

"Century of Centuries" Due

The National Collegiate A. A. championships at Chicago this Friday and Saturday have many engrossing events scheduled, but none of them will attract more public interest than the sprints in which such winged foot whizzes as George Simpson of Ohio State, Eddie Tolan of Michigan, Claude Bracey of Rice Institute and Cy Leland of Texas Christian University are expected to compete with other skilled type-breasting talent.

What with Simpson, Frank Wykoff of Southern California, Bracey and Leland repeatedly clipping unofficial fifts of a second off the 100 yards, public interest is greater than ever in sprinting events. One or two of those 0.9 2-5 sprints may yet be recognized as the world's new record, though use of starting blocks and wedge helps will invalidate the majority of such record claims.

Another mighty effort will be made at Chicago to get definitely a new record for the hundred and with Simpson, Tolan, Bracey, Leland and others in keen competition—the Stagg Field dashes may provide the much-talked-of—"century of centuries."

Among other great stars that will illuminate the National Collegiate is Lee Sentman, of Illinois, considered by many to be one of the best hurdlers of all time. Last March, Sentman broke the world's indoor record for the 75-yard high hurdles three times in a single day—taking the first heat in 0:9.3 and the next two in 0:9.2. That was the first time —and thus far the only—time in athletic history that a performer achieved such a trio of triumphs.

At both low and high hurdles Sentman has been accumulating new records and, if he comes through as expected at Chicago, Stagg Field should serve as the coronation scene of this new kin of time-topers.

In the sprints, Cy Leland, of course, will try to continue the string of beatings he has rung up against his fellow Texan, Bracey. At this writing, the Texas Christian U. express has outdashed his Rice Institute rival five times this season.

Surely, their Chicago meeting should be better than a Panhandle lynch: bee!

Thursday's Bout Will Reach The 3-4 Million Mark

(Canadian Press)

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 10.—The fistful king of the old world and the heavyweight monarch of the United States, young and eager Max Schmeling and the older, more prosaic, Jack Sharkey, sat down tonight to rest and worry off poundsage until a crowd of 70,000 calls them into the Yankee Stadium ring Thursday night to do battle for the world's championship. Tomorrow the gladiators and the hordes of handlers and hangers on that surround all fistful headlines will move into town with their arguments and predictions of victory.

So vigorous has been the demand for tickets in the past few days that predictions of a $750,000 gross gate were freely made and accepted today despite inclement weather, usually a damper to enthusiasm. The weather forecasts indicate, however, that all will be bright and cheerful on Thursday, the only day that really matters to the customers.

FIGHT WINNER THURSDAY TO HOLD TITLE

New York State And National Committee To Recognize Winner As Undisputed Champion.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The boxing industry, lacking a custodian for its most important title for almost two years, will elect one Thursday night. On that evening, some 70,000 spectators will watch Jack Sharkey of Boston and Max Schmeling of Germany battle 15 rounds or less for the heavyweight championship.

Gene Tunney voluntarily yielded up on the last day of July, 1928. Tunney's retirement from the ring that brought him fame and fortune broke beyond repair the direct line of succession to the heavyweight throne, but by almost common consent, Sharkey and Schmeling have been adjudged the outstanding contenders and therefore eligible to fight it out for the industry's biggest prize. Dissenting votes have been cast in a few instances, notably in Philadelphia where recognition will be withheld until the winner of Thursday's match meets George Godfrey, giant negro, and in England where boxing authorities are of the opinion that Phil Scott, the London fireman, still retains his status as a contender despite his knockout by Sharkey. But in the main recognition will be accorded generally. The New York Athletic Commission and the National Boxing Association, both powerful bodies, have sanctioned the bout as a championship affair.

ALONG THE SPORT TRAIL

(By "Big Jim")

Great interest is evinced in the first matinee race of the season which is to take place on the New Annan oval on Wednesday June 18. Quite a large number of local horses are being trained at Kensington, New Annan and Summerside tracks which will take part in the racing. There is to be four classes of trotting and pacing which will accommodate practically every local race horse. The meet promises to have all the attributes of the big time circuit racing. Practically all the owners will drive their own horses and it is characteristic of our Island speed owners that once in a race they do their best to win. Sport for sport's sake is their motto. There will be many fast entries, it would be folly to predict winners. There is nothing so uncertain as horse races and elections, (according to a great statesman.) The race is being staged by the Kensington Race Club. It is planned to have the entry list published on Monday or Tuesday 15th, or 16th, inst. Enter with Ivan Brown, Kensington, or David O'Connor Clin ton. Entries must be in on Friday 13th. Phone or write.

