WANT WIRELESS ON FREIGHT STEAMERS

LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Executive Council of the National Sailors and Firemen's Union at an emergency meeting today decided to take a ballot of the members of the Union on the question whether they were prepared to refuse after May 1, 1914, to ship on board any ocean-going craft not equipped with wireless telegraphy.

The Council expressed the opinion that much loss of life on cargo boats could be avoided if they were equipped with wireless telegraphy which could be done at a cost of $2,000 a year for each vessel.

The Council proposes to invite the seamen of the other nations to join in the movement.

PARTRIDGE SEASON OPENS.—Partridges, which up to yesterday, were taboo with sportsmen on the Island, according to the provisions of the Game Act, are from now on, the lawful game of all devotees of the sporting gun. It is stated that the birds are very plentiful, so that gunmen may expect good sport whenever they should go out for a day with their birds. They are said to be most plentiful in the east and west parts of the Island. One or two of the most ardent sportsmen in the city yesterday intended to take immediate advantage of the raising of the embargo, but the weather was too inclement to make promise of a pleasant tramp among the woods, and the contemplated day's sport was abandoned.

CHURCHES AMALGAMATE.—The First Presbyterian Church and St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of Truro are about to unite forces and a committee on supply was appointed to moderate a call to some minister. I., and was educated at Prince of Wales College, Dalhousie University, Pine Hill College, and in Edinburgh. He has been pastor of the Kirk Church for almost six years, and during that time, has endeared himself to all the members and built up the congregation noticeably. Not only within the pale of his own church is he respected and loved but throughout the whole town where he was willing to undertake any good work, denominational or otherwise.

The following tried and true shots will represent the first team of the fourth regiment:—Capt. D. A. McKinnon, Lieut. E. Ritchie, Staff Sergt. J. Landrigan, Sergt. A. McCabe, Gunner P. Landrigan. The Civilian Rifle Club team will not be selected until Saturday and will doubtless be chosen from the following names:—Major Jones, George Moore, P. Barlow, G. F. Hutcheson, G. R. Beer, R. V. EVANGELINE OFF THE ROUTE.—The Plant Line Evangeline due today from Boston will lay up at Halifax. The A. W. Perry will take the trip to Charlottetown and remain in the service until navigation closes in the straits, says an exchange. The Evangeline will probably be ready for the south about the first of December. It is likely that the Halifax will be laid up here for the winter. She is now in the stream of Mill Cove, Dartmouth, and the A. W. Perry is at the Plant pier making ready for her trip to-night.

Mr. and Mrs. Keirstead will make their home at 160 Brussels Street.

LAI D TO REST.—The funeral of the late Rev. James Sinclair, formerly of this Province, who died so suddenly at Harbor Grace, Nfld., was held Friday afternoon at Poughig, Colchester Co. The reverend gentleman formerly laboured there for many years. The Synod in session in Sydney delegated Rev. Dr. Cummings to conduct the funeral services. Several former parishioners of Mr. Sinclair from the East River went to Poughig to be present, says the New Glasgow Chronicle.

THE RAIN.—Since two o'clock on Monday morning Charlottetown has been literally deluged with rain, the storm being one of the heaviest in the Province in recent times. Yesterday a strong, gusty wind came up and this added much to the unpleasantness of the weather. The rain in many places was ankle deep. On a level, it is reported from the meteorological Station, it was 1 1/2 inches deep yesterday and about the same on the previous day. The total fall for the two days is 3.1-10 inches, and still the rain was falling heavily early this morning and showed no signs of abatement.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The Hawkesbury Journal says that on Saturday morning last this community was shocked with the news that Mr. Blanchard was dead. Friday afternoon he was about town apparently in his usual health and Saturday morning he was found dead in his own house. The condition and position of the body when found would indicate that he died early in the evening and that the call came suddenly. During the day he complained of a pain in the region of the heart, but he was in good spirits and no one imagined anything serious was wrong. Since the death of his wife four weeks ago he has been living alone and had just completed arrangements to have a widowed sister make her home with him. Francis H. Blanchard was born in P. E. Island but lived here since a young man. He was well known throughout Cape Breton. Before there was any railway facilities in these parts he kept a stable of good horses and drove commercial men and others on their trips on different parts of the island. Two brothers, John in P. E. Island, and John in Truro and three sisters, Jane and Adeline in Truro, and Ada in Montreal, survive him. The funeral took place on Monday, Rev. J. Astbury conducted services at the house, after which the members of the Masonic order took charge and held an impressive service at the grave.
