IMPRESSIVE ARMISTICE SERVICE HELD

M. Poincare Reorganizes The French Cabinet

REUNION OF WAR VET'RANS

Four Hundred Canadians Who Fought in C. E. F. Dine Together at Hotel Cecil.

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, Nov. 10—Over four hundred veterans of the Canadian expeditionary force reunited at dinner at the Hotel Cecil, London, tonight. The most exciting moment of a thrilling evening was at about 10.30 o'clock. Field Marshal Lord Plumer had just finished a speech when the announcement was made: "Gentlemen, your commander, Lord Byng of Vimy."

Byng had come from the Lord Mayor's banquet and was in levee dress with decorations and sword. The whole company rose and cheered and then broke into song, "The Gang's All Here."

Plumer had paid a glowing tribute to the Canadian forces. He was their army commander when they withstood the first German gas attack at Ypres. Conditions were then so terrible that in manoeuvres the umpire would have ruled them out as impossible and no troops would have been asked to hold such positions as Canadians were in.

"But," said Plumer, "the Canadians defended the indefensible and accomplished the impossible." Plumer said of Sir Arthur Currie that he rose step by step to be one of the ablest and most successful corps commanders on the western front.

Sir Arthur in reply humorously referred to hot times given him by Plumer. Sir Arthur said when he himself met men in Canada who have been his junior officers they recalled uncomfortable times he had given them.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 10—Fifty officers and men of the Serbian steamer Chuma Mora, from Constantinople, perished today when the vessel foundered in the Black Sea.

Richest Spot In the World Is Described
(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, Nov. 10—The richest spot in the world, where diamonds can be picked up as easily as pebbles on the beach, and which as a consequence is patrolled by armed police, is described by the Daily Mail's Capetown correspondent, who succeeded in visiting it. This place of almost fabulous wealth is the new diamond field at Namaqualand from which the South African government is obtaining ten to fifteen million dollars worth of stones monthly. It is the lode star, says the correspondent, which has attracted some of the most desperate crooks in Europe and America who are engaged in illicit diamond buying from anybody able to supply them.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 10—Juliu Maniu and his cabinet of peasant leaders took solemn oath before the regency today to support not only the constitution but the regency, and the entire Rumanian dynasty, and to do nothing to bring former Crown Prince Carol back.

Observance at Summerside
Armistice Day was very reverent and fittingly observed at Summerside as elsewhere throughout the province. In all the churches at eleven o'clock the impressive two minutes silence was observed, special services were held and appropriate sermons were preached. At the soldiers' memorial in Dominion Square at the eleventh hour members of the Canadian Legion assembled in a body and stood with bared and bowed heads while Comrade Fred McLeod laid their hands on the monument.

