FAMOUS BIG HOCKEY THREE BREAKING UP

Royston, Walker and Holmes, Celebrated Puck Chasers Will Play on Rival Clubs.

SEATTLE, Nov. 4.—Hockey fans will learn with regret that the three famous old campaigners who played side by side in a Seaside rink for so many years will be a rival team this winter. Frank Royston, Jack Walker and Harry Holmes—the Blond Flash, Hook Jack, and Hap, this grand old trio of the frozen surface, will be separated for the first time in more than a decade.

Walker and Holmes, who with Royston gave Seattle more than one hockey championship will play with the Victoria Club this season while Royston will wear the maroon and white of Vancouver. With the disbanding of the Seattle Club the first two along with Gordon Fraser were allotted to Victoria, while Royston was given to Frank Patrick's aggregation.

It must be with a feeling of sadness that these three old comrades who fought so many gallant battles together, are sent to different teams. Many a time has the skillful Royston, one of the game's greatest stick handlers, swept down the ice with Walker at his elbow, the pair at them circling, and leaping and sidestepping their way to the enemy's goal. And back in the nets, Hap Holmes cheered 'em on. And down in the dressing rooms between periods of a gruelling skirmish, Hap and Frank and Jack planned a change in attack, talked of bits of strategy to help bring them victory, and patted each other encouragingly on the back as they climbed the stairs for another hard session.

Had to Fight Both.

And there were times when, in the heat of battle, an opposing player swung too hard or checked too high upon one of the trio. If it was Walker who received the punishment—and that was often the case—then the offending rival had to scrap two of 'em—Walker and Royston.

The three veterans came to Seattle back in 1915 after playing together for several seasons on the Toronto Club. Ed Carpenter, a curbed-headed defence man and Cully Wilson, a little straggler of a forward, came with them. Carpenter left for other scenes of endeavor after a few seasons with the Mets, and Wilson was shipped to another league for "giving the stick" to Mickey Mackay. Cully, who would fight at the drop of the hat, put the slender Vancouver kid into the hospital for six weeks, so many say he deserved his banishment. Be that as it may, Cully Wilson was cheered to the echo, when he came back to Seattle wearing the colors of the Calgary Tigers.

May Finish Together.

But while others came and went, Royston, Walker and Holmes still were the stalwarts of the Mets when the team was forced to disband this year because of lack of an arena in which to play.

Royston goes to Vancouver, Holmes and Walker to Victoria. What will be the emotions of Frank and Hap and Jack when they see each other tearing down the ice, no longer

SPORTING COMMENT

This morning one week hence two Island boys Jack McEachern and Roy Prowse, sons of Abegweit will leave for Boston, where they will try out with the Boston Professional Hockey Club, latest addition to the National Hockey League which opens in Boston, Montreal and Hamilton on Saturday, November 29th. This is the first time in the history of local hockey that any of our boys has ever made an attempt to step out in the "Big Show" to try conclusions with the giants of the international hockey world. Nova Scotia has its Bill Stewarts, New Brunswick its Charlie Gormans, both world beaters in their respective lines in the icy arena, therefore why cannot Prince Edward Island have a whack at the added laurels which she richly deserves among the stellar exponents of Canada's National game? To try out and make the grade in big league company, especially at this early season, also to start away on artificial ice is a task to test the courage and stamina of the toughest amateur living, but McEachern and Prowse know what they are up against and if they do not succeed in going over the top it certainly will not be for the want of trying. That local hockey followers and admirers of the far famed Abegweit hockey team will miss these two boys this winter is a foregone conclusion, also their team-mates and officials of the club, but compensation comes in more ways than one, and if "Mix" and "Whackey" skate their way into the "Big Time," what greater joy will Islanders in general have than following the work of these young puck chasers in Uncle Sam's domain.

