Rustico Parish Celebrates Feast

On Friday, August 15th, the Catholic Church celebrated the great feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin.

This feast day is a commemoration of the Assumption of our blessed Lady into heaven and as such deserves to be celebrated with all the religious pomp and reverence due to such an exalted personage.

At St. Augustin's Church, Rustico, this feast day was observed with more than usual grandeur.

At an early hour of the morning, flags were raised on the Church grounds denoting to the multitude who had gathered there for the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass that this was a feast day of special importance. At 9.30 a.m. Solemn High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. William V. McDonald, Pastor of St. Anne's Church, Hope River.

Rev. Father Andre Arsenault, of Egmont Bay acted as deacon and Clarence Paire Rustico, ecclesiastic of Holy Heart Seminary, Halifax, served as sub-deacon. Rev. Father Chasson, Pastor of St. Augustin's Church was present sanctuary.

A sermon on the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin was delivered by the young priest Father Andre Arsenault who, by his eloquence and oratorical ability promises a brilliant future as an Apostle of Christ. After mass, the congregation and clergy marched in solemn procession through the church grounds. The procession was headed by the members of the various societies of the parish with their respective banners. Hymns to the Blessed Virgin Mary were sung throughout the procession.

At 7 o'clock p. m. benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by the Rev. Father Arsenault.

As this day was the national feast of the Acadians, an entertainment was held on the same evening in the parish hall, the principal feature being an interesting and instructive conference on the "Expulsion of the Acadians," given by Rev. Father Poirier of St. Dunstan's University.

A vote of thanks to the Reverend speaker was moved by Rev. John Chasson and seconded by Mr. Moses Gallant.

The entertainment was brought to a conclusion by the singing of the "Ave Maris Stella" followed by "God save the King."

co-operate in a reasonable way to the end that Government House may be restored and occupied as in "ye olden time." If the restoration should be effected, amiably and economically, the credit that will be given to both by the people will be the more highly marked as it will be the better deserved.

This is a matter in which party politics should have no share. It is to be hoped that in its settlement the interests of the Province only, will be kept in view.

Mrs. Evan's Murder

been resisting the Federal authority it seems odd that a squad of Federal cavalry would not have been sent down long ago to turn her out. If she were merely contending against the lawlessness and acquisitiveness of her neighbors it might be supposed that the Government might hesitate to take the unpopular course of defending her at the same time refraining from approving of the persecutions to which she was subjected.

An Extraordinary Woman.

Mr. Cummins said that he considered Mrs. Evans a woman who turns up once in a hundred years. She was fearless, and though past middle age, was an expert rider and versed in the use of rifle and revolver. She went constantly armed. Her native helpers were regularly stampeded from the ranch and she came to lean on the help that came to her now and then from wandering Americans and Englishmen whose sense of chivalry was appealed to by her gallant fight. "You can kill me, but you cannot rob me," declared Mrs. Evans to her persecutors. They invaded her fields despite her warning signs, and she was fired at several times. She returned the fire. The last letters received from her were written while she had a rifle at her side and was keeping watch over her estate, fearing a sudden rush of her enemies. She must have thought at the last that she was in no immediate danger as her leaving the ranch to get money to pay her helpers indicates. She was shot and killed from ambush as she was returning to her ranch, her manager being severely wounded. That her murderers were the agarians who coveted her lands is not yet certain. They may have been wand-

NEWSPAPER COMPETITION

Is competition necessary to the keeness of the press in rendering service to the community? The Methodist publicity man notices as an answer that the retiring president of the Hamilton Conference recently commended the Niagara Falls Review for "consistently and persistently" obtaining and publishing the news of conference while in session in Lundy's Lane Church of that city.

Niagara Falls is a one paper city, where formerly two papers battled for a precarious living.

Similarly, the London conference met in Windsor and received the fullest and most appreciative reporting in the one daily paper of that region, the Border Cities Star. The facts speak for themselves.

Reduced by Asthma. The constant strain as asthma brings the patient to a dreadful state of hopelessness and exhaustion. Early use should by all means be made of the famous Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, which more than any other acts quickly and surely on the air passages and brings blessed help and comfort. No home where asthma is present in the least degree should be without this great remedy.

An Infallible Guard

HEIMDALL, according to Celtic mythology, was the perfect sentinel. His hearing was so acute that he could hear the wool growing on a sheep's back. His eyesight was so keen he could see everything that happened even though it occurred while he slept.

Advertising, if you use it properly, is an infallible sentinel for you. It guards you against fraud and inferiority. It protects you against making unwise and unsatisfactory purchases.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise must give full value because they have good names to protect. The makers of well-known products and the stores that sell these products often value the names at millions of dollars. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but good goods of full measure and fair price.

So, you can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised products.

Advertising is your guard
