

SAID RICHESON I AM INNOCENT

When the plan of the lawyers for the defense was made known to the police authorities they only smiled.

"The thing I am unable to explain is the attitude of the Edmonds family. They are wealthy, aristocratic people, and are defending a man who has been shown to have a career that is a disgrace to the ministry, even the innocent of murdering Avis Linnell."

Chief Dignan was surrounded by his staff of investigators while making this statement for The American every man present concurred in what was said.

The police will not be surprised if Richeson produces at the time of his trial a bottle of cyanide of potassium, contending that it is the same poison and the same receptacle received from Druggist William Hahn in Newton on October 10.

To offset any clever move of this kind a detailed description of the vital and the exact weight of the drug received from Hahn has been obtained in a sworn statement from the druggist.

The police assert a man capable of committing the crime with which Richeson is charged undoubtedly would have sufficient foresight to prepare such evidence.

Miss Beulah McCarter, of Harwick, a friend of Avis Linnell, told of the joy which the little Hyanis girl spent the summer months preparing for her marriage to the Rev. Mr. Richeson.

"I am greatly shocked by the death of poor Avis Linnell," said Miss McCarter. "She was a girl I loved. We were school mates at the Normal school. This summer she talked frequently of her approaching marriage to Mr. Richeson. I met him on one of two occasions."

"He was a most fascinating man, and Avis thought the world of him. She spent most of her time this summer planning for her wedding and working on her trousseau."

"She asked me to be one of her bridesmaids. She also asked three other girls—Miss Edith Ormsby, Miss Helen Crosby and Miss Georgia Collins. We assured her we would be glad to wait on her during her wedding."

"She thought up all sorts of schemes for her wedding which she told us would be some time during the fall. At last she decided on a rainbow wedding. That is, each of the bridesmaids was to be garbed in a different lined dress. And to further carry out the idea, the church decorations were to be of the colors of the rainbow. In addition, there was to be a picturesque background of various colored decorations."

"I was to wear green, Miss Crosby pink, Miss Collins blue, and Miss Ormsby yellow. We all had commenced making our bridesmaid dresses, and we had planned to have them finished within a few weeks. But now our labors have been in vain."

"Avis was a beautiful girl, she was a delightful companion, always cheerful, true and kind hearted. It is terrible to think she should have met my great regard for her that I am anxious to tell I know of this blighted wedding."

"I cannot conceive how Mr. Richeson could have been so cruel. He was such a pleasant man. He seemed to be a true-hearted Christian clergyman. I thought he was an ideal match for Avis."

Others chosen by Avis Linnell to be her bridesmaids in Hyanis told of that young woman's great love for Richeson.

"Avis told me about her engagement to Mr. Richeson early in the spring of 1910," said Miss Nellie Ormsby, "but just a few girls in Avis's class in high school knew about it to any one until after the dinner at Avis's home July 4 of that year."

"It was at that dinner that Mr. Richeson placed the diamond ring on her finger and Avis said, 'My engagement is a secret no longer.'"

"It seemed at that time that no happier couple ever existed on earth. After the dinner, Avis said, 'Now, girls, you must be ready at most any time during the coming year to stand by my side on my wedding day.'" shot gun and drove him away with this. The hired man, Rosser, also threatened the visitors with his gun. Dr. Magee rejoined his friends on seeing fire arms and they re-embarked in the automobile in which they had arrived. F. D. McRae was near the witness at the time.

Witness testified that suddenly, as the party were leaving, he heard a shot, but did not see it fired. He did not know till the next day anyone was injured.

Constable Uren, who accompanied Magee, swore that he was in the automobile when the shot was fired. MacRae had run down the road, dropped on his knee and apparently aiming at Magee, cried: "You Protestant hound," and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck Shaw, who died 3 x days later.

What has been declared to be the best game of intermediate football seen in this city for years was played yesterday afternoon between the P. W. C. and Abegweits at the A. A. A. Grounds. A large attendance watched and enjoyed throughout a good snappy, clean and sportasmlike game in which the interest was evenly maintained from whistle to whistle. These two teams met before and the result was 23-0 in favor of the P. W. Cs. Profiting by the sad tale told in the above figures the Abbies set about to improve the apparent weak point in their team and that they did effectually improve their forward line was plainly shown in yesterday's contest, which ended 3-0 again in favor of the P. W. Cs., though the red and black juniors had the advantage throughout the greater part of the game. Bearisto, for the Collegians, scored about seven minutes after the start, taking advantage of a good opportunity and making a nice run across the line. After this the Abbies took matters in hand and for the remainder of the half, and also in the second half, made strenuous efforts to score, forcing their opponents to rouse three times after the start, taking advantage of the close of the game having the ball on the College line. Bearisto and McCarey starred for P. W. C., and Nelson and Whitlock shone brilliantly for the Abbies. A. W. Gaudet and Roy Fitzgerald were touch judges and James McMillan refereed most satisfactorily.

