THE BOER WON THE WAR

An American traveler entered into conversation with a Boer farmer during a long and tiresome train journey.

"As is the way of Americans, he started boasting of the glories of that 'S. A. A.'," he said, "we had a cabbage so large over there that its shadows darkened Broadway. Suddenly it faded and decayed, and in time it was found that the rabbits in Australia had eaten away the roots."

"Some cabbage!" said the Boer. "But when I was on the farm in South Africa we had an ostrich that ate an inkpad and numbering machine, and for the next three years every egg he laid was dated and numbered." Answers.