FOOTBALL

It is expected that the next football match will be played on the Abegweit Grounds Thanksgiving Day between the Abbies and the Saints. An effort was made to have a mainland team come over but Mt. Allison and Dalhousie, the teams approached, were unable to make the trip. Negotiations, however, are now under way with Moncton.

er team mates but enemies? Seattle will be back in the puck league next year. And may be faith will lead Frank and Hap and Jack back to their old team here to win dup their playing days together.

Quite Friendly

The women who called just because they couldn't get out of it were met at the door by the maid. "My mistress is taking her beauty sleep," she said.

"How long does it take her?" asked one of the women.

"Oh, less than half an hour."

"She looks it," said the other woman in a whisper to her friend. Then they left their cards and trotted along.—Argonaut.

GIANTS TO TRADE MEUSEL AND GROH

Youthful Lindstroms Showing in World Series Forecast Passing of "Heinie."

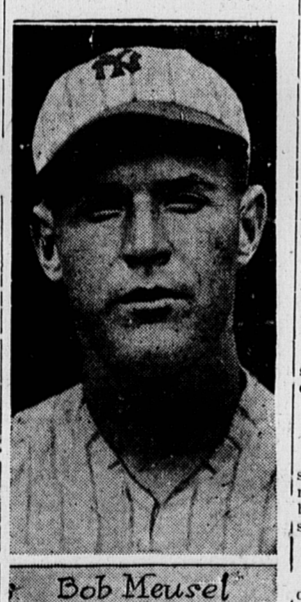

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Irish Meusel and Heinie Groh, veterans of many a hard campaign in the National League, will not be with the Giants next season. It may be said on the best of authority that the pair will be traded at the National League meeting here in December. Just now the outlook is that they will be involved in a deal in which the Giants, Braves and either the Dodgers or Cubs will figure. Brooklyn wants Groh and the Cubs would like to get both Heinie and Irish. Meusel and Groh are with John McGraw, now on the tour of Europe, and probably both have been informed that they are to be sent amid new scenes. They are still very valuable players, but they seem to have run their race with the Giants. Without question it would be for the best interests of both men to get a transfer.

Irish still packs a strong punch.

Suzanne Lenglen Begins To Train

(Associated Press) NICE, France, Nov. 4.—Suzanne Lenglen, completely recovered from the illness which caused her to withdraw from the Wimbledon tennis tournament and remain away from the Olympic competition, has started in light training on the courts of the Nice Tennis Club, of which her father is the manager.

With a view to resuming in the tennis world the position which she occupied in 1923.

Whether she is successful or not, it is her present intention to retire at the end of 1925. But "women vary," said old King Francis the First of France, and among her friends and acquaintances Suzanne's emphatic expression of her determination to abandon tennis is received with some pessimism.

Suzanne is about 15 pounds over her best playing weight and she intends to take things easy, gradually ridding into form during the Riviera tournaments, playing doubles and mixed doubles. She may not play singles until the spring tournament of the Nice Tennis Club next March.

Meanwhile, Mile. Emilienne Vlasto, French 1924 champion, finalist against Miss Heien Willis in the Olympic Games and Suzanne's most dangerous opponent in France, recently was married and probably will play no more tennis.

L. OF CROSS BOWLING

The second game in the series was played last night before a large crowd of enthusiastic fans, the Barbers and the All Stars being the contenders. The result was a win for the Knights of the Razors by a comfortable margin.

The All Stars did not seem to find themselves in the first game, while the Barbers took this opportunity to put the game on ice, getting an advantage that the All Stars could not overcome.

Tonight the Alerts and the C. N. R. teams try conclusions.

The followers of the game are keen to get a line on those two teams. High scoring is expected tonight.

Following are the scores of last night's game:

ALL STARS
W. R. Larter	80 135 185
B. Poole	123 193 193
J. McLeod	124 157 220
J. Webster	167 193 136
L. Howatt	130 171 124
Total—2331	624 849 858
BARBERS
J. Walsh	210 207 166
J. Hughes	235 205 188
H. Gregory	119 129 124
L. Reardon	107 179 123
A. McCaskill	156 118 197
Total—2463.	827 838 798

J. Hughes of Barbers had highest single score, 235 pins, and also high est. total for three games, 628 pins.

There is no telling when Heinie will be in and when he will be out. His passing was forecast by the remarkable showing which Groh is still a strong hitter and a capable infielder, but he is a gam-Freddy Lindstrom made at third base on account of his bad leg, base in the world's series.

