The Mae Edwards Players

At The Prince Edward All This Week.

(Tonight the popular Mae Edwards Players will open a week's engagement at the Prince Edward theatre, presenting all new plays, changing plays nightly, with matinees daily, commencing on Tuesday.

Miss Edwards has surrounded herself with an entire new company this season and has met with marked success through the Maritime provinces, where Miss Edwards is a great favorite. The opening play tonight will be "The Awakening of Deane Klyne," which had two years' successful run on Broadway. There will be good snappy vaudeville between the acts, to lighten the waits, while the necessary changes are made to the stage settings. In addition there will be The Mae Edwards "Jazz" orchestra which made such a "hit" at the Prince Edward last season.

Seats are now on sale for the entire week at the Theatre ticket office. We would advise you to secure your reservations early, as owing to the large crowds that are expected in town this year, there is certain to be a big demand for seats.

Agnes Ayres and Forrest Stanley in scene from Cecil B. DeMille's Production, "Forbidden Fruit." A Paramount Picture.

"Forbidden Fruit" Three new faces will greet film fans when they see Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount picture "Forbidden Fruit" which will be shown at the STRAND theatre this (Exhibition) Week, on Wednesday and Thursday. All have appeared on the screen before but this production marks their appearance under the Cecil B. DeMille's banner. The trio are Agnes Ayres, Forrest Stanley and Clarence Burton, who play the three characters of the central triangle of Jamie MacPherson's fascinating picture story. Agnes Ayres is known as one of the most beautiful women of the screen. Forrest Stanley who plays the masculine lead, is admittedly one of the most talented of the younger leading men. The supporting company includes Theodore Kosloff, (the famous Russian dancer) Kathryn Williams, Theodore Roberts, Shannon Days, Julia Fays and Bertram Johns.