Berlin, Oct. 24—In the Reichstag yesterday, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, replying to a number of interpellations, spoke for two hours on the question of the high cost of living. He scouted the suggestion of abrogating the present tariff. He expressed the opinion that even a temporary suspension would be a dangerous experiment.

Referring to the proposed admission of American meat as a relief from the present prices, the Chancellor pointed out that live sheep and hogs were not allowed to enter the country, but added that the Government must refuse to change the regulations laid down in the inspection laws.

Continuing, the Chancellor denied that there was any abnormal rise in the prices of the necessities of life and hinted that the matter had been exaggerated because of the approaching elections.

He also called attention to the fact that steps had been taken by various municipalities to deal with the matter of prices of food. It was urged that if the tariffs advanced the cost of living they also advanced the general prosperity of the country. "The present dearthness of the cost of living," he believed, was passing away.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 24—"American women will have only four toes on each foot a thousand years from now, because they wear shoes so small for them. This in time will pinch the little toe of each foot out of existence."

This was the assertion today of Dr. Franz Bergman, a noted physician of Berlin, touring the United States to study American life. Dr. Bergman has been in America one year and is about to return to his home, where he will file a report on what he has found with a board of medical researchers.

"The great pity in the loss of the little toe will be that the men will have to suffer for the folly and the vanity of the women," continued the doctor. "It will take Americans to bring about this change in the anatomy of the foot, but it is coming. In fact it is already in progress."

The toes of American women are cramped out of their natural shapes. One year they wear high heels, the next low. Some seasons their toes are pinched by shoes narrowing in front to a point and others shoved upward or sideways by shoes that represent the changing styles.

"The only way to save the little toes of the future generations is to start women in America wearing sandals. The women of Rome and Greece in the days of the empire had beautiful feet. That is because they wore sandals. Sandals are just as easy and just as attractive, once you get used to them."

"In France and China women have worn small shoes for many generations. The women of these nations have but a stud of hornless flesh for a toe. They are almost clubfooted and if they were put in sandals they would totter like a tall building in an earthquake."

"American women have a chance to save their toes if they will. The men owe it to the men 100 years from now to see that they stop pinching their feet."

KILLED BY A LION

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 25—Smiling, despite the pain caused by frightful wounds which covered her back and arms twelve-year-old Martha Frazier died today as a result of being attacked by a lion in Utica, Miss., where a circus was performing.

The girl was alone in a cage with the lions at the time she was attacked. The animals had been docile, and there was no intimation of trouble when she put them through their tricks. Her concluding act was to make the largest lion roll over on his back and put his feet together.

The lion refused to move and the girl prodded him with a stick. The beast then sprang upon her, and mangled her badly before he was shot.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Almost every day The Guardian receives orders by mail to insert new matter of an advertising nature. In most of these cases the senders, who are frequently not known to any member of the staff and who have no account in the advertising department, write "Please insert the following and oblige," thus apparently implying that they think the items will be inserted free. Only a few weeks' advertisement of Palm for Sale by inserted free from day to day until he cancelled it, as he is a subscriber to the Guardian. In this connection it may be said that subscription price is not sufficient to even pay the actual cost of paper, ink, presswork, mailing, bookkeeping and other expenses of the Circulation department proper, and thus subscribers have no privileges of free advertising and are in the same footing as non-subscribers. Senders ever does the paper state whether the item is to appear in the Morning Daily or the Rural Daily, whether for one or more times in either Daily, or in both, whether as a display advertisement, announcement, business local, classified ad or for other purposes they seldom ever say so, or do not enclose sufficient money to pay for same all of which will be returned by first mail in the event of the item not being chargeable; or if more money is sent than necessary to pay for the item the surplus will be returned at once, there being a greater discount for cash with order for advertising of charges &c than for regular business. In all such cases the Advertising department communicates with the sender as quickly as possible by mail or phone, often paying the messenger service to get them to the telephone if not too far distant, this saving all possible time. People write to this office to know if News, Letters to Editor, etc., are charged for, and to all such there is but one reply—all items etc. of a money making nature, even though they be somewhat of a news nature, are chargeable. For instance, the advance notice or notices of a concert, lecture, picnic, etc., are chargeable if an admission fee, silver collection, sale of pies or sale of food or refreshments, etc. Advance notices of purely religious services, even tho a silver collection is to be taken up, are not chargeable. The particulars of any of the above, after they have been filed, are, however, news and thus not chargeable. The news of any past, present or future business, which is still being conducted, is chargeable, if it is apparent that the object is to make the business more widely known and thus increase it. Verases accompanying death notices are also chargeable. Even items which are actual news and not chargeable for but once in either Morning Daily or Rural Daily or both are chargeable for more than one insertion, as they are thus not news. The above facts are given for the purpose of assisting persons who have items, etc., to mail to this office, so that delay and disappointment will be avoided. 3-16drtf.
