DR. FOWLER'S Extract of Wild Strawberry

The Medicine with a record of Cures extending over 65 Years.
You don't experiment when you buy it.
Beware of the dealer who tries to sell you a substitute.

Mr. Jno. R. Childerhouse, Orillia, Ont., writes:—"When in Fort William, last summer, I was taken sick with diarrhœa, and became so weak and suffered such great pain, I had to quit work. Our manager advised me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, so on my way home I bought a bottle, and after taking four doses I was cured. We always keep a bottle in the house. We have also used it for our children, and find it an excellent remedy for summer complaint."

THE PROHIBITION ACT.

Sir:—Every right-thinking man should be in hearty accord with you in your manly endeavor to wipe out the disrepute that seems to have our fair Island in its grasp. Prohibition on Prince Edward Island is a hollow mockery, and every inhabitant knows it. What is much worse the rest of Canada knows it, the United States knows it, the whole world knows it, and holds the Banner Prohibition Country up to the jeering multitude as a black spectre of hypocracy.

Tourists come to our shores, attracted by the reputation of its healthy climate. They see our fertile, well-cultivated farms, our beautiful rivers, our far-famed fox ranches, and they enjoy them all. But they also gaze with open-eyed amazement upon drunkenness and reckless disorder unchecked, and unhindered. Can the efforts of our Publicity Agent, can all the utterances of tongue or pen ever blot out the impression thus made?

On the steamboat that brings them across the water, on the trains that convey them over the Island, at every tea party, horse trot, public gathering of any kind from a political rally to a Sunday School picnic the bottle is in evidence, until to the bewildered traveller it almost seems to be regarded as an essential feature of the general make-up. Now what is the cause of all this? With some corrections and a few more drastic measures introduced we have a good law. The cause therefore must lie in its enforcement. Of what avail is a gate unless it is properly hung, and kept closed? If we would only properly hang (I was going to say some of our officials) our Prohibition gate, then we would be able to do something. Just so long as our Prosecutors are appointed because of their political "pull," or through the influence of some "Tammany operator," just so long will the gate remain open to all who happen to be among the "chosen."

The question is often asked by earnest temperance people why the cause of Prohibition makes such slow progress when the arguments are so overwhelmingly against the traffic, and when this is a Christian Island with thousands of church members.

The problem would be a comparatively simple one if there had been provided any direct method by which the will of the people could be expressed in law. Separated from all other questions and interests the liquor traffic could not stand for one year.

Read the Label

Costs no more than the Alum Kinds

The only Baking Powder made in Canada that has all its ingredients plainly printed on the label.

For economy we recommend the one pound cans.

Foremost amongst the difficulties that are to be contended with stands the undoubted fact that the liquor traffic is in politics most successfully and it dominates to a very considerable extent both parties.

When the only difference between the two parties in the Provincial Arena is that one is "In" and the other is "Out," it is pitiful to see men so bound by the trammels of party that they will sacrifice their principles, and allow this ghastly tragedy to continue. Yet, don't we all do it? There is nothing so much needed in Canada as an awakened conscience on this question of party worship.

Many Christian men have long hoped to see the day when an election campaign would be fought out on a clear-cut temperance issue, which would divide the people horizontally instead of vertically, when Christians would vote one way and the liquor men with all their allied interests and sympathizers would vote the other way. But because the words Grit and Tory seem to be hide bound in the individual voter this hope seems to be Utopian. Just so long as Christian men adhere to their party regardless of their principles, just so long will this heart-breaking, hell-filling traffic continue its course. All this raises the query whether it is not time for a political party to be organized on moral issues alone.

Very truly,
P. W. TURNER.

THE TALE OF VIRGINIA BROOKS

(Chicago Tribune.)

About four years ago Virginia Brooks, coming of age, inherited from her father some real estate in West Hammond worth, nominally, $30,000.

West Hammond is a town of 5,000 in the southeastern corner of Cook County, on the Indiana line. Four thousand of its inhabitants are Poles, six hundred are Germans, four hundred Irish. There are practically no Americans, except Virginia Brooks and her mother.

West Hammond was a village, run by a board of trustees, when Virginia Brooks inherited her property. The board of trustees was run by the vicering, consisting of seven saloonkeepers. The saloon-keepers were getting rich by the sale of beer, whiskey, knockout drops, girls and political contracts.

They taxed the property of Virginia Brooks just as hard as they taxed the property of everybody else without a pull. That was where they made a mistake. When they assessed her $110 for improvements on a $100 lot she retained a lawyer. When she discovered that the improvements for which she had been taxed had not been made she moved to West Hammond to live.

It didn't take her long to see that she couldn't make any headway against the seven saloon-keepers while West Hammond remained a village. The board of trustees was a self-perpetuating ring. So she fought to change the form of government. Last May, West Hammond became a city. It had been a desperate fight. There was no expedient known in practical politics, bribery, slugging, miscounting, stuffing, repeating, which the seven saloon-keepers didn't use to beat Virginia Brooks. But she beat them.

Now, having put the seven saloonkeepers out of politics, Virginia Brooks has started to put them out of business—the business of selling adulterated whiskey, knockout drops and girls. She is trying to make her city habitable for the dumb foreigners who live there. And unless she is killed by her enemies she will do it.

West Hammond has 5,000 inhabitants. And Virginia Brooks is the best of the lot.

A LONG "HELLO!"

A class in a Harlem school was told to write letters about Peter Stuyvesant.

"Hello!" wrote one pupil, addressing the famous chief of New Amsterdam. "I'm sorry you're dead. Are you Governor yet?"

"He was a very beautiful and a very stubborn man" wrote another.

"He was a very good man,," observed another writer, "but I'll tell you what I know about him when I see you."

YOUNG WIFE SAVED FROM HOSPITAL

Tells How Sick She Was And What Saved Her From An Operation.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back ached, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not eat or sleep. I had headaches, too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice, and have done as you told me. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and now I have my health.

"If sick and ailing women would only know enough to take your medicine, they would get relief."—Mrs. BENJ. H. STANSBERY, Route 6, Box 18, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

If you have mysterious pains, irregularity, backache, extreme nervousness, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait too long, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound now.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and such unquestionable testimony as the above proves the value of this famous remedy and should give every one confidence.
