Letter From Mrs. Ayars Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Two Other Letters Tell of Benefits Received

Spring Valley, Saskatchewan.—"I took the Vegetable Compound before my last confinement when I got to feeling so badly that I could not sleep nights, my back ached so across my hips, and I could hardly do my work during the day. I never had such an easy confinement and this is my sixth baby. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the 'Farmer's Telegram' and wrote you for one of your books. We have no druggist in our town, but I saw your medicine in T. Eaton's catalogue. I am a farmer's wife, so have all kinds of work to do, inside and outside the house. My baby is a nice, healthy girl, who weighed nine pounds at birth. I am feeling fine after putting in a large garden since my baby came. (She is as good as she can get). Yours is the best medicine for women and I have told about it and even written to my friends about it."—Mrs. ANNIE E. AYARS, Spring Valley, Saskatchewan.

to get stronger and those pains all left me. I am glad I found out about this medicine. I think there is none other equal to it for women who have troubles of this kind. I cannot praise the Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. When I am glad to tell her of it."—Mrs. Wm. RIDSDALE, R.R. No. 1, Mount Forest, Ontario.

Toronto Mother Writes

Toronto, Ontario.—"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a splendid medicine to take before and after confinement. A small book was put in my door one day, advertising Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, and as I did not feel at all well at the time I went and bought a bottle of Vegetable Compound right away. I soon began to notice a difference in my general health. I was full of aches and pains at the time and thought I had every complaint going, but I can truthfully say your medicine certainly did me good. I can and will speak highly of your medicine, and I know it will do other women good who are sick and tired, if they will only give it a fair trial. You are welcome to use this letter if you think it will help any one."—Mrs. HARRY WESTWOOD, 643 Quebec Street, Toronto, Ontario.

Baby Healthy As A Trout

Mount Forest, Ontario.—"I am proud today to think I have a fine baby boy, as healthy as a trout, and I never felt better myself. Before I took your medicine I felt weak and miserable and had pains all through me. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began

Leaves Millionaire Foster-Father

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Mary Louise Spas has kicked off her Cinderella slipper and left her millionaire foster-father Edward W. Browning, to make her own way in the world, by writing her fairy story for a newspaper for $500 and probably acting in the movies. She did not even say "good-by" last night. The clothes she wore were those given her by Mr. Browning. She took them, she said, only because she had nothing else to wear. She left the 50 frocks, strings of pearls and other fine toys of Fifth avenue. Articles bought in her recent shopping spree, $20,000 worth, she said, that girl my foster-daughter, Mr. Browning said. "You have a hard time being honest in this world. If you are somebody's sure to double-cross you."

"I had confidence in her to the very last. If she had been 16 years old it would have been different. But 21 is too much. Will I adopt another? Absolutely never. I am through trying to do good for people. She is the smartest actress in New York."

Mr. Browning, in full sympathy with authorities who had been investigating the case, said that today he would seek to annul the adoption on grounds of fraud so that Mary could have no claim on his fortune. Yet, he said he would do all he could to help her make her way.

NAPOLEON'S MEMORY HONORED BY PRINCE

St. Helena, Aug. 11.—The Prince of Wales paid a touching tribute to the memory of Napoleon today. Returning to Long Wood, he planted an olive tree near the place where the body of the one-time ruler of Europe rested before it was taken to Paris. Nothing remains to identify the former tomb itself, except a plain white slab of stone bearing no inscription. A brass plate nailed on a nearby cypress tree, placed there by the La Porte Expedition in 1860, says simply: "To the memory of the Emperor." The Prince planted his tree three feet from the stone slab, opposite a weeping willow sent from France by Marshal Foch.

Extraordinary Dining Feat at Freemason's Festival

LONDON, Aug. 11.—A man in a conning tower armed with a huge megaphone today led 10,000 enthusiastic followers, not to battle but to dinner.

He was up in the tower to direct the greatest banquet ever held—the Freemasons' festival at the Olympia here tonight, where 8,000 Freemasons sat down to dinner attended by 2,000 waitresses especially selected for their good looks.

So huge was the affair that it was soon realized that nothing but strict discipline and military tactics could insure the success of the festival. The director sat amidst a maze of telephones and electric signals. Now he would press a button; now shout a fierce order into a telephone; now listen to messages from a squad of lieutenants, and snap out messages in reply which they would transmit to the uttermost corners of the great Olympic Hall.

