YOUR LITTLE FRIEND.

The death took place at Cape Traverse on the morning of Dec. 15th, at the old homestead of Joseph Clark, at the ripe old age of 89 years. His last sickness was but of a few days and comparatively free of pain and suffering. The morning of his death he arose from bed, dressed himself, get some refreshments and without any warning to the members of the family quietly returned to his bed and there peacefully, and without a struggle, passed away, and in his death Cape Traverse has lost one of her most aged and respected citizens. Being of a kind and agreeable disposition, his aim was always to live at peace with his neighbors and all men, and further exemplified in his kindness to the poor and needy. None was ever turned away with an empty hand, and years ago when as his boat contractor many scores of poor wretches were lodged at his comfortable home, and their passage granted free across the straits. Few had less faults than he. Honest to the very letter and full of years, much respected he passed away and the good Master had said, 'In as much as you did it unto Me, for I was hungry and ye fed Me, I was naked and ye clothed Me, a stranger and ye took Me in. His help-mate preceded him a few years ago. He leaves behind a family of two sons and two daughters. His sons Thomas and John live on the old homestead. His daughters are Mrs. John MacFarlane of Lower Bedouque, and Mrs. Isaac Auld of Boston, who mourn the loss of a kind and loving father besides a very large circle of friends and relatives. The Guardian has received the 1903 edition of "The Winger's Almanac" published by The Winger Chemical Co. Ltd., of Montreal, Proprietors of Stanton's Pain Relief, Dr. Codere's Infant Syrup, Mc-Gale's Bitternut Pills, as well as several other standard remedies. This book, besides containing advertisements on these different preparations, contains very many interesting receipts and valuable information as well as the usual forecasts of the weather &c. The publishers will be glad to send a copy of this almanac to any one desiring it, who will enclose a postage stamp, and advice whether they wish French or English.

Not Due To Climate.

Catarrh is Found Everywhere.

Catarrh is at home anywhere and every where. While more common in cold, changeable climates, it is by no means confined to them, but is prevalent in every state and territory in the union.

The common definition of catarrh is a chronic cold in the head, which if long neglected often destroys the sense of smell and hearing; but there are many other forms of the disease, even more obtrusive and dangerous. Catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes as well as catarrh of the stomach and liver are almost as common as nasal catarrh and generally more difficult to cure.

Catarrh is undoubtedly a blood disease and can only be successfully eradicated by an internal treatment. Sprays, washes and powders are useless as far as reaching the real seat of the disease is concerned.

Dr. Melvery advises catarrh sufferers to use a new preparation, sold by druggists, called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because actual analysis has shown these tablets to contain certain anti-septic qualities of the highest value and being an internal remedy, pleasant to the taste and convenient and harmless, can be used as freely as required, as well for children as for adults.

An attorney and public speaker, who had been a catarrh sufferer for years says:

"Every fall I would catch a cold which would settle in my head and throat and hang on all winter long and every winter it seemed to get a little worse. I was continually clearing my throat and my voice became affected to such an extent as to interfere with my public speaking. I tried traches and cheap cough cures and sometimes got relief, but only for a short time, until this winter when I learned of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, through a newspaper advertisement. Two fifty cent boxes which I bought at my druggist's, cleared my head and throat in fine shape and to guard against a return of my old trouble I keep a box of the tablets on hand and whenever I catch a little cold I take a tablet or two and ward off any serious developments."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets deserves to head the list as a household remedy, to check and break up coughs and colds, because unlike many other catarrh and cough cures those tablets contain no opiate, cocaine or any injurious drug.
