St. John's Mill, July 8—A collision with a whale on the Grand Banks, caused such serious damage to the two-masted schooner Empire, owned by St. John's that the vessel was abandoned by her crew of six men and a passenger, who reached here today. The accident happened last Tuesday, and after keeping the vessel afloat two days, the crew had to leave her when the pumps became choked. The men rowed 120 miles toward land before they were picked up, by a fishing schooner. The schooner was loaded with salt.

BLOWN TO PIECES.

WINDSOR MILLS, Que., July 8—Two men named J. Carron and H. Taylor, were blown to pieces this forenoon, when one of the mills of the Canadian Explosives Company was blown up. Pieces of bodies of the victims were found a long distance away from the scene of the explosion.

No others were injured as the men were the only two employees in the mill where the powder was being sifted. The cause of the accident was not known. The explosion was felt about 20 miles away.

SOME DIAMONDS.

NEW YORK, July 9—That the desire of the American public for luxuries in the form of diamonds, pearls and other precious stones has not been checked by the advance in the cost of living during the fiscal year ended June 30 is shown by the fact that in that period diamonds, pearls and other gems to the value of $9,445,289 reached the country through the port of New York.

According to the figures compiled by Examiner William B. Treadwell at the Appraisers Store on Washington street the cut precious stones and pearls totalled $29,261,749, and his figures, which have just been made public, show that the amount of diamonds, pearls and other gems, principally diamonds, reached the value of $10,188,491. These statistics mean that during the fiscal year ended June 30 more precious stones and pearls reached this country than in any previous year, with the exception of the years ended June 30, 1906, 1907 and 1910. In 1910 all records were broken by the remarkable receipts of $44,355,067 worth of gems, while in 1906 and 1907, the imports reached totals of which were considered exceptional $40,217,542 and $41,112,371.

The heavy importations of rough diamonds during the fiscal year reflect a growth in the diamond cutting industry in this country, where some of the finest stones are at present being cut. There is a duty of 10 per cent, on cut diamonds, while the rough product is allowed free entry. Amsterdam and Antwerp are, however the two leading centres for the industry.

NQ MONEY FOR FENIAN RAIDERS

OTTAWA, July 8—The hundred dollars for each of the Fenian Raid veterans is to be a joy deferred. There is no money. The government, out through a bill last session, but failed to ask Parliament to vote the money. There are now forty thousand applications, and if these were granted an expenditure of four hundred thousand dollars would be required. It is found that there is no increase at the present rate the government will likely change its mind and not make any grant.

That the government will offer a contribution of money or ships to the authority to make a Governor General's warrant to cover such an expenditure. Therefore there can be no votes the money. If the veterans British navy is the belief in Ottawa, the next session is likely to be followed by a general election. Premier Borden is reported to have decided that no offer of ships to England would be discussed with the British government. At Ottawa it is believed that there must have been an error in this report and that the aid will be offered as had been decided before Premier Jordan, Hon. J. D. Hazen, Hon. E. P. Pelletier and Hon. Judge Doherty left to represent Canada at the British capital.

The Canadian ministers will urge the British government to create a permanent Imperial Council in which every part of the empire will be represented in proportion to its strength and importance. This council to consider all questions concerning the welfare of the empire including defence and defence. Just how much authority the Canadian ministers will ask that the Imperial Council be given is not known. However, advisory rather than administrative powers will be suggested. Canada will offer a Dreadnought or two as a beginning and for further aid towards defence will await the preparation of a general plan of defence for the empire prepared by the imperial commission. It is also believed that the government will put through a redistribution bill next session, than dissolve Parliament and go to the country on the question of the adoption of the naval recommendations made by the proposed Imperial Defence Committee.

CHIVALRY.

Chivalry may not be exactly a virtue, yet heaps of women regard it as a very great virtue indeed. Instinctively they class courage, bravery, and chivalry under a common heading. Ah, my fair ladies, what a mistake you make!

Many a brave man is without a single spark of chivalry. Many a courageous man is utterly devoid of those pretty tricks vaguely designated chivalry by the gentle sex.

Yet it's strange how often a woman will endow a man with every manly virtue if only he possesses the gift of chivalry.

A woman is ready to fall head over ears in love with the man who holds the door open while she passes through, who deferentially places a chair for her, who is ready to carry her umbrella, who readily perceives her slightest wish, and who administers just sufficient flattery to please her vanity—refined though it may be.

The John Blunt type of man stands no chance whatever with the sentimental, poetical woman who is all heart, and whose power of character penetration is not her strong point.

