not sell the suds to men wearing coats.

Ecorse is considered headquarters for the "river men," who have made it their business to supply the city with Canadian beer.

Nightly trips are made across the Hamtramck span of Detroit River. Bottled beer in sacks and draught beer in kegs brought over under cover of darkness. Distribution is made to the various saloons in trucks. Very seldom are any of these river men and haulers caught in frequently laid prohibition nets. Officers blame "mysterious tips" to the runners for the escape of their would-be prisoners.

Cafes, cabarets and saloons of Hamtramck are most frequented by Detroit's night life crowd. Cold cash is the only passport needed. For the weary, tables are supplied in back rooms, while booths may be had for parties. Perspiring waiters are kept running to and from the bar to the back rooms and booths. Tin pianos are conveniently located in the back rooms, where "legged music is furnished for dancers who wish to drop in coins. Parties bringing their own pianists are welcome. Dancing in these back rooms is not the kind that would be approved by the modern moralist.

PREMIER'S OLD SWEETHEART WITNESSES HIS TRIUMPH

(Associated Press.)

ROME, Oct. 18.—The commune of Predappio, where Premier Mussolini was born, recently acquired the house of his birth and gave it to him. He was present at the ceremony, and the people acclaimed him deliriously.

In the crowd was a woman still unmarried, who, years ago, said to Mussolini as he wooed her with the impetuosity of youth: "We are both as poor as poor can be, and if we married be should only bring into the world beings equally poor to suffer and want. It is better that we agree to part." "By all means," replied Mussolini, and went his way to become prime minister.
