NEW ANNAN SCHOOL CONCERT AND CHRISTMAS TREE

On Thursday evening, Dec. 23rd a most enjoyable concert and Christmas tree was held in the New Annan school under the direction of the teacher, Miss Mamie Connell.

Each lesson is a pleasant duty. Rather than a task. Our parents, too, appreciate. It's their word to those who ask.

We know we were only wayward kids. And must your patience try. But somehow you do understand. And know the reason why.

Some folk forget when they were young. School children were the same. But we're glad to know you know just how.

We hope that Santa won't pass by your home on Christmas eve. But in your stocking to the full. Kind tokens he will leave.

We'd love to give a great large gift. To you we feel deserves. But this we give is given with love. To one who richly serves.

Household Insects Cause Heavy Losses

In an address to the Entomological Society of Ontario on the importance of cleanliness and good housekeeping practices in household insect control, C. R. Twinn of the Entomological Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture said that undoubtedly the most injurious of household insects are the two species of clothes moths.

These insects are most apt to multiply in places where there is relatively little disturbance. This is an important point and should be borne in mind as it suggests the remedy. Care, forethought and vigilance need to be exercised.

Floor cracks, especially when covered with rugs or carpets, need to be filled or cleaned out periodically. The space behind baseboards and other woodwork should not be overlooked.

Another species of household insect that may multiply where care is not exercised is the larder beetle. This is a pest of animal-food products and normally occurs in dwellings in small numbers.

During the year following new equipment was delivered to the National System by car builders in Canada, Mr. Vaughan announced: 50 first class coaches 10 mail and express cars, 2 655 box cars 40 flat cars 15 ballast cars 30 sand cars, 300 gondola cars and 175 freight refrigerators.

When 89-year-old Mrs. Amelia Rebecca Willett married Freeman Ball, 87, it was her fourth matrimonial venture. The groom had been married twice before.

Behind The Headlines At Ottawa

Well-informed circles on Parliament Hill intimate that a sensational battle will result in the House of Commons when the details of the proposed new trade treaties are disclosed and offered to the Federal legislators for their lawful sanction, since authoritative sources of information in Ottawa do not hesitate to point out that there is a growing opposition in this Dominion to any policy on the part of this country which would surrender any valuable exclusive concessions in the United States and Great Britain.

It is many months ago that this column revealed certain exclusive details of the proposed Anglo-American trade agreement and it was pointed out at that time that Canada was playing an extremely important role in this historic and highly significant union of the English-speaking nations of the world.

Morever, this column had discovered from a well-informed source that the delegates at the Imperial Conference in London had discussed the possibility of adopting a measure to free world-trade from the hindrances which impeded its recovery and that the proposed Anglo-American trade treaty was but a start in an ambitious effort to safeguard peace and increase proper economic security throughout a restless world by lowering tariffs, stabilizing currencies, and generally removing the barriers of trade with the British Empire, which would destroy economic nationalism and force the anti-democratic countries like Germany, Japan and Italy to come within the freer trading areas or face ruination on the international financial markets.

Of course, this was denied at the time but subsequent events have corroborated entirely the advance information of this column. Now, thoughtful circles on Parliament Hill in Ottawa realize that there will be much opposition to any loss of trade by Canada through the efforts of this Dominion to bring about a union of material forces of the United States and Great Britain.

It is rumored that a change of plans will be made to cause the whole scheme to signify that it is an effort to unite the great republic to the south with the whole British Empire and not with the United Kingdom only. It has caused an unexpected delay in completing final arrangements for the actual signing of the Anglo-American Treaty until every section of the Empire has had an opportunity to discuss and put in order all details pertaining to the trade between that particular section of the Empire and the United States or Great Britain. Consequently, anyone who is acquainted with such matters realizes how much work is involved, and how many problems must be solved without much delay.

But this new development is especially important to Canada because any good or bad effects of a trade agreement between the United States and Great Britain or any part of the British Empire is certain to be felt quickly in this country. Canada's trade with the United States has been increasing rapidly on account of the Reciprocity Treaty now existing between these two nations. It is a matter of official record in the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa that this trade has jumped up to a remarkable extent, with the United States now holding a position as chief customer of this Dominion, having dislodged the United Kingdom from this post. At least 46 per cent of the export trade of the Dominion goes to our neighbors to the south and the actual increase will be about $75,000,000 for the past year. The main reason for this rise is due to the increased shipments of newsprint, hay, cream, cattle, wood and wood products, nickel, artificial abrasives, asbestos, and so forth. On the other hand, the American exports to Canada are also going up, having increased about 33 1/2 per cent during 1937, though the balance of trade stands heavily in favour of the Dominion of Canada.

Canada's sales to the United Kingdom have been advancing steadily since the Ottawa Agreements of 1923. Prior to that year, the total trade between Canada and the Motherland was about $175,000,000 a year, but after the Dominion was granted certain preferences in this market, these figures went up to $288,000,000 in the second year and there has been a continual improvement which now finds this sum to be about $500,000,000, with the balance of trade strongly in favour of Canada.

It is apparent from these facts that Canada's foreign trade with these two nations is steadily progressing. In this market, and therefore, there is good reason for the apprehension now being registered in various parts of the Dominion as to the possibility that any new agreement may disturb the existing preferences in the markets of the United Kingdom or spoil the profitable trade with the United States, all of which have been established after great effort. However, there is another angle to this momentous problem that is being discussed on Parliament Hill and this will be reported in next week's column.

That Body of Yours

FEVER—HIGH TEMPERATURE—HELPS FIGHT DISEASE

During the flu epidemic of 1918 a young physician on our hospital staff was taken down with influenza and pneumonia followed. His temperature was not high—about 101, and his white blood cells—the disease fighters—were not greatly increased as they should have been with a disease such as pneumonia.

The consulting physician shook his head when he looked at the patient's chart, and simply stated: "He is apparently not very sick, but with a temperature of only 101 and no increase in his white blood cells, he is not putting up much of a fight, and I'm afraid he'll not come through."

The young officer died within a few days as his fighting forces were not able to combat the pneumonia.

A good fighting body will increase its heat to fight off invading organisms so that an increase in temperature of two or three degrees when you have a little intestinal or stomach upset, or a cold, is really a good sign; a sign that your body forces are alert and strong enough to fight back. It is their fighting back that increases your temperature for it has been well said, "Heat is life." Heat increases the number of white blood cells—the fighters—and more disease resisting bodies are also formed.

How then are you to know what to do if you take your temperature and find it is 101 or 102 degrees? It is always good sense with a temperature of only 101 to 102 to get off your feet and give your body forces a better opportunity of fighting off the ailment and perhaps preventing it from becoming more serious.

It is always good sense also not to interfere with a temperature by giving fever reducing drugs when it is not any higher than 102. If, however, the temperature stays at 102 for a few days, it shows that something more than a slight cold or intestinal upset is present. A temperature of 102 degrees that persists more than a few days means that the family physician should be called in, not to reduce the temperature but to try to find cause of this sustained temperature.