LIPTON TO BUILD FIFTH CHALLENGER

Immediately After Decision of Measurements Start to be Made on Yacht.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Sir Thomas Lipton, the British yachtsman, who has sent four Shamrocks across the ocean in a vain quest for the America's cup will start building his fifth challenger as soon as he learns the decision of the International Yachting Conference, which is now debating in London on a universal rule of measurement for all craft, he said today.

In the course of a visit of inspection through the building and plant of the New York Times, Sir Thomas reverted to his favorite subject—the American cup races.

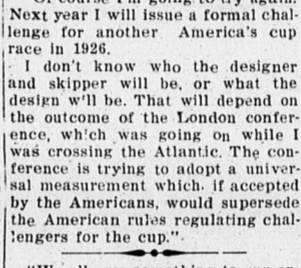

"I have the largest collection of trophies that you could imagine," he said, "I've got cups and trophies and medals, but the cup that I want most is the one I haven't got."

"Of course I'm going to try again. Next year I will issue a formal challenge for another America's cup race in 1926."

"I don't know who the designer and skipper will be, or what the design will be. That will depend on the outcome of the London conference, which was going on while I was crossing the Atlantic. The conference is trying to adopt a universal measurement which, if accepted by the Americans, would supersede the American rules regulating challengers for the cup."

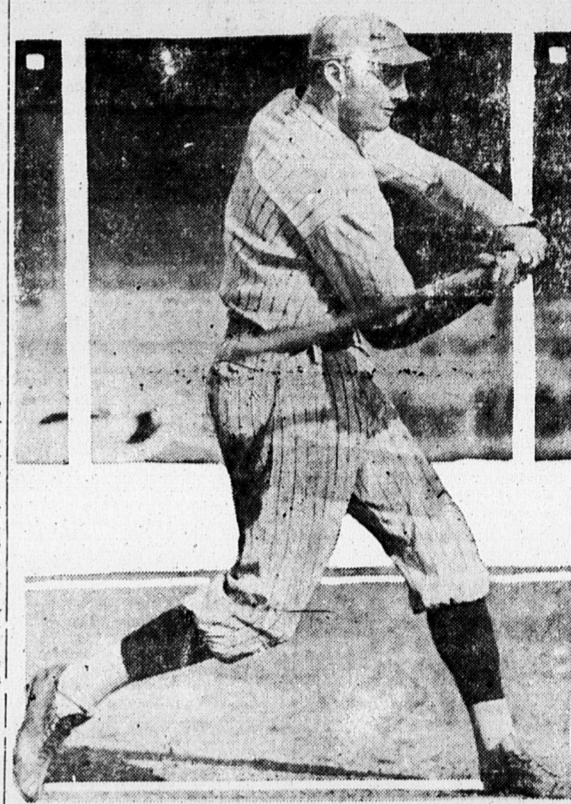

"We all owe something to our ancestors,"

"True—but paying what I owe to my contemporaries is keeping me poor."

MOST VALUABLE UTILITY PLAYER

George Kelly

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4.—Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds considers George Kelly of the New York Giants the most valuable utility player in the National League, if not both major organizations.

The fine showing of Kelly in the world series, despite the fact that he struck out twice in a pinch in the final game, bears out Hendricks' opinion of him.

Kelly is a great first baseman—a fine target for the infielders. He has a wonderful arm and is a dangerous hitter.

Filling in at second base in the series when Frisch was moved over to third, Kelly saved the first game by a remarkable play on Goslin. In the outfield he played equally well.

There are few players in the majors who can perform in the infield or outfield as capably as Kelly does.
