Lecture at St. Dunstan's

On Wednesday, Dec. 5, the students of St. Dunstan's University had the pleasure of listening to an enlightening and instructive lecture delivered by Mr. F. J. Nash, Editor of the Patriot.

The speaker chose as his subject, "Public Speaking and Speaking," which was dealt with in a masterly and most pleasing manner.

After some introductory remarks, Mr. Nash pointed out clearly the difference between the conversational style, which too often characterizes the speech of the present day, and the oratory which belongs to the masters of eloquence. He went on to show the traits of character and personality most necessary to the public speaker and the qualities essential to his speech. His words would carry conviction, each point was illustrated by appropriate examples taken from speeches of noted orators. Among those quoted were Daniel O'Connell, Mr. Wilfred Laurier, Joseph Howe, Mr. Charles Tupper, Sir George Foster and Lloyd George.

He showed how these great statesmen lived at a time when questions of momentous import were occupying men's minds, and how their eloquence played a major part in uniting discordant elements and effecting reform. His clear and flexible voice gave dramatic expression to the excerpts he read and brought forth from those gems of oratory the beauty which is often unattainable to the reader. He also paid glowing tribute to our Island patriot and reformer, Edward Whalen.

Mr. Nash, throughout his address, received the closest attention from an appreciating audience, and at the conclusion of it, a hearty and unanimous vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Gerald McLaughlin and seconded by Lawrence Connolly, was tendered him by the Chairman, Mr. Earl Dalton.

During the evening the College Orchestra rendered several pleasing numbers. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

"Nevada" at The Capitol

The Zane Grey winners come in as regularly as clock-work. The latest of his exciting western romances to be released by Paramount is "Nevada," a smashing story of a two-gun man who does a mighty piece of work routing a villainous band before settling down to a peaceful life with a wonderful girl.

Opening yesterday at the Capitol Theatre the production made a spontaneous hit with the audience. Gary Cooper, the star, looks like a tremendous bet for Paramount. He is tall, good to look at, and ideal as a western hero. His leading woman, Theima Todd, playing her first Zane Grey part, fits her role to perfection. A girl of exceptional beauty, she won the sympathy of the audience quickly and gave an admirable portrayal. William Powell, dean of heavies, came through as usual with a magnificent performance. The entire cast is deserving of credit.

The story gives a reminder of the days of terror when the McCanliss gang was at its worst and Billy the Kid was on the rampage. Cooper is something of a bad man himself in the beginning but has traits which cause him to use his shooting ability for law and order after the first reel.

The action, involving love complications and fierce gun fights between posse and cattle rustlers, transpires against marvelous scenic backgrounds in the Southwest. The photography is unusual.

The millions who enjoy Zane Grey's inimitable stories of the West will welcome this latest addition. B. P. Schulberg, associate Paramount producer; gave John Waters, director; carte blanche instructions to go out and make the best Zane Grey to date. He did it!

The final chapter of "Terrible People" and the opening chapter of the Capitol's new serial "The Vanishing Rider" completes this fine week end bill.

TIGNISH PRODUCERS UNANIMOUS

Hearty Support Pledged to Movement to Increase Sale of Island Potatoes.

In a resolution pledging hearty support to the movement to increase the sale of Island potatoes which was started at a recent conference of potato growers and shippers in Charlottetown, the farmers of Tignish and vicinity at a largely attended meeting held on Dec. 4th called attention to the imperative need for some action with respect to this important matter.

Mr. J. B. Morrissey presided at the meeting, which was called for the purpose of discussing the potato situation. After some preliminary remarks he called upon Mr. J. B. Myrick to give a report of the potato conference held in Charlottetown on Oct. 25th.

Mr. Myrick gave a detailed synopsis of this conference, which was held in the Board of Trade rooms and at which a central committee was appointed following a decision to call a further meeting of all interested at a later date should the movement find satisfactory response.

The idea is to form some advance method of marketing potatoes, such as the Wheat Pool, etc., to control production and distribution in order that the potato producers of this province may obtain a return commensurate with the quality of their produce. The speaker gave a very interesting talk from this shipper's point of view and also spoke encouragingly of the potato industry.

Rev. G. J. McLellan, the next speaker, said that in growing potato farmers should not grow more than they can store, as the selling market at 18 cents per bushel, if not at this price, is not so profitable as feeding the product to the farm animals. Live stock, he insisted, is the foundation of mixed farming which we should encourage and promote. Although there is still some drudgery connected with the milking of cows, etc., he hoped that in the near future the country districts would be linked up with hydro electric power systems and every farmer would then have his electric engine for doing these chores.

