

Prowse Bros. Ltd. CHARLOTTETOWN'S BIG DEPARTMENTAL STORE

Saturday Snaps

Specials for Saturday Only

Men's Furnishing Dept.

Good values abound in the men's department. Tomorrow in particular. Careful dressers will find correct furnishing underpriced.

125 Men's black shirts worth $1.25, Saturday 55c.

10 Doz all wool underwear worth 1.15, Saturday 75c

25 doz fleeced lined underwear worth $1.10, Saturday 85c suit.

50 doz woolen gloves worth 50c, Saturday 10c per pair.

10 doz fancy colored shirts worth 85c, Saturday 45c

25 doz men's ties worth 35, 45 to 55c, Saturday 25c.

Wash Goods Department

500 yds best English print, all fast colors, this year's goods, regular 1.50, Saturday 1.15 per yd

Ready-to-Wear

10 doz white lawn waists all new goods, all sizes, regular $1.25, Saturday 89c

Corsets

10 doz white and drab corsets all sizes, regular 65c for 49c

Dress Goods Department

500 yds Venetian Cloths in all the latest shades including brown, navy, black and wine colors, 40 in. wide, worth 68c, Saturday 45c

Ladies' Skirts

3 doz ladies' skirts worth $3.25 for $7.10. Hardly pays for the cloth. Ask to see them.

Ladies' Costumes

All this spring's goods; one lot of fancy costumes, tweed regular $15.00 Special $11.00

Ladies' Wrappers

3 doz, left worth up to $1.75 Saturday 1.98c

Prowse Bros. Ltd. CHARLOTTETOWN'S BIG DEPARTMENTAL STORE

Prowse Bros. Ltd. CHARLOTTETOWN'S BIG DEPARTMENTAL STORE

THE QUEEN'S COUNTY GUARDIAN

Offices in New Prowse Block—Charlottetown

The mail train arrived yesterday at 1.15.

Wallace Higgins, City, is visiting in Stanhope.

Pork yesterday sold from 6 to 7 cents per lb.

James Fisher, City, has gone to Waterville, Me.

The Stanley got into Georgetown yesterday at 10.30.

The Minto got into Pictou yesterday morning at 6.30.

Cal. Bell has arrived at his home in Stanhope from Boston.

There were seventy-five bags of mail by the Stanley yesterday.

Nelson Currie, West River, crosses today to Pictou en route to Noyte, B. C.

There were twenty passengers to Georgetown by the Stanley yesterday.

Miss Ethel Jardine of Freetown is visiting Miss Amelia Jardine, Hillsboro.

Potatoes are selling at 35 cents per bushel in this city and turnips at 15 cents.

P. D. Bowlen, Cardigan, leaves on Monday on a trip to High River, Alberta.

Peter McCarvell of St. Dunstan's College, is visiting his home in Emerald.

Dr. McLellan of Summerside gave a most instructive lecture before the students.

George and Mrs. Douglass, City, are visiting James S. and Mrs. Douglas, Hillsboro.

Forbes Sutherland of Montreal is the guest of Sir Louis and Lady Davies, Ottawa.

Miss Sullivan, of Prince Edward Island, is the guest of Mrs. W. L. Scott, Ottawa.

Rev. John Hawley, Marshfield, will preach in Heartz's Hall tomorrow afternoon at 3 p. m.

Herbert H. Curtis and Charles H. Clark of Victoria were in the City yesterday on business.

Oats went up slightly in price yesterday and black sold at 48 cents per bushel and white at 45 cents.

Quite a quantity of hard wood was offered for sale in this City yesterday and sold at one dollar per load.

The cargo by the Stanley to Georgetown yesterday included two cars of seed and two cars mixed freight.

The members of Court Westmoreland, Crapaud, intend having an entertainment and social on Monday evening the 16th inst. The High Chief Ranger is expected to be present.

There was a largely attended market yesterday and all the usual commodities were in good supply. Buying and selling were brisk on the forenoon. Outside, on the market square, there was a good supply of loose and pressed hay selling at 65c to 80c, and straw at 35.