Before the thousands of diners entered the hall, the voice of the man in the tower resounded through the loud speakers calling to the messengers to a sound of lieutenants, and snap out messages in reply which they would transmit to the uttermost corners of the great Olympic Hall.

Before the thousands of diners entered the hall, the voice of the man in the tower resounded through the loud speakers calling to the messengers to a sound of lieutenants, and snap out messages in reply which they would transmit to the uttermost corners of the great Olympic Hall.

The Duke of Connaught, the Grand Master of English Freemasonry, presided at the festival. As he entered, a deafening cheer shook the hall.

Then the big banquet began. There were 3,000 pounds of salmon, 1,500 chickens and 3,000 bottles of champagne. There were 50,000 plates, 40,000 forks, 36,000 knives and 20,000 spoons.

Hovering behind the scenes was a squad of ambulance men headed by a doctor. Just somebody being over-whelmed by the occasion. "Keep cool!" the voice from the tower kept imploring them as waitresses rushed back and forth. There was no need of his worrying. All moved like clockworks.

The festival was held in an endeavor to collect £1,000,000 toward creating Mason's headquarters in London. The Duke of Connaught, amid tremendous cheers, told the diners that the London lodge alone had collected more than £400,000 and that the grand total from the entire British Empire amounted to over £800,000.

At this announcement the diners seated at the tables—there were five miles of tables—leaped to their feet and cheered madly, making a spectacle unparalleled in the entire history of banqueting.

His Majesty King George, from the royal yacht at Cowes sent a message of thanks to the Freemasons for their message of loyal devotion. The Duke of Connaught said that in view of the efforts which were being made by the anticipated there would be no difficulty in completing the building fund and that he regarded with the highest pleasure the prospect of laying the corner stone of the headquarters of Freemasonry and at the same time a permanent memorial to the Masons who had fallen in the great war. He referred particularly to the support given by overseas Masons, the majority of whom had probably little hope of ever seeing the new building.

"I should like them all to know how proud we are of their co-operation and loyalty. The same spirit has also been exhibited by the desire of certain laymen, grand lodges in the dominions to have their names identified in some way with the effort of the mother grand lodge in making one more link in the chain of affection binding together every portion of the Empire.

"Free Masonry has already done much to foster deeper unity and feeling existing so long among all English-speaking peoples. Our new building there will still further opportunity of fostering this spirit as the new headquarters are intended to be a rallying point for brethren from all parts."

THAT CAR OF YOURS

BY HARRY E. PORTER

This is a series of articles pertaining to maintenance and repair of your Automobile. We will be glad to answer through this column, questions regarding your car or its mechanism.

AVOIDING ACCIDENTS DRIVING ON GREASY ROADS.

Safe driving on wet and greasy roads has become to be an art, especially when balloon tires are used.

Chains, of course, do much to assist in controlling a car in bad weather, but they only assist. The driver is the bearer of all responsibility.

In wet weather the use of brakes should be almost avoided. When descending a steep and slippery hill put control lever into second gear and switch off the motor. This same applies more particularly to balloon tires. Before reaching the bottom of the hill switch on ignition again and change into high to get a start at the ascent if there is one. Never try to force a car uphill in high on a greasy road, as the wheels will slip and skid into the ditch. Change to second and maintain a regular speed.

If the brake has to be applied apply it whilst the car is in gear and apply it gently. Do not above all things depress the clutch before applying brake, or do not depress it whilst brake is applied. Avoid the use of the steering wheel as much as possible. Do not swing the car from one side of the road to the other. Drive in a straight line and keep to the centre of the road. Stop your car when another approaches and wait until he passes before proceeding. Drive with caution at a slow speed.

If your car slides backward down hill, soon cook, engage gears, to lock and engage clutch gradually. Do not "lose your head" but try to turn the car sideways across the road.

GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The following letter, which speaks for itself, was received by a well known resident of this city: Convent of the Maryknoll Sisters, 103 Austin Rd., Kowloon, Hongkong, June 18, 1925

Dear Friend of the Missions: Just recently the Post Office here notified us that a money order was there unpaid, in our name. Apparently it had been there for months but I had no notification to that effect. If you wrote me the letter did not reach here. Therefore, I am very sorry to be so late in acknowledging such a welcome gift and hope, that under the circumstances, you will overlook the tardy reply, which, however, is most sincere.