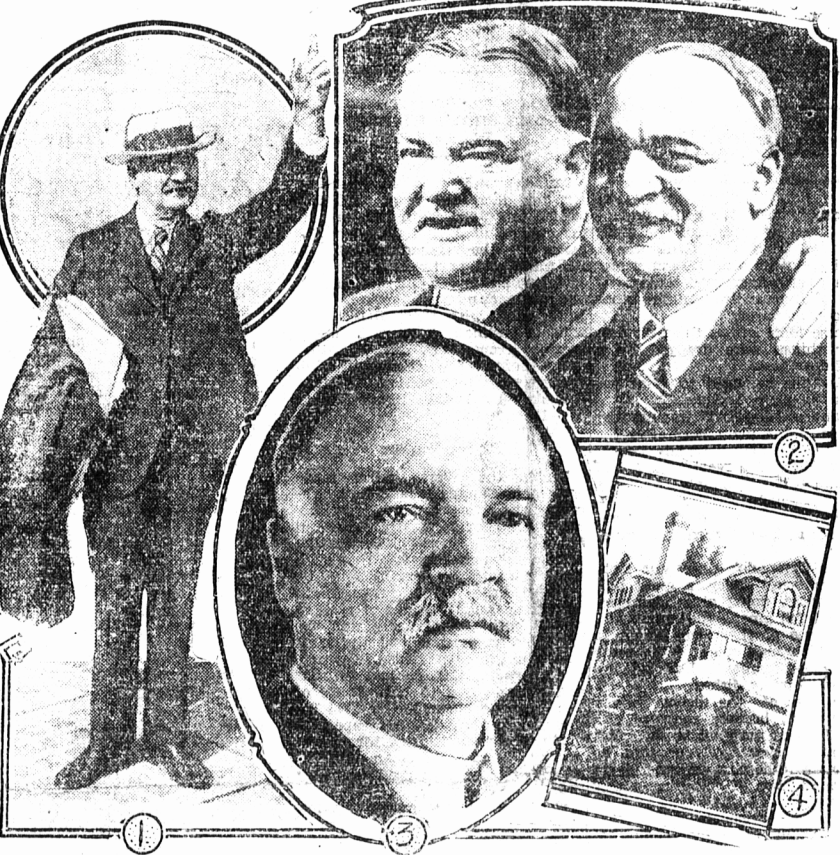

Other handsome wreaths were laid without ceremony but with due reverence as follows,—on behalf of the Town of Summerside by Major (Councillor) E. H. Strong, the I. O. D. E. by Capt. L. A. Moore, the Summerside High School by Master Thomas White, the card in loving remembrance being deposited by Master Arthur Sullivan. Both these boys had lost their brothers in the Great War.

Proposals Will Have His Consideration
(Special to The Guardian)
OTTAWA, Nov. 10—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and law officers of the Crown will study the proposals embodied in Chief Justice Meredith's letter to the cabinet proposing that officers of the law be restricted in the use of firearms.

"I read Chief Justice Meredith's letter today," declared the minister today, "and have replied to it. I will consider the proposals to amend the criminal code. I can offer no further opinion on the subject without further consideration and consultation."

Five Convictions Out of 8 Cases
Prohibition Magistrate George J. Tweedy had another busy day at the Court House in Summerside on Saturday, when two new cases came before him besides the six upon which judgment was reserved on November 2nd.

The first case was against a Summerside party charged with having liquor in his possession. Counsel for the defence claimed that according to the evidence defendant was so drunk that he was not responsible. Without further evidence the Magistrate inflicted a fine of $200 or three months in jail.

In the next case, also against a Summerside party, two prohibition inspectors gave evidence that when the defendant ran away from them he threw a bottle of whiskey on the railway track. No evidence was called for the defence. His Honor reserved judgment.

Mr. Tweedy then proceeded to deliver judgment on the six cases tried before him on November 2. One was dismissed for want of evidence and another because His Honor deemed that the defendant had rebutted the presumption raised, finding of liquor on his premises. In the remaining four cases the defendants were each fined $200 or three months in jail.

'T WAS RELISHED HEARTILY UPON YE THANKSGIVING
"A true Thanksgiving mince-ple should be an inch thick, with a thin, flaky crust, tinted by its imprisoned juices, which threaten to break through like blood from overfull veins. Around its edge must be a slight crinkle made by the tines of a fork or castor-bottle cover; and in its top a hole here and there from the stroke of a knife to let the steam out. This steam, once known, can never be forgotten—the intermingled exhalation of beef and pork or suet, and apple and raisins and citron and sugar and spices and boiled cider, and, in profane families, of a dash of good brandy. When you press upon its upper crust, there should gush up from the slashes a brown gravy, sparkling with tiny globules of fat, and deliciously scented the room. Fortunately they who have been permitted to relish, with a slice of cream cheese, and a mug of sweet cider, this healthful, bliss-giving pie!"

Chamberlain and Family Reach Ottawa
(Special to The Guardian)
OTTAWA, Nov. 10—After the thrill of derailment and an escape from possible injury, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary and family, reached Ottawa at 5.15 this morning. The train was delayed by an accident which occurred at 2.50 this morning near Havelock on account of a broken rail.

The private car Strathcona in which the distinguished party was travelling, left the rails, but apart from a slight shaking up no one was injured. It was necessary for Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain to transfer to the private car Killarney.

An investigation to determine the cause of the accident was ordered by the divisional superintendent. The train was delayed an hour and 25 minutes.

The Late Prof. H. W. Vinnicombe

It was with a feeling of regret and surprise that the citizens of Charlottetown learned of the death at 1 p. m. yesterday of Henry Westaway Vinnicombe at the advanced age of eighty-five years.

Notwithstanding his years, Mr. Vinnicombe enjoyed a fair measure of health until last Tuesday. His condition, however, was not thought to be serious until a few hours before the end which came peacefully as above stated.

