—PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE RECTOR—Rev. G. R. Harrison paid a fitting tribute to the late Archdeacon C. de W. White, (rector of St. Mary's and St. John's Church for over a quarter of a century), during his sermons on Sunday, both at St. Mary's and St. John's Church. He spoke of the splendid example their late rector had been to his congregations and how worthily he had set forth and upheld the doctrines of the Anglican Church both in the pulpit and in the sacraments of the church. He trusted that all who had been privileged to belong to his congregations and listened to his teachings would try to follow them and revere his memory. The hymns sung were appropriate for the solemn occasion and before the Blessing the rector asked that the congregation stand in silence for a few moments and remember their late rector and his family before the throne of the Heavenly Father.—S

PORRIDGE CAUSE OF PRISON ROW

HALIFAX, Jan. 10 (CP) — An altercation over the quantity of porridge being served sick prisoners in Rockhead Prison yesterday here added two months to the term of one prisoner and caused discomfiture to another.

According to evidence at the hearing, one man was dishing out porridge for the sick prisoners' Sunday breakfast and didn't put enough in the bowl to suit one of the waiter. The latter, he alleged, thereupon struck him on the "ear and nose."

The judge in sentencing the waiter rebuked him for creating a disturbance in such an institution as the city prison, where, he said, it might have caused a riot. At the same time he commended the prisoner for the "laudable work" he had been doing in looking after the interests of the sick men.

were all generously remembered. Short addresses were given by Mr. Dunne, MacMillan, Rev. Mr. McPhail and Rev. R. Hensley Stavert. All spoke of the good work being done by the teacher as evidenced by the splendid program put on by the children.

A hearty vote of thanks to the teacher was moved, seconded and extended to her by the chairman and by her very suitably acknowledged. The singing of the National Anthem brought a very pleasant and profitable afternoon to a close.

FARM PRICES

prices compared favorably with those of other groups for the first time in eight years.

Recovery Maintained

"It is probable that a substantial part of this recovery in prices will be maintained, and that relationships between agricultural and non-agricultural prices will not be seriously disturbed during 1938."

Apart from poor yields or crop failures in some large areas, notably Saskatchewan, Canadian farmers generally had a fairly good year in 1937 and the Outlook takes the position prospects are good for a repetition of this in 1938.

World wheat supplies have been reduced to more normal levels and supplies of exporting countries are only slightly in excess of supplies in importing countries. This leads to the belief that wheat prices will not change much until the 1938 crop can be estimated.

Short of Demand

"Total exports of 75,000,000 to 85,000,000 bushels for the present crop year fall regrettably short of fulfilling the volume of Canadian wheat that importing countries have been willing to take even in the years of low world import demand," the report states.

"It is vital to the interest of Canada to have at least 200,000,000 bushels of wheat available for export in each crop year in order that the advantage of existing markets may be realized. The small carryover available in 1937 and likely to be repeated in 1938 is inadequate to ensure continuous export supplies should domestic crop shortages occur."

"With these considerations in mind a normal crop in 1938 on an acreage similar to that of 1937 is desirable."

Cattle Decline

The number of cattle on farms was lower at the end of 1937 than 1936 and as it takes a number of years to restock market supplies will probably be lower for the next three or four years. Hog numbers were also lower but hog marketings are expected to increase again by the fall of 1938. No drastic decline in either cattle or hog prices is expected.

Salient features of the Outlook for individual commodities according to an official summary follow:

Grain

The slightly higher 1937 world wheat crop was almost offset by a reduction in world stocks.

Supplies in normally importing countries are greater and a lower volume of international trade is in prospect.

Supplies in exporting countries are only moderately in excess of import requirements and prices are expected to rule around their present levels until 1938 crops can be appraised.

A succession of poor crops of oats has depleted reserves and emphasized the necessity of building up adequate stocks to provide against years of scarcity.

Barley acreage in 1938 is expected to be about equal to that of 1937.

Although the 1937 production of rye was 34 per cent more than in 1936, it was still below the five-year average of 1930-34.

With a small crop in 1937 total available supplies of flax seed are approximately 1,000,000 bushels below a year ago.

An increased acreage in those areas where flax can be grown successfully may be justified.

Seed grain supply in the Prairie Provinces will be short for 1938 seedling, unless the required quantity of seed is obtained early.

British Columbia and Eastern Canada should have a sufficient supply of grain for 1938 seedling, although some local distribution may be necessary.

Clover, Alfalfa and Grass Seeds

The total crop of red clover and alsike seed in 1937 was the smallest for several years, and importations are necessary.

The total supply of alfalfa seed was increased, particularly in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, creating a supply for export as well as domestic requirements.

The higher prices of 1936-37 obtained for most seeds were due mainly to export demand, particularly from the United States.

Poultry and Eggs

Egg production during the first 10 months of 1938 will probably be no higher than that of the same period of 1937.

Indications are that egg prices may be slightly higher in 1938 than in 1937.

The poultry market in 1937 showed a distinct improvement over 1936. Exports of live and dressed poultry increased.

Prices of poultry in 1938 should, for the most part, be comparable with those of 1937.

Dairy Products

Total milk production in Canada has shown a steady increase for several years.

Prices were higher in 1937 and the value of dairy production was the greatest recorded since 1930.

Butter stocks are low at the beginning of 1938 and prices are expected to average higher during the early part of 1938.

Cheese production in 1937

Tormentine

Mr. and Mrs. George Spence have returned to their home here after a very pleasant trip to Boston and other American cities.

Miss Ella Cormier, has returned to her home here after spending some time in Moncton.

Mr. Blake Oulton, has returned to Sackville, to resume his studies at Mount Allison University.

realized the highest level since 1936. Exports were increased and prices were higher.

Fruit

Reduced apple plantings from 1925 to 1934 will probably influence production in the next few years.

The 1937 apple crop of 5,000,000 barrels was one of the largest on record. The increase was general in all producing provinces.

Recovery of apples trees in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia from recent winter injury has been more rapid than expected.

There were sharp increases in peach tree plantings during 1936 and 1937.

The 1937 peach crop was 49 per cent above that of 1936.

New early varieties have advanced the main production period of peaches.

Pear tree plantings have been increasing since 1933.

The cherry crop was below average in 1937 for the third successive year.

Strawberry production was sharply higher in 1937.

Potatoes

Potato acreage in 1937 was seven per cent above that of 1936. Production increased by 4,700,000 bushels.

Returns during the early part of 1937-38 indicate that average prices will be lower than in 1936-37.