Rev. Mr. McLellan spoke of the satisfactory returns from an acre of potatoes when they are 75 cents per bushel, pointing out also that a winter shipping cannot be carried on here very well without frost proof warehouses. In summing up the work of the Potato Growers Association he said that it had done exceedingly well, but we should have a salesman—even though it meant an expenditure of $5000 or $10,000 per year for the right man, it would be money well spent. In reference to advertising, he suggested that the Government should attend to this matter in the interests of the Province generally.

Mr. J. A. Bernard spoke of the potato situation of today, which concerns everybody. Prices have been disappointingly low this year, and in view of this fact the Association supplying fertilizer might help out the producer who has to pay spot cash for his fertilizer in the spring. The Association could also assist in disposing of the crop by storing the product in the frost proof warehouses which they have in Summerside, Charlottetown, Montserrat and Souris and shipping therefrom and they should also have a frost proof warehouse in Tignish and maintain it from their funds.

Mr. J. J. Arsenault, called upon, spoke supporting the statements of the preceding speakers

FUNERAL OF MR. J. D. SCHURMAN—The funeral of Mr. J. D. Schurman took place from his residence at Freetown on Thursday afternoon and thence to the Baptist Cemetery at Bedouque and was one of the largest ever held from Summerside, as well as the surrounding districts. To pay their last respects, there were many beautiful floral tributes. The services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Dr. Sidey, assisted by Rev. J. W. A. Nicholson.

DIED IN EVERETT, MASS.—Word was received on Thursday by Mr. Jesse Bernard of Summerside from his son, Mr. Bradford Bernard of Everett, Mass., of the death there of his wife on Wednesday evening, after a lingering illness. The bereaved husband was formerly on the staff of the post office at Summerside and the deceased lady a former valued member of the staff of Messrs. Holman, Ltd. Before her marriage she was Miss Pearl McInnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McInnis of Traveller's Rest. Besides her sorrowing husband two daughters, aged 7 and 8 years, are left to mourn. To them the deep sympathy of a wide circle of Summerside friends is extended.—S.

PLANNING FOR OPENING OF NURSES HOME—A meeting of the Ladies Aid of the Prince County Hospital was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Hospital parlour to complete the plans for the furnishing and early occupation of the new Nurses Home. The new furnace is now installed and the necessary repairs, alterations and decorations have been completed and the home has been handed over to the Ladies Aid for furnishing. They intend to fit it up very comfortably for the nurses use and will endeavour to have it ready before Christmas. The rooms were thoroughly inspected and committees appointed to attend to the buying of the furniture and making of window drapes, etc. A chest-of-drawers is under consideration; also a piano, which has been offered to the committee at a reasonable price. Several pieces of furniture have been donated to the home by generous citizens, for which the Ladies Aid are very grateful. The nurses will move into their new quarters immediately everything has been completed.—S.

BIDS PEOPLE PRAY FOR KING'S RECOVERY

CANTERBURY, Dec. 7.—The Archbishop of Canterbury, on entering the pulpit at his enthronement ceremonies today, exhorted the people as follows: "Ye shall pray for the King that God may uphold and strengthen him in his weakness and that he may be restored to health. Ye shall pray for the Queen and Royal Family that God may support them in their present anxiety and may give safety and Godspeed to the Prince of Wales in his journey. Ye shall pray for the King's physicians and nurses that God may guide and bless all their endeavors." A deep silence was kept for a space and the whole company then said the Lord's Prayer.

Allan Cup Holders Strong

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 6.—(Canadian Press)—Shining on a polished pedestal at the University of Manitoba, the Allan Cup champions of amateur hockey supremacy in Canada, will be guarded this winter by a fighting squad, whose personnel varies but little from that of the Winnipeg band that brought it to the west.

Andy Blair, now ranging the centre ice area for Toronto Maple Leafs in brilliant style, will be absent from his wonted post; and yearning Leo Collins, whose experience aided Varsity at left wing, has hung up his skates, satisfied with having played on a Canadian championship team.

But Coach Jack Hughes, himself a veteran of many an Allan Cup melee, has every other member of the titled sextet on hand, plus a store of talent which he considers will render the trophy defenders full as powerful as the team which swept out of Montreal last spring the new-wood honours.

Though he starred half a decade ago as a defenseman when University of Saskatchewan struggled through to the Allan Cup final, Ward Turvey, is the tricky performer who is to fill the rookey shoes of "Racehorse" Blair. Built close to the boards, Turvey nevertheless has plenty of speed; his experience provides the added value that makes him a capable successor to the stoutest star of the 1928 champions.

Both Blake Watson, master of stickhandling along the left boards and Gordon Mackenzie, ever-tolling regular goals on the front line, learned up so well with Blair, promise to work just as effectively with Turvey.

