IN MEMORIAM

MRS. MARY McKENNA

The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary McKenna, whose death took place in South Boston, as already published in the Guardian, was largely attended at Kelly's Cross, on Saturday afternoon, January 31st, 1931. The remains, accompanied by her daughters, Mrs. Rananah and Mrs. Shaughnessy, arrived at Kinkora in the forenoon and were taken in charge by undertaker P. A. Monaghan, by whom they were conveyed to Kelly's Cross for burial.

The late Mrs. McKenna was born in Maplewood, P. E. I., 82 years ago and was the last surviving member of the family to which she belonged; her maiden name having been Mary Trainor. The passing of this estimable and amiable lady brings back to her living friends and relatives in Kelly's Cross parish many fond memories of a period of kindness, hospitality and generosity to the community in which she lived for about 60 years. In her home she was the ever kind and indulgent mother, the idol of her children, who, in return for that fond, maternal solicitude for their every little need and comfort, were dutiful and respectful to their mother, and strove by every means in their power to brighten the declining years of a long life spent in their material and eternal interests, and now that she has been called to her eternal reward they will while life to them endures cherish the memory of a patient and loving mother, and the parish of Kelly's Cross, and her many friends in Boston, a woman whom to know was to hold in the highest esteem for her many praiseworthy characteristics.

The late Mrs. McKenna was the relict of the late Patrick McKenna of Maplewood, who was widely known in this Province, who predeceased her 15 years ago.

She is survived by two sons, James

E. McKenna, Biebes, Arizona, who has a son, a rising young lawyer in California, and Francis O. McKenna, now a prominent lawyer in Western Canada and two daughters, Mrs. Shaughnessy, and Mrs. J. H. Rananah, Boston, with whom she resided and where she died. Also two step-daughters, Mrs. Richmond, Twin City, Idaho and Mrs. Joseph Haloran, Charlottetown.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. J. Smith who accompanied the remains from Kinkora, assisted by the pastor, Rev. J. C. Pitre.

The pall bearers were: J. M. Murphy, Levi Malone, J. W. Bradley, M. A. Smith, John Murphy, J.J. Trainor.

Sun Glorified By Blind Man

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 19.—A man who has not seen the sun shine for 25 years has just composed a song about—sunshine.

Phillipe Shapiro, is blind. He has been blind since he was 10 years old. The last time he saw the sun it was shining on his native Edinburgh hills. He has never forgotten that picture; it has been with him for a quarter of a century.

And now he has written:

Sunshine, won't you shine for me? Sunshine, light up a memory. A little sad reflection Brings back an old affection.

Send me a little tender ray, To dry my bitter tears today. Show me some sympathy, Sunshine, won't you shine for me?

Shapiro was lying in bed when he was inspired to write the song. He got out of bed in the night, and sat down and wrote the melody and words.

Jack Hylton, the dance band leader heard him sing the song over the telephone yesterday, and at once arranged to make a gramophone record of it.

Frank Rubens, the song expert, declared that it would be as big a rage as "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes."

Mountain Goats Are Increasing In British Columbia

(Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 19.—The mountain goat will be one of the last of British Columbia big game to disappear, in the opinion of J. W. French, veteran big game hunter and guide. The relative inaccessibility of the goats is one point in their favor, but the principal one, according to French, is that the Indians have ceased their relentless warfare against the species.

"There is unmistakable evidence that mountain goats are increasing in numbers," says French. "At one time the Indians who had not become acquainted with Hudson's Bay blankets had to exert themselves in warm bedding. They hunter mountain goats of all sizes and sexes for their wool for blanket making. From these hides the native spinners made really warm and serviceable blankets. There are some good examples of the Indian handiwork in blanket making from goats' wool in the Vancouver Museum."

"When Hudson's Bay blankets could be purchased or exchanged for pelts of much easier shot or trapped animals, then goat hunting became a lost art among the Indians. The result of this for some years past has been quite a steady increase in the number of mountain goats—despite the race suicide tendencies on the part of the billies, or, perhaps one should say, the survival of the fittest."