You cannot realize what such charity means to us who work with the poorest of God's poor and our prayer for you is that He Himself will reward you as He alone can and will do.

If you could but get a glimpse of the mission compound with its old, forsaken "granaries," its many blind girls and wee scrawny babes, you would know how much good you do by helping to care for such, and you would be happy to watch them kneel in the Divine Presence to pray for such as yourself who have helped bring the knowledge of the one true God and His Spotless Mother to their poor, starved souls.

Please pray for us, and remember that you and yours will not be forgotten by us in this far-off land of China and when you will have long since gone to your heavenly reward, as long as our Community lasts there will be souls who will remember you as one who helped in the pioneer days.

EARLY APPLES.

No fruit is more delightfully awaited than the ripening of the summer apples, the earliest crop the delight of small boys and grown-ups as well. With the first ripening and the tempting apple pies from fruit fresh from the orchards, turnovers for the children, various puddings, baked apples and apple sauce, the new apple season comes in with a rousing welcome.

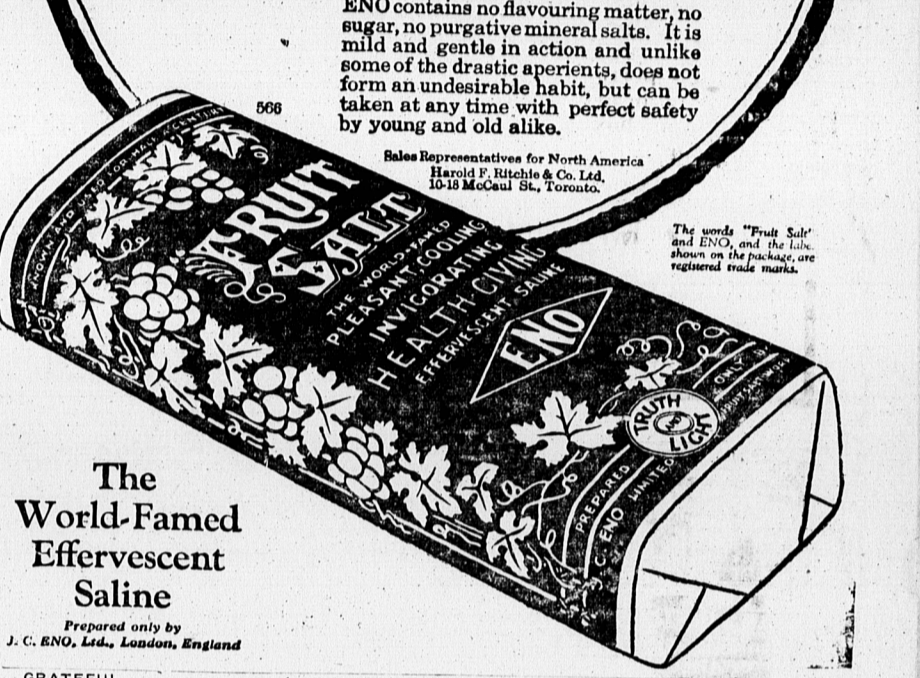

Despite discouraging weather this spring, reports coming in from various sections say there will be a fine crop of summer apples in many of the apple-growing sections with others reporting spotty conditions.

Indications, however, point to less than the usual supply. Other fruits such as pears and cherries and the berry crops, were much harder hit by unseasonable frosts than the apple crop, according to reports.

The ripe early apples are one of the most healthful of the summer fruits, coming at the time when the earliest berry crop, the main supply of early summer fruits, is waning and before the supply of peaches, plums and pears is at height. The great value of the early apples is as raw fruit, for

The Spirit of Leadership

FOR leadership, for knowledge, for wealth, or for sheer glory of achievement, Britons have penetrated the furthest parts of the earth. But no place is so remote that ENO's "Fruit Salt" does not reach it. All over the world Britons unite in the time-proved practice of drinking ENO first thing every morning. ENO promotes inner cleanliness in the way intended by Nature. For sheer goodness, purity, pleasant taste and safety, ENO's "Fruit Salt" has no parallel. It is indisputably the leader.

ENO contains no flavouring matter, no sugar, no purgative mineral salts. It is mild and gentle in action and unlike some of the drastic aperients, does not form an undesirable habit, but can be taken at any time with perfect safety by young and old alike.