mer, took no narcotics or spirituous liquors and lived right. They generally took up some subsidiary exercise to help out in their specialty, for instance Billy Coe, champ shot putter, was an apostle of swimming as a building up exercise, and the 40 yd dash to give him strength and quickness in the legs, John Flanagan and Con Walsh were great hammer throwers in Ireland before they came to America, and they became champions here, Pat MacDonnell, the big New York police officer (hammer and 56 lb weight champ) was just beginning to train in 1905. It took him seven or eight years to get a championship. Martin Sheridan (another Irishman) lost 19 lbs., in the three hour contest winning the A. A. U. championship. He had allowed himself to take on considerable flesh before the contest, but his mind was concentrated on winning, he was physically fit, and the day being real hot perspiration came very freely, with the result that he scored more points than Harry Gill, of Orilla, Ont., winner in the year previous. Ellery H. Clarke, another A. A. U. champ told the writer that he didn't do scarcely any actual practice of the events just previous to the competition, but kept himself fit by taking good long walks. It often occurs that events are lost by competitors trying too hard in practice just previous to the competition and becoming stale. I could give personal tips from other champions, but time will not permit. Jim Thorpe, the Indian, was undoubtedly the greatest all-round athlete the world ever saw. Never had the pleasure of seeing him perform.

Runners, that is sprinters, appear to develop more quickly than weight throwers or jumpers. It takes many years training to become a champion jumper. Our own Bill Halpenny (competitor at Stockholm Olympiad) had many years training, and was right up with the world's best. Jack McEachern, with his sprinting ability should have beaten 24 feet, in the broad jump, if he had patience and perseverance for two more years. Jack had wonderful possibilities as a short distance man too. I believe he could get off the mark as fast as Arthur Duffy, whose performance of 9 2-5 for the hundred has never been beaten, although it wasn't allowed as a record. The great trouble in sprints is to get off the mark with the gun, that's where the sprinters are won. Tom Trenholm, trainer and manager of Cameron and Longboat, says that hundreds of starts in practice with a gun will overcome the trouble. This "spiel" is only part of what the writer feels on the importance of athletics. Let us hope that the coming school meet will start the boys on the right road, and that they will keep up the good work, meet at the cross roads and practice the different standard athletic events. The Island might yet produce a world champion. We have the brains and brawn, it's only a matter of concentration of mind and ambition. Wish to compliment the committee on the concise and systematic entry form. It looks like the product of orderly brains.

The running of such a large number looks like a heavy proposition, but if the boys snap into their places quickly, when the events are called, they will be co-operating with the officials and expediting matters almost fifty per cent.—K.

GERMAN FISH LEARN TO READ

German fish have been taught to read their German ABC, according to professors in a Berlin University. The swimmers were found to be bright pupils. First they were taught to distinguish colors by placing food in variously colored bags. The fish learned to swim to the bag containing their favorite food, and to open it by pulling a string. The savants then attached letters of the alphabet to bags which were all of the same color. Eventually the fish were able to pick out the correct bag by the letter and even to distinguish the letter R from B.

Record Entry To Tee Off In British Open On June 19

ST. ANDREWS, June 10.—A record number of 296 players will tee-off in the qualifying round of the British open golf championship, which begins on June 19, according to the draw which was announced today.

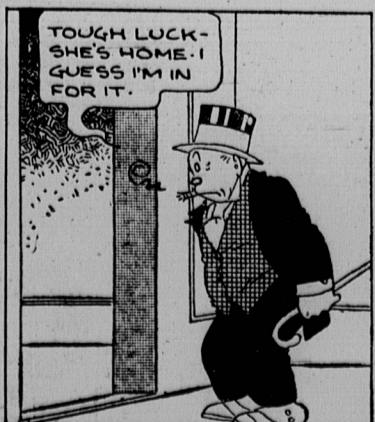

In the qualifying round half the competitors will play over the Hoylake course next Monday and the Wallyale course the following day. The other half will reverse that order.

The chief threat from overseas comes from the United States, whose entry comprises five Walker Cup players, six other amateurs and five professionals. Canada is represented by a lone entry, A. Dailey, of Halifax, England, who is paired with George Voigt, United States, for the qualifying round at Hoylake.

Other overseas challengers are ten players from France, two from Belgium, and one each from Cuba, Germany, Mexico, Greece and South Africa.

France is increasing its expenditures for civil and military pensions.

BRINGING UP FATHER

SAYS WOMAN IS SUPERIOR

Declaration that woman is superior, made by Dr. Elizabeth Sloan Chesser, prominent English physician, has started a renewal of the discussion in that country over the question of equality of the sexes. In addressing the British Social Hygiene Council, Dr. Chesser said "Many women marry the men they choose and spend the rest of their lives trying to turn them into the men they want them to be. Boys should not be brought up to regard themselves superior to girls. Biologically women is the superior creature."