There is a marked difference between the hides of the goats and mountain sheep. The mountain sheep pelage is a hollow hair, like the ordinary sheep. It gets only the slightest undercoat of wool during the early winter months. On the other hand, the mountain goat has an excellent coat of long wool, covered with heavy guard hair. In fact, part of it is a blanket already made.

Mountain goats solved the Indians' problem of warm covering, for the natives did not need to shelter or feed their flocks. But when the Indian went wool-gathering he generally earned what he got, for the mountain goat is wily and fleet-footed and leads his pursuer a difficult and often futile chase.

PHILCO Baby Grand Radio

MODEL 20 LOWBOY

An ideal set for the small home or apartment dweller who wants a cabinet model but has not space for a standard sized Philco. Beautiful cabinet of American Black Walnut and Birds-Eye Maple, African Zebra wood trim. Same wonderful chassis as in the Baby Grand. Size over all 3 3/4 inches high; 19 inches wide; 10 1/2 inches deep. Price, $97.50 less tubes

More than twice as many Philco Baby Grands were sold in Canada in 1930 as all other sets of similar size combined—any owner of a Philco Baby Grand could tell you why. Could tell you that it has nothing in common with so-called "midget" sets . . . that no other set they have ever heard even at double the price could begin to equal it in performance. And no wonder, when you consider what you get in a Philco Baby Grand—seven tubes, three of them screen grid, genuine electro-dynamic speaker, illuminated station recording dial, standard Philco Balanced Unit construction which eliminates distortion and creates the rich, true, clear big Philco tone.

Whether you are buying a compact set as an "extra" or as your only set, take no chances—see that it is a Philco Baby Grand. Your Philco dealer also offers a complete line of Philco radios in Screen Grid and Superheterodyne-Plus including the wonderful new Screen Grid Radio-Phonograph combination at $139.30

"Not By Meat Alone"

Leading fox ranchers have demonstrated that, in addition to meat, it is absolutely necessary to feed a liberal supply of IMPERIAL BISCUITS daily, during the winter season. In order to keep the bowels regular and also to ensure the females having an adequate supply of milk during the lactation period.

IMPERIAL COD OIL FOX BISCUITS are made from a formula which has been prepared with these results in view and which reliable tests, extending over a considerable term of years, have proved to be signally successful.

Ranches, which have continued the feeding of IMPERIALS regularly in winter have had the largest litters of young foxes and also the highest average of pups, raised to maturity; in addition, they have practically eliminated the destroying of young by the females.

For assured results feed IMPERIALS throughout all the winter season.

IMPERIALS are sold by leading distributors or direct from the factory.

FRISON AS HEALTH RESORT

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—The Cook County jail today was pictured as a health resort for most of the 20,000 women who have entered its doors in the past 20 years by Mrs. Mary Kennedy, 55, chief matron during the period.

Regular sleeping and eating habits as well as expert medical treatment have enabled many women to leave the institution in perfect physical condition, Mrs. Kennedy said.

Reviewing the two decades of her supervision, Mrs. Kennedy said she believed that women sentenced to jail terms in recent years, have not been as "tough" as during the early days of her matrimonial life.

Most women held in the jail awaiting trial on murder charges have eventually been freed, Mrs. Kennedy said.

FINDS EXENING GROSBREAK NEST

(Canadian Press)

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 19.—A discovery of more than ordinary interest to naturalists was made here recently by I. E. McColl, member of the Natural History Society, who recently described the finding of two nests of the Evening Grosbeak.

This bird has never before revealed its nest to scientists, according to Mr. McColl. A series of photographs were taken which show for the first time the nest, eggs and young of the Evening Grosbeak.

home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Fleming for their mail courier, Joseph Martin, Hunter River.

Mr. George A. Leclerc was called upon to act as chairman. A short program, consisting of songs, readings recitations and instrumental music was then enjoyed by all after which an address was read by Mr. Roy Woolner, while Mr. Roy Stevenson presented him with a well filled purse.

