CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The Vegetarian Party's presidential candidate, Dr. John Maxwell of Chicago, made sure of one vote in today's election—his own.

The 85-year-old, bearded operator of a vegetarian restaurant had to write in his name because his party is not on the ballot. But he wasn't perplexed about the possibility of working up a menu for the white house table because:

1. He's sure he won't get enough votes.

2. He was born in Kent, England and thus is constitutionally barred from becoming president.

Maxwell said that if he could be elected, his first official act would be to sponsor legislation outlawing raising of food for cattle.

"This," he said, "would solve the world's hunger problem."

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Nancy C. Miller, 103 years old Nov. 14, maintained her record today of having voted in every presidential election since women's suffrage. A long-time Republican, she said she voted for Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

HACKENSACK, N.J., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Jacob Peschek, 88, cast his 68th consecutive ballot. He said he first voted for Garfield when he was 20, "but nobody challenged me." He is a clam baker-maker—of clams at clam banks in season.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(AP)—The capital of the United States was on the sidelines today as the rest of the country decided who will be the next tenant of the White House.

Only Washingtonians who retain voting residence in one of the 48 states had a say at the polls, via absentee ballots. Permanent residents of the District of Columbia have no vote.

KEENE, N.H., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Richard Wellman, 63, of Keene, today counted 124 presidential votes in her family for Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

She said everyone in her family—including the children and grandchildren of her seven sisters and two brothers, reported they were voting for the New York governor.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 2.—(AP)—James A. Hard, 107-year-old Civil War veteran, voted today in his 22nd consecutive presidential election.

Last week he left a hospital where he had been confined for 12 days with pneumonia. He said he wanted to get out in time to vote.

At Ripley, N.Y., Robert Rowen, 104, the state's other surviving Civil War veteran, missed voting in a presidential election for the first time since the Civil War. He was too ill to leave his home.

COLUMBIA, S.C., Nov. 2.—(AP)—South Carolina Democratic Party members made it easy today for members to vote.

They offered baby sitters and transportation. A booth on Main Street here in-