She is too readily impressed, and carried away by external show, so that the man whose soft blandishments—in other words, he who has kissed the Blarney stone most heartily—wins far more in her favor than the more sterling type whose true worth shines through his actions, and who, though he may not lay claim to being a man of chivalry, may expect that care and protection which her sex entitles her to receive at the hands of a man and a gentleman.

NOW IS THE TIME.

BRIDE SPANKED

HUSBAND ARRESTED

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 6—Separated from her youthful husband by the ruthless hand of the law and suffering the humiliation of having been soundly spanked by her father, Mrs. Henry C. Dryden, a pretty little bride, in her teens, is sobbing her heart away, locked in a room in her home, No. 324 Chilton avenue, Germantown.

She was Miss Eleanor Taylor, daughter of J. Taylor, a prominent Philadelphia real estate operator. Four days ago she eloped with young Dryden to Washington, Del., where they were married, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. George L. Wolfe, known as the "marrying parson" of Grattan Green.

The young couple both of whom were pupils of Central High School, but they were aware of parental opposition to the match.

However, believing that this would easily be overcome as soon as the nuptial knot had been tied, they sent a despatch to the bride's father asking his forgiveness and blessing.

Mr. Taylor was not in a forgiving mood. Instead of telegraphing the happy couple to come home, he took a train to Wilmington, where he learned that in procuring the license the youth had sworn the girl was eighteen years old, the age under which no female person may be legally married in Delaware.

The real estate man quickly obtained a warrant for the arrest of young Taylor. He then snatched his daughter away from her youthful bridegroom, took her home and, after administering corporal punishment, it is said, locked her in a room.

Mr. Taylor today declared he never would recognize the Delaware ceremony, as it had been performed contrary to the law and that he would at once take steps to have the marriage nullified.

SOME FACTS.

In 1891 The Morning Daily Guardian was established, and is still issued each morning with the latest local and foreign news, including the Canadian Press and a special telegraphic service.

In 1887 The Weekly Guardian was established, but its issue proved too infrequent for readers as the Province advanced, and from time to time was changed, first to a Semi-Weekly, then to a Tri-Weekly, and later to a Rural Daily, so that for years The Guardian has issued two dailies, as at present—one in the morning as a Morning Daily, and the other in the afternoon as a Rural Daily.

For some time past the management has felt that Prince Edward Island is justly entitled to a twenty-four hour telegraphic news service, as enjoyed by the other Provinces of Canada, rather than the night wire service only, as up to June 30th last supplied by The Morning Guardian and afterwards printed in The Evening Guardian.

Accordingly a representative visited St. John's and arranged for a Canadian Press day service, which is appreciated by the general public. It is thus to The Guardian that the people of Prince Edward Island are indebted, first for a night Canadian Press service and now for the day Canadian Press and Special Telegraphic news published since July first and thus enjoyed by its readers.

The friends of both The Morning Guardian and The Evening Guardian are quite expressive of their appreciation that their favorite paper contains the latest day and night, as well as night and day Canadian Press and Special Telegraphic and local news, and thus a complete twenty-four hour service. Advertisers are also more than pleased with the rapid increase of fully two thousand readers already in The Evening Guardian's circulation, as well as several hundred for The Morning Daily.

The Guardian ever realizes its obligation to furnish its readers with the latest and best news service obtainable, and to give to its advertisers the largest and most valuable circulation possible.

The Guardian is now but issuing two dailies, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon, as it has been doing for years, but since July first its afternoon paper contains its own day's news in addition to that of The Morning Guardian, or, in other words, the news of the twenty-four hours immediately before it goes to press. The Morning Guardian occupies a similar position.

CANADA'S AREA.

Do you know how big Canada is? That Canada contains one third of the area of the British Empire, and is larger in area than the United States, including Alaska, by 111,992 square miles (Canada 3,729,665; United States and Alaska 3,617,673).

That Canada is as large as 30 United Kingdoms and 37 Germany's; twice the size of British India, almost as large as Europe; 13 times the size of France; 33 of Italy. That Canada's proportion of population is 1.90 square miles; United States, 21; England and Wales, 558; British Empire (outside India), 4.56. That Canada is 3,500 miles by 1,400 in area, and that the distance from Halifax to Vancouver is greater than from London to Halifax.

Don't put those pretty little celluloid toys—swans, ducks, fish, etc.—into your aquarium. They affect the water so that they will kill the fish.