To Mr. Joseph Martin, mail driver Dear friend,— We are indeed happy to assemble here tonight to extend, if only in a small measure, our hearty appreciation of your services as mail driver on our behalf.

Your unfailing energy and determination in the performance of your duties, if at all possible, has afforded us all much pleasure.

Many among us have called upon you for services not listed as "official" duties, and you have always responded with a ready smile and willingness to help, and though our gift may seem inadequate, it is accompanied with our heartiest wishes for your future health and happiness.

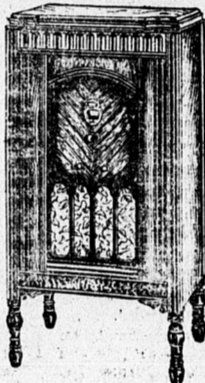

Signed on behalf of the box holders and friends of North Rustico and Cavendish.

Mr. Martin, although taken by surprise, made a very fitting reply, thanking the people for their kind thoughtfulness.

ON THE WORLD'S AIRWAYS

(United Press)

Eight cities in the United States will spend a total of $20,225,000 during 1931 in building, or improving municipal airports, according to Department of Commerce figures.

There are now in operation in the country, 1,113 airports, the department revealed. Of this number 564 are commercial and 549 are municipal flying fields. The total invested capital is estimated at $115,608,500. The capital represented by the commercial fields is $56,856,500 and by municipal ports, $58,212,000.

New York leads the nation in number of flying fields, followed by Michigan, California, Texas and Illinois.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 17.—Aviation science is turning to the smaller things, if the new "Playboy" monoplane, a 350 pound two place pusher perfected here recently, is an indication.

The plane, tested satisfactorily by its makers, the Lincoln Aircraft Company, a body seven feet in length can be parked in the driveway beside your home, has a speed of 70 miles per hour, and costs but $800.

The plane is unconventional, its makers point out. It has a 25 horse power engine installed in the rear of the plane fuselage. The usual rudder is missing, and for directional control the wing flaps are in the trailing edge of the wings.

MICE BUILD COSTLY NEST

(Canadian Press)

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 18.—Mice that feather their nests with $125 provincial savings certificates have provoked quite a problem at the offices of Deputy Treasurer W. V. Newson. The certificate until recently formed the lining for an Alberta mouse home on the premises of a certain Alberta farmer.

Mr. Newson has been requested to trace and redeem the much abused certificate.

The paper has been chewed up into breakfast food so fine that it will be necessary to examine the whole exhibit microscopically to determine the number of the deceased document.

The deputy treasurer is of the opinion the mice showed remarkably good judgment in picking out a security of unquestionable value.

MANY POCKETS CAUSE ARREST

WASHINGTON, N. C., Feb. 19.—(U. P.)—Allen Jones, negro, said he "got it from the Bible," when officers asked him how he conceived the idea of sewing 18 pockets inside his coat, and using them to transport 18 pints of liquor. Allen was bicycling through the negro section of the city when apprehended. He said a former friend had told him.

CHECKS STIMULATE BUSINESS

NEW BERN, N. C., Feb. 19.—One hundred large checks for five dollars each are in circulation in the New Bern business district in an effort, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, to have more than $10,000 change hands. The recipient of each check first has it certified, then pay five dollars on a bank account. The 20th endorser cashes the check. The checks are six inches wide and 15 inches long.

"Lawd, I wish I had some Egyptians to get me out of here," moaned Allen as he was led toward jail.

"You see," Allen said, "I read in the Bible about Joseph and his coat of many colors. I thought it might be a good thing for me to have a coat of many pockets. I sure hates to lose that coat, it took a lot of work to make it. I don't know about collars, but pockets is hard to sew."

"Well," replied Chief of Police Traylor, "they threw Joseph in a pit for wearing his coat of many collars, so I reckon we'd better throw you in jail for wearing this coat of many pockets."