More than forty-five friends of Bruce and Mrs. McMillan, gathered at their comfortable home on the Brackley Point Road, on Thursday night to spend an evening of merriment. Their anticipations were more than filled, and one of the jolliest times of the season was spent in games, music, and singing. A delicious luncheon was served and the company dispersed long after the midnight hour, highly praising their host and hostess. Among those present were Roy and Mrs. Holman, Sydney.

Many are surprised to learn that there will be 47 instead of 40 days in Lent this year. The familiar number is 40 but it is not correct except when one neglects to count the Sundays. The time will be longer from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday than many suppose, who have been reconciling themselves to the four tens as the limit of their abstinence from frivolity. Since the council of Nice in 325 the feast of Easter has been kept on the Sunday following the 14th day of the full moon of March. That Sunday falls on April 19 this year. Easter is a corruption of the name of the Saxon goddess of the dawn and signifies the beginning of spring which is the dawn of the year. Innature. Christians applied the name to the feast of the resurrection. It is usual with many churchmen to maintain that 40 days are all that are considered to be Lenten days,—the Sundays being distinguished as Sundays "in" Lent.

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Miss Blanche Howard has returned home to Clyde River after spending a few days at Winsloe being the guest of Miss Louise Howard.

George W. McPhee will deliver an address in Clyde River Hall on Tuesday evening March 17, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Aid Society of the Baptist Church. There is also to be given a good program. Admission ten cents.

Some of the Guardian's young lady readers of today may find food for thought in the following extract: In sending his yearly subscription to one of the Winnipeg newspapers a Manitoba farmer wrote: "Dear Sir—If you see any women that want to get married send them this way. I want a wife myself and a good many more."

There were a good many visitors from the country in the City yesterday, numbers availing themselves of the fairly good sleighing to come in from considerable distances. Some who drove from as far away as Crapaud reported the roads to be in good condition, but much better nearer the City than farther away. However, there is but a thin covering of ice and snow upon the highways, which will soon disappear if the sun gains warmth in the next few days.

The marriage took place at the home of Rev. G. E. Ross, City, on Wednesday last of Miss Louise McNeill, Nine Mile Creek, to John McDonald of the same place. The bride was charmingly gowned in grey wearing a becoming hat to match and was attended by Miss D. McQuarrie while Saml. McNeill, brother of the bride was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple, with their friends drove to the bride's home where a delightful repast and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

A number of items of news sent in to The Guardian for publication lately have been unaccompanied by the names of the senders. As has been frequently stated, paragraphs sent in this way, unsigned, cannot be published, unless they refer to matters about which this office possesses some information showing that the news is authentic. It will not do for writers to sign their names "Subscriber," or by any name other than their own if they wish to have same appear in this paper. The names of the writers are not wanted for publication but merely as evidence, that the notes are trustworthy.

An exchange says—"At the Crystal Theatre last evening Kilby the Magician appeared for the first time in a grandly mysterious act. Kilby is a Hindoo presenting a new array of Modern Miracles, and scientific illusions, differing extensively from former so-called Magicians. He really does such wonderful illusive work that one would hesitate whether to rank him among the ordinary humans or as belonging to the supernatural, and calling in the aid of residents of mystic realms to assist him in his work. His wife assists him and in the cabinet act is a marvel. How she frees herself from her myriad bonds is impossible to understand; and at the close of the Kilby's performances one feels that temporarily a journey has been taken into the realms of magic, and that the two Hindoos were the reigning powers therein. No one should miss seeing Kilby for he is a revelation as well as a marvel."

Moore & McLeod The Millinery People

Bargains in Wash Goods at the White Goods Sale

DECIDEDLY the largest and best equipped wash goods department in P. E. Island offers you of its best at sharply reduced prices during this sale. Every good sort of washing material specially price cut for you and only a few mentioned on account of cramped space—come early for these bargains won't long remain.

75 Pieces English Prints--12 1-2c per yd.