

THE QUEEN'S COUNTY GUARDIAN

Head Offices in New Prowse Block—Charlottetown

The latest news, first of all.

The Northumberland arrived at this port at eight-fifteen last evening.

Train leaves tomorrow morning at nine for the Baptist picnic at Morrell.

Robert McLaughlin, City, was a passenger on the mail train last night returning from Petewawa.

Leslie Toombs, City, has returned from Georgetown where he was the guest of his uncle, Rev. H. W. Toombs.

Alexander Graham, of the Boston Elevated Railway, accompanied by his wife crossed over by the Empress recently on a visit to his parents, Murdoch and Mrs. Graham, Bradalbane.

In the city retail market yesterday new hay (loose) sold at thirty cents a cwt and the old sold at fifty. Potatoes sold at forty-five to fifty a bus. The other quotations remained unchanged.

There will be splendidly equipped dinner tables, well stocked refreshment booths. Get away from the heat of the city for a day of delightful comfort. Tickets fifty cents. Children half rates. Tomorrow.

A report current in this city yesterday to the effect that one of the Kennedy's stores at Kensington or Bradalbane had been struck by lightning and destroyed on Monday night proves to be without foundation.

Michael Murphy, the crack professional hockey player, formerly of Prince Edward Island, passed through the city yesterday en route to his home in New Glasgow, N. S. He played last season with the North Sydney Victors, the champions of Nova Scotia. St. John Telegraph. It would seem by the above as if St. John was anxious that the most of the crack hockeyists should be credited to this province. What a splendid thing a good reputation is!

Among the guests at Pleasant View Hotel, Hampton, this season are: F. A. Acland, Mrs. Acland, Perrin Acland, Mary Acland, Ottawa; H. A. Hall, Mrs. Hall, Putland, Vt.; Mrs. Dyson Hague, Miss Hague, Miss K. Hague, Miss Cicely Baldwin, London, Ont.; Mrs. Warren Baldwin, Katherine Baldwin, Warren Baldwin, Mrs. D. P. Campbell, Miss Campbell, Miss Brown, Miss Sheppard, Toronto; Miss C. A. Glyn, New York; Gerald Jarvis, Tommy Jarvis, Arnprior, Ont.; L. T. Lister, Toronto; Mrs. R. Hensley, Mrs. Drummond Henderson, Conway Henderson, Westmount, Montreal; W. A. Weeks, Charlottetown; W. M. Prudy, Halifax; H. W. Weeks, Mrs. H. W. Weeks, Bols Weeks, Charlottetown; S. S. Allen, Mrs. Allen, Margaret Allen, Ottawa; G. E. Wales, Mrs. G. E. Wales, Boston; Dr. Blanchard, Mrs. Blanchard, A. A. Bartlett, Mrs. Bartlett, Percy Pope, Mrs. Pope, Charlottetown.

A manager for a grocery store is wanted. See classified column.

Mrs. (Dr.) C. H. Beer, City, is visiting with friends in Georgetown.

F. B. Large, City, returned last night from Petewawa by way of Quebec, where he spent a few days.

Roy Collins, of Moncton, is the guest of Harry F. Cromwell, Metcalf street.—St. John Telegraph. Mr. Collins belongs to this city.

Miss Bella D. Dewar, of Main St., Malden, arrived Monday night to spend a month's vacation with her uncle John Dewar of Newlands.

Sports of all sorts for the young folk at the Baptist picnic tomorrow. Everything that goes to make a delightful day will be ready for you at the grounds near Morrell. Dinner on the grounds, twenty-five cents.

The Baptist S. S. picnic is the last of the sort for the season—take advantage of it—get out into the open air—swim—fish—loaf—eat all you can manage—enjoy every minute of the day. Tickets only fifty cents. Children half price. Train leaves at 9 a. m.

Tomorrow morning at nine the train leaves for the Baptist picnic. The delightful situation of the picnic ground at Morrell is just one of the charms of the day's outing. In addition there will be every opportunity to have a day of fishing or loafing in the shade.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF THE LATE RICHARD GRIFFIN

'Tis the midst of life we are in death. Seldom has the truth of this been so deeply impressed upon the people of South Shore as in the demise of the late Richard Griffin, whose death occurred suddenly at South Shore on Monday, July 18th, and was a great shock to the whole community.

Deceased was born at South Shore on April 21st, 1847, at the home in which he died. Industrious and honest in all his dealings, he made a host of friends both at home and abroad, where he spent quite a number of years, and who today mourn with a sorrowing family, a widow, four sons and three daughters, all of whom are well.

