PRINCE EDWARD THEATRE

The Prince Edward Theatre was crowded last evening when a splendid programme of pictures was shown. "How Classy Made Good," a three-reel comedy, being the leading feature, bringing out all the stars of the "Vitascope" Company and revealing many of the secrets in connection with the production of moving pictures. This picture was interesting from start to finish, the numerous adventures of the aspiring female magazine writer, until she at last achieves success, affording no end of amusement. "Diana of the Eagle Mountain," in two parts, was a fine drama, in which that famous and talented actress, Cleo Madison, the heroine of "Trey of Hearts," played the leading part, while Joe King acted as the handsome doctor, who married her in the end, and Edward Sloman, the crook. This story was one of love and devotion on the one hand, and unstableness on the other, and the manner in which the former overcomes a very interesting play. The scenery in this film was very attractive, especially the parts in which the girl is seen among the mountains. "Faro Bill" was a splendid western drama, in which George Anderson, the favourite of every boy, once more proved that honesty is the best policy after all. "Mrs Prune's Boarding House" was a "roaring" comedy and provided considerable laughter.

STRIKE IN A NEWSPAPER OFFICE

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Jan. 20. There was no issue of the Evening Journal yesterday, owing to a peculiar strike. This morning the management left a letter on the type-setting machine of one of the men saying it was understood he had been bringing liquor into the office, which must be stopped or dismissal would follow. As union etiquette was not followed, and this communication sent through the foreman, the men put on their coats and quit. The first trouble, however, started Tuesday, when a man in the news room refused to help out in the job printing department, and was given the option of doing so or quitting. He quit. The Journal management paid all the men off and let them go.

PERFECTLY SAFE.

"Does your mother allow you to have two pieces pie when you are at home, Willie?"
 Willie (who has asked for a second piece)—"No, ma'am."
 "Well, do you think she'd like you to have two pieces here?"
 "Oh," confidently, "she wouldn't care. This isn't her pie!"
