INVASION OF CAPE COLONY.

There are many indications that the northern portion of Cape Colony on the border of the Orange Free State, now being strongly invaded by the enemy, will be the scene of stirring events in the near future. Three railways from the coast afford lines of communication inwards. One of these extends from Cape Town north-easterly to Hopetown and thence northward to Kimberly, Mafeking and Buluwayo. Other lines extend northward from Port Elizabeth and northeasterly from East London toward the Orange State Border and on through that state. These three railway lines are connected by cross railways in Cape Colony, generally speaking from 40 to 50 miles south of the Orange State border.

De Aar Junction is on the road from Cape Town to Kimberly and is still held by British forces. Naauwport Junction is on the road from Port Elizabeth, and is reported about to be evacuated by the British. Stromberg Junction is on the road from East London, and has been evacuated by the British and occupied by the Orange State troops. The large British stores of guns, ammunition and food supplies gathered there are reported to have been removed sixty miles southward.

These movements show that the Orange State troops have not only anticipated General Buller's promised invasion, but have come forward forty or fifty miles into Cape Colony along all the possible lines of his advance to meet him. At this stage the aggressive movement against Cape Colony begins to assume proportions that will divide attention with the situation at Ladysmith.

Meanwhile the telegrams announce the arrival of British troops at Cape Town from day to day, and their rapid departure inland. They must quickly come into touch with the invaders.

IF WHITE SHOULD RETREAT.

"The Boers do not occupy any positions of advantage south of Ladysmith," writes an Africander correspondent of an American paper, "but apparently are confining themselves to the mountains on the north and west, where they have mounted their heavy guns, and which are at least from 6,000 to 8,000 yards from the British camp."

"In case the British should decide to evacuate Ladysmith and retreat towards Pietermaritzburg they will accomplish this move with comparative safety, inasmuch as the country south and east is open and free from hills and kopjes, thus affording the best possible opportunities for operations of their cavalry. Once on open ground the British cavalry can hold their own against big odds of Boers, and will successfully cover the retreat of the infantry and heavy artillery."

"Pietermaritzburg is a stronghold that the British will be able to maintain against the largest force the Boers can hope to bring together so far from their own base of supplies. Not only is it a regular garrison town, but the surrounding hills are well fortified with heavy guns. The Lwartkops range has sixty forty-pounders, besides three heavy pieces."

The above quoted paragraphs were written before the complete investment of Ladysmith and the cutting of its railway communication, but it serves to show that Gen. White, if he should find it desirable to retire from Ladysmith might do so independently of the railway by way of the open level country to the southeast.

THE EDITOR'S MAIL.

A Voice From Georgetown.

SIR.—A traveller passing through Georgetown, could no help remarking that it was indeed a beautiful, quiet town. The object of this letter, however, is to give even her own citizens, some small idea, of what rapid strides, the devil's greatest ally, the saloon, is making.

The majority of her citizens, may be in ignorance of this; but if they would take a walk through the streets of the capital of King's County anytime after 10 p. m. their doubts would soon vanish. Now christian friends, I think it is time that our Christian Ministers, on Prince Edward Island would had an army, against the devil in this most important evil, since our government has failed to do so. Let all zealous workers ask themselves the question, "What would Jesus do," and Prince Edward Island would soon be the "Garden of the Gulf." One thing, however, we should be thankful for, is, that we have the GUARDIAN on our side. A paper that will stand up for what is right.

A REFORMER

3,100 Bullets a Minute.

The new field gun, which fires a shrapnel shell, and which is in its perfected state is now being used for the first time by the British in South Africa, is perhaps the most deadly weapon of modern warfare. Each gun can fire twelve aimed shots a minute, and each shot carries 260 bullets, weighing forty-two to the pound. The shrapnel shell consists of a piece of steel tubing filled with small balls. At the head of the shell is a time fuse, which can be adjusted to suit the range at which the gun is to be fired. This fuse ignites the small charge of powder which lies in front of the bullets. The firing of the guns ignites the fuse, which burns for the time for which it has been set. It then fires the powder, which bursts the shell and sends 260 bullets flying among the enemy. It is said that these bullets scatter like shot from a fowling piece and cover a space of twenty-four square yards with a rain of lead. The guns have a killing range of 3,500 yards.

ULCERATED TONSILS.

Burdoek Blood Bitters cured Mr. John Couch, of Warton, Ont., 11 years ago, and he has had no return of the trouble.

Ulcerations or Ulcerated Sores, no matter where they occur on the body, are an indication of bad blood. There is no means of curing them and healing up the sores unless the blood is purified, and there is no remedy can do this with such effectiveness as Burdoek Blood Bitters. The ease of Mr. John Couch, which we give below, is only another example of the wonderful thoroughness and permanency of the curing properties of B.B.B.

Here is the letter written by Mr. Couch's daughter, dated Warton, Ont., Jan. 23rd, 1894:

"This is to certify that some years ago my father, John Couch, was troubled with ulcers in his tonsils. After suffering for about a year and getting no relief from the doctors, he was advised to try Burdoek Blood Bitters, which he did.

"On taking the first bottle there was a great change for the better, and before the second bottle was finished he was completely cured. We have great faith in B.B.B. as a blood purifier and family medicine, and would recommend it to all those who suffer from any disease resulting from impure blood." ETTA J. COUCH.

Here is the letter written a short time ago by Mr. John Couch:

"It is now nearly eleven years ago since I took Burdoek Blood Bitters for ulcerated tonsils, from which I had suffered for about a year.

"The cure made then was a complete and permanent one, as I never had the slightest return of the trouble since." JOHN COUCH.