The defense which gained five shut-outs in its seven play-off contests last season and was really the outstanding factor in the student's success, in intact with Art Fettes still between the posts and mountainous Ward McVey and husky "Weary" Williamson acting as outer guards of his citadel.

Totting together in its second season on this goal-denying trio is expected to be even more effective, according to the hopes of Coach Hughes. In addition, the defense will have the aid of Stuart Musgrove, who towers over the six-foot mark and weighs close to 190 pounds.

Jack Piddock, prominent among last year's relief men, will sub for Turvey at centre and Frank MacDonald, a new member of the Varsity senior roster, is slated for work as extra man at right wing. Jack St. John, rated as the fastest skater in the west, will relieve on the right side.

Grouped with Port Arthur, Fort William and Brandon in a first four-team circuit, Manitoba Varsity will not open their schedule until Jan. 7, owing to the Christmas recess, but the head of the lakes teams will get going in mid-December.

Women Start Treasure Hunt

(By British United Press)

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Two adventurous women and a retired army officer have completed plans for a sea hunt which may solve once and for all the problem of whether the Almirante de Florencia, the Spanish galleon which sank in Tobermory Bay in 1588, really does contain Armada treasures.

The leader of this fascinating expedition is Colonel K. M. Foss of London, who for years has taken an interest in the sunken galleon and has tried more than once to reach its 70 feet decks.

He is over 40, but he does not consider himself too old to do a bit of diving when the occasion demands.

The women who are to assist him in the coming adventure are both financially interested. One is Lady E. Fox-Pitt, daughter of Sybil, Marchioness of Queensberry; the other is Mrs. Margaret Leask, wife of a retired naval officer. She lives at Dymchurch, Kent, and has one small son.

Colonel Foss has been hunting for this particular vessel since 1907, said Mrs. Leask recently. "I have been associated with him for years as his secretary, and I have become enthused with the idea of trying to reach the sunken treasure."

"I don't think anybody has actually seen the vessel since it sank in Tobermory Bay over three centuries ago, but treasures have already been recovered from it—pieces of silver plate and so forth—and pieces of guns have also been brought to the surface."

"We shall spend at least a month working on the galleon."

"It lies under the sea 85 yards from the steamer pier in Tobermory Bay."

"In order to engage in the hunt we had to obtain from the Duke of Argyll a license which was given by the Duke's ancestors by James the First."

Child Seriously Injured By Car

Yesterday afternoon shortly before two o'clock as little Miss Evelyn Wedge, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Wedge of Summerside was running along near the junction of Water and Spring streets she stepped backwards off the curb near the Bank of Commerce and was knocked down by the fender of an automobile coming from the east and driven by Mr. Jerry Doucette.

The car was travelling slowly and was stopped in a few feet but unfortunately not before the front wheel had passed over the little child's body across the abdomen. That she was not killed instantly is almost miraculous as the accident happened on the bare concrete street.

When picked up blood was running from the mouth and she was apparently unconscious when carried to her home only a few yards away on Spring street. A doctor who was immediately summoned found the injuries so serious that at once conveyed the patient to the Prince County Hospital, where it was found that no bones were broken though serious internal injuries were in fact. At a late hour last night the little sufferer was reported to be resting as comfortably as could be expected with hopes entertained for her recovery.

For Christmas

(Special to The Guardian)

MONCTON, Dec. 7.—With three special trains operating from Montreal over Canadian National Railways to carry steamship passengers to Halifax for sailings during the coming week end, the next few days will see the peak of the "Home for Christmas" movement of Canadians who are going to spend the holidays in their old homes overseas. Four boats will leave Halifax during the coming week and each of these will carry a large complement of Canadian passengers from both the Eastern and Western Provinces to spend their winter holidays in the old land.

These passengers will gather in Montreal during the next few days, and during Saturday and Sunday will move to Halifax in the three special trains which have been arranged for them.

Sailings over this week end from Halifax will be the Lapland and the White Star Line and the Scandinavian American Line with passengers for Scandinavian ports. The Tuscania of the Cunard Line, final sailings for passengers returning to European ports for Christmas will take place during the following week end when two passenger liners will sail.

PAID $7 FINE FOR STEER

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—A record breaking price for the grand champion steer of the International Livestock Exposition was paid today, when the Hereford yearling owned by Clarence Goeckle, 12 years old of State Centre Iowa, was knocked down on the auction block for $7 a pound. The previous high price paid in 1926, was $3.60 a pound. The day's purchaser was the J. C. Penney Company of New York.

The youthful owner saw his pet which he had raised from a calf, auctioned off, with solemn face, despite the fact that the price paid meant he would receive more than $5000 in addition to cover $1,000 prize money he already had received.
