WARNING!

What to do when you feel a COLD coming on

Treat your cold at the very first sniffle or sneeze. Be sure your body is slightly more alkaline than acid—alkalize with Alka-Seltzer.

When you feel a cold coming on take two Alka-Seltzer tablets in a glass of water, hot as possible to drink after effervescence ceases. Take Alka-Seltzer every two hours until six or eight tablets have been taken. In addition, attention should be given to the bowels and it is important to go to bed and keep warm.

Two tablets in a quarter glass of hot water gargled every half-hour relieves minor throat irritations.

Alka-Seltzer not only brings quick relief from the distress and discomfort of colds but it helps combat excess acid, upset stomach, heartburn, muscular aches and pains—and "morning after."

Bottles 30c and 60c—and by the glass at soda fountains.

BALTIC SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

The annual Christmas School concert was held in Baltic School Wednesday evening, December 21. The school was crowded to the doors and a neat sum was realized for the benefit of the school. The concert was a grand success for amateurs directed by the efficient management of Mr. John Murphy, teacher. Mr. Bruce Riley capably presided in his usual pleasing manner.

Instrumental music by Mr. James Bearisto on violin and James Harding on guitar added greatly to the concert.

Following was the program:—Christmas greeting; chorus, A Song for Christmas Day; recitation, William Cousins; Christmas exercise; dialogue, The School Master Abroad; recitation, Harold McKenzie; doll exercise; recitation, Muriel Wall; duet, Jean Holmes and Doris Matthews; recitation Sutherland Cousins; drill, Peace on Earth; recitation, Anne Goodwin; instrumental music; dialogue, O. Hafferty, Keir Clark; recitation; trio; playette, Rummage Sale Mince Pies for Christmas; recitation, Reuben Wall; Robert Pierce read a well worded address in behalf of the pupils and Earith Holmes presented the teacher with a beautiful pair of driving gloves, also a nice tie.

Mr. Murphy replied very nicely to the gifts presented to him and said it was a pleasure to be with the children day after day,etc. Mrs. James Wall and others expressed their appreciation to the teacher and pupils. Just then Santa made his appearance and disposed of the presents from a heavily laden tree to children and visitors. The teacher very kindly treated his pupils to apples and candy. Santa took his departure for some other school.

The concert closed with the National Anthem.

London Backs Up at Strong Lines Of Social Drama

By GUY RHOADES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 31—(CP)—Pantomimes are great fun for children and a lot of adults but they're a "pain in the neck" to the official censor who works in the Lord Chamberlain's department.

That official has to read the script of the dozen or more pantos that fill theatres during the holiday season with screaming youngsters of all ages. No song can be sung nor joke cracked without his approval. The censor's work prevents producers, managers and actors from getting into trouble with the law—if they don't do what he tells them not to.

Pantos kept clear of the law this season, kept their jokes clean and not too pungent when they were aimed at foreign political leaders—but a Chester "leftist" theatrical club that put on an uncensored piece from Clifford Odets' "Waiting for Lefty" got itself in a first class tangle.

(This social drama was a feature of the Dominion Drama Festival regional tests in Toronto in 1936).

Nine members of the caste which started to play "Waiting for Lefty" this season in London wound up in police court and were placed on probation for a year for presenting an unlicensed "profane" passage which the magistrate held would never have been licensed by the Lord Chamberlain.

The line the magistrate disliked was the one in which "Fat" yells: "They'll tear Christ from his bleeding cross." A large section of the audience didn't like it either. Many started to walk out and the management brought down the curtain.

Modern Nanki-Poo

London's movie-goers are enjoying something new, a full-length color production of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera "Mikado". The British have two criticisms of this British film.

First, the Wandering Minstrel, Nanki-Poo, is played by Kenny Baker. American radio tenor and he's pretty American in spots. Second, Ko-Ko's song about his little list of people for execution is omitted. It used to include such characters as "the lady novelist", prohibitionists and unpopular political institutions.

Geoffrey Toye who adapted the opera for the film said the reason Ko-Ko's famous song was dropped was that something had to be cut. It was assumed in critical circles also that to make it topical—and its pretty flat unless it is topical—would be to endanger the wrath of the censor.

For the first time in years a Noel Coward play has been produced here without assistance of any kind from the author. Harold French has charge of "Design for Living" which was given a week's run at Brighton before it opened at the Haymarket. London saw the play for the first time, although it was enjoyed previously in New York with the author and the Lunts in the cast.

Plans by Sir Edwin Lutyens and Cecil Masey for the proposed National Theatre provide for what would probably be London's finest bomb proof shelter, in case an air raid created a diversion during the entertainment. The plans show a theatre with a few less than 1,100 seats, but with a fine, deep stage. The bomb proof shelter will be in the deep excavation beneath the whole structure, intended normally for a scenery storage. Site of the proposed building is in South Kensington, not far from the famous blocks of museums