Some new things just received in Moir's chocolates are apricotines, coffee creams, peanut cluster, hazelnut, and uncoated bon-bons. We have over twenty varieties in bulk. These chocolates are now the largest sellers in Eastern Canada. Price 50c. pound in bulk. May be obtained from J. G. Jamieson, Druggist, 7-134dms/251.

whom are at home with the exception of the eldest son, who is Oran, U. S. A. The very largely attended funeral left his residence at nine o'clock Wednesday morning for St. Martin's chapel, where High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father McLeish, from thence to the R. C. Cemetery. The pall bearers were: Jerry Murphy, Edward Doyle, Douglas Curry, Edward Foley, Thomas Burdett and James Hogan.

Dearest father, thou hast left us, And thy loss we deeply feel, But 'tis God who hast bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal.

WEATHER STOPPED FLIGHT.

MONTREAL, July 25.—Count De Lesseps had to postpone his flight today, which was to have been to the Indian village of Caughawaga, on account of unfavorable weather. The count will leave for home via New York in the morning.

CATHOLICS DISSATISFIED, TOO.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Resolutions denouncing the section of the British oath of accession which is opposed to Catholicism were adopted at the thirty-third annual convention of the St. Patrick Alliance, held here today. Unqualified political freedom for Ireland is also demanded.

There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will.

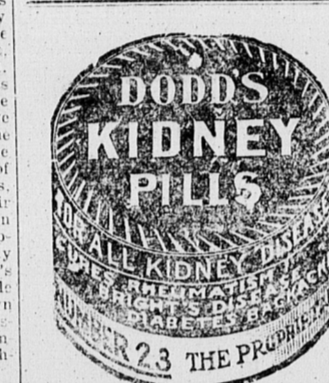

Hamlet, Act V, Sc. 2. Shakespeare is frequently spoken of as the supreme mind of the race. This may seem to many an extravagant claim. Some will point to Michel Angelo and give him the palm for greatness as he occupies a high position in four arts, architecture, painting, sculpture and even verse, whereas Shakespeare was supreme in but one, the drama. Shakespeare's exalted position is due to the fact that he concentrated his mind on life. Mankind is the highest study of man and Shakespeare, more fully than any other thinker in the world's history, has in a practical way investigated and solved man's relationship to society and to the universe in which he lives. It would be difficult to find a character that has not its parallel in Shakespeare's works; it would be hard to discover a situation that has not its like on his pages.

It is most natural that the minds of thinking men should inquiringly turn to him to find out his attitude towards the infinite. Was he atheist, deist or theist? It is frequently asked. The loftiest genius of all times was distinctly a believer in a Supreme Being who was not only the creative impulse in the universe, but is the guiding principle in it and in the lives of the individual inhabitants of even one of the least of the worlds. Earth. Men may rough-hew their lives how they will, but they "are in God's hands." Their ends are shaped by infinite wisdom. It is only necessary to read Shakespeare's great tragedies to see this principle at work. Vice and virtue are shown in all of them in conflict. Shakespeare invariably makes good triumph. The fate of Macbeth, of Richard III, and Anthony are but manifestations of retributive justice. It is maintained by many that Shakespeare was merely an artist, that he constructed plays to please, that from them it is impossible to form a judgment as to his belief or character. The mental attitude of Scott, George, Eliot, Hawthorne, Victor Hugo and Balzac can be ascribed to from their creations, and equally it is true of Shakespeare. His pages as a whole show that he was intensely and broadly religious, and utterances of his noblest characters emphasize this. Hamlet was evidently very dear to Shakespeare and the poet has used him to express many of his own points of view with regard to the problems of existence. It is on Hamlet's lips that he puts the words that have solaced many a heart puzzled by the mysteries of life: "There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will."

To this speech by way of emphasis, "That is most certain." Yes, it is certain; and was most certain to Shakespeare. His work, like all really great work, is largely inspired by the overwhelming sense of Deity. "In the light of setting suns, And the round ocean, and the living air, And the blue sky, and in the mind of man."

He could say with Hamlet, "There is a special providence in the fall of a sparrow," or with old Adam of "As You Like It" he could speak sympathetically of the being that, "Doth the ravens feed. Yea, providently caters for the sparrows." Shakespeare no doubt often paused, as did Hamlet, to wonder at the character of the undiscovered country from whose bourn no traveller returns, but never on his page is there anything to lead the student to believe that he doubted the existence since that he doubted, and acknowledged His God, and that there is a universe and society are sustained and regulated by an over-ruling Providence. Shakespeare frequently makes his noblest characters appeal to God in their difficulties and doubts, and acknowledge His influence in their successes. Henry V. is peculiarly Shakespeare's hero, and Henry V. is a sturdy soldier of unquestioning faith. It was God who "brought to light the dangerous treason" of his nobles. After notable