Mr. Vinnicombe was born at Exeter, Devonshire County, England March 15th, 1843. He was a chorister in Exeter Cathedral from 1859 to 1863, also a member of Exeter Cratorio and Philharmonic societies. Mr. Vinnicombe emigrated to Canada, landing at Quebec in 1864 and came to Prince Edward Island in 1865, where he founded a family.

The first of that name in Canada, he was a musician of great ability, being during his early days one of the few teachers of violin in this city. He was for many years bandmaster of the 82nd regiment band and was founder and leader of the Charlottetown orchestra. He also directed the orchestra in what was then the Opera House up to the time that it became a motion picture theatre. At that time, Mr. Vinnicombe retired from the active practice of his profession both as teacher and conductor.

He married in 1883, Mary Isabel Carruthers. She predeceased him, dying on October 6th, 1927.

There are two daughters and two sons, Mrs. A. E. Davis, of Avon, N. J., who visited her home this summer, Ruth, in the Department of Agriculture, Harry and Arthur at home.

The late Mr. Vinnicombe was a gentleman of genial and friendly disposition and during his long residence in Charlottetown had made many friends. He was a general favorite in musical and social circles and was a consistent member of St. Peter's Cathedral. He was a devoted husband and father, a kind friend, and a good citizen. To his bereaved family The Guardian extends sincere sympathy.

GREAT PARADE OF VETERANS

HIROHITO ENTHRONED AS EMPEROR OF JAPAN
(Canadian Press)
KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10—A new sovereign today formally ascended the "high august seat," the throne of the unbroken line of the heirs of the Sun Goddess who have reigned over Japan from before the dawn of authentic history. Before the highest dignitaries of his realm and representatives of 26 other nations, from his seat under the phoenix-created canopy, Hirohito made the announcement this afternoon by which he took his place as the 124th Emperor of Japan and among the enthroned monarchs of the world.

This Armistice Day, the tenth that has passed since the roar of the guns ceased along the front at the eleventh hour of November 11th, 1918, was observed in this city with a greater solemnity, it seemed—with a deeper sense of that tribute of respect and remembrance owed by the people of this land to those who had laid down their sword forever in her battles during these fateful years between 1914 and 1918, than ever before.

The number of the veterans who assembled to honour the memory of their fellow comrades was the largest which has yet been recorded here since Armistice Day. Over two hundred and fifty men moved off in the procession, which forming up in front of the Legion home, went by way of Queen, Kent, Prince and Grafton Streets to the monument.

Here the service, stately in its simplicity and poignant in its memories of a glorious and triumphant sacrifice was said beneath the soft skies and the mellow sunshine of the November day.

The men formed in hollow square about the monument, "O Canada" was sung and there was a brief address by Rev. Dr. Ramsay. There followed the hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past," an address by Rev. Father MacKenzie and prayer by Rev. Edward Bridgewater. Then rang out clear upon the air the "Last Post." No sooner had the notes of the call died away than the first stroke of the town clock as it sounded the eleventh hour was heard.

There was the dull boom of a gun, the metallic clanking of the clock gong ceased and silence fell upon all the assembled throng.

Pervent and impressive though the words had been of those who had addressed the veterans and the people, this stillness was yet more eloquent. Its voice was the voice of the dead, of those who had gone down into silence; who had passed on their torch to the living, in the trust that they would keep the faith.

One hoped—indeed one felt that to the hearts of those who stood here in quietness with bowed heads, there was vouchsafed some part of that wondrous spirit of selfless brotherhood—of that true comradeship whereby men gladly lay down their lives for their friends—which informed the hearts of those who trod and fought and died in the filthy trenches whose traces still lie like blood stains upon the fair fields of France and Flanders.

War is a strange paradox. You are there to kill the enemy—as many of him as you can—and it is your duty to do it. It is a dirty cruel game, no doubt. But somehow, like a consuming fire it seems to purge away the dross of life—the vices, the hypocrisies, the contemtable meanness of the struggle for place, for power or for money which ever besets mankind as it walks the pleasant ways of peace. The boys in the trenches showed none of it towards each other or even toward the captured enemy. At the front men thought only of helping their comrades; never of scheming to out-do them—at least those who served under fire did not do so. Think what you will of war and its terrible aftermath, you must yet admit that there is no greater thing in the world than the spirit which leads men to march through hardship to death for an ideal—even if that ideal in the light of a calmer day and a clearer understanding seems but a thing of shoddy grand and glittering tinsel, cheap and
