Mussolini Calls Fascist Leaders To Conference

By GLADWIN HILL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Evidence piled up rapidly today that the heavy bombing attacks on Italy and continued advances by Allied forces in North Africa are imposing a growing strain on Italian morale.

Mussolini was reported to have called the Fascist Leaders of battered Genoa, Turin and Milan for a conference, presumably on methods of allaying civilian fears of the bombs menace.

His action came on the heels of a radio admonition to the Italian people by Allesandro Pavoloni, Minister of popular culture, to evacuate large cities except where the individual's presence was greatly needed.

In Stampede

Reports received in neutral Berne said three quarters of the population had left Genoa in such a stampede that a 'black market" had sprung up in truck transportation.

While the Italian mainland escaped bombing during the last 24 hours, the air menace was kept fresh in Italian minds by the bombing of three airports in Sicily over the week-end.

The R.A.F.'s attack last night on Stttgart, important German railway link, between Italy and the Ruhr coal regions, also was expected to have its reperoussions on the Italian people.

Italy already is short of coal, an informed London economic source said, as it is of iron, steel, copper, textiles, fruits and vegetables.

Adds To Bitterness

The last three shortages have resulted largely from supplies being drained to Germany. This, plus the fact that Italy's official food rations are about half those of Germany, has added to the Italian's bitterness toward his ally.

Food prices are so high that employees of the Vatican were reported to be receiving salary increases to cover higher living costs.

From Ankara, capital of neutral Turkey, came reports that Germany had decided Italy could not or would not defend herself adequately against an attack by Allied forces. As a consequence, it was said, 60,000 military-age male "tourists" from Germany had entered Italy in the last three months. The German command is said to have ordered fortifications erected at the Brenner Pass between Italy and Austria as a second line of defence.

The Arctic coast of Alaska is inhabited by fewer than 1,000permanent residents.
