"I Suffered Terribly With Sore, Aching Back"

Mrs. Roland Ferguson, 194 Lake St., Peterboro, Ont., writes:

"For over two years I suffered terribly with sore back. I was almost mad with the pain, and had doctored with it until I was discouraged. Then my father, who is a firm believer in Dr. Chase's Medicines, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I followed his advice, and am glad to say I was completely relieved of that torturing pain in my back. It is over a year since I used these pills, and I have had no return of the trouble, but always keep them in the house."

YOU CANNOT JUDGE BY APPEARANCE.—It is impossible to tell the quality of tea by the appearance of the leaf. A rough, coarse, unevenly rolled tea may taste much better in the cup than a closely rolled, well-tipped tea that appears much finer. The only way to be sure of getting tea of reliable quality is to buy a guaranteed blend like "SALADA," whose goodness and purity have been proved by time.

FEAST OF ST. JOSEPH.—Yesterday the feast of St. Joseph was duly commemorated at St. Joseph's Convent. At 7 a. m. Mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Leary, the chapel being filled almost to capacity. Special music was excellently rendered by St. Joseph's Sodality Choir. In the evening there was Pontifical Benediction followed by a sermon on "The Life of St. Joseph" preached by Rev. Gavin Monaghan.

FEAST OF ST. THOMAS AQUINAS CELEBRATED.—Friday, March 7, the feast of St. Thomas Aquinas, great philosopher of the thirteenth century, was celebrated with the usual solemnity by the students of St. Dunstan's University. The outstanding feature of the day's program was the sumptuous banquet served in the college dining hall to the philosophers in honor of their patron saint. At the close of the banquet very elaborate speeches were delivered by Rev. D. P. Croken (Rector), G. K. McInerney, Alban Farmer, Edmund Donahoe, J. M. McMillan, Thomas Henderson, Aubin Gallant, and Thomas Hammill. Special mention must be made to the very capable manner in which Mr. Hammill dealt with his subject, "Women's Influence in Public Affairs." He is a very clever orator at any time, but when he has the right subject to treat, he feels right at home on the oratorical platform.

BEDFORD AND VICINITY.—The genial mail courier, J. J. McIntyre is giving excellent service this winter. Quite a number of the youth and beauty of Stanhope and Grand Tracadie passed through here recently at a great rate of speed on a pleasure trip to Fort Augustus. While hewing a stick some days ago Mr. Elmer McQuaid gave his hand a bad cut which kept him confined to his home for several days. His genial presence was greatly missed by the young folk. Mrs. J. A. Burge visited Scotchfort recently. Miss Hannah McIsaac (teacher) spent the week end at her home in Tracadie Cross. Mr. Joseph Court visited Tracadie Cross recently. Mr. Daniel Hughes visited Donaldston last week. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bradley spent Sunday in Fort Augustus. Mr. Ernest Court paid a flying visit to D. J. McNabb recently. Mr. Robert Gallant and Mr. J. C. McDonald are busily engaged in securing their firewood for the summer. Mr. Fonce McIntyre has purchased a new driving sleigh. Mr. Fenton Court visited Suffolk, the guest of Mr. David Dover. Mr. Hughes, Kelly's Cross, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Peter McQuaid. Messrs Frederick and James Hughes have erected a fox ranch on the former's farm. Their friends wish these gentlemen every success in their new undertaking.

Lenten Lectures

May we take just another look at that name—The Comforter—as we close our talk together? I wish with my whole heart, and I pray, that a vivid sense of the meaning of that name may be one result of this evening's meeting. I was traveling alone in Germany one hot July day on a train going down to the city of Worms. It was quite hot and I was very tired, and my head aching, I distinctly remember. The conductor came along and objected to my ticket. Before leaving this country, I thought I knew a little of German, enough to worry through on. My ideas on that subject changed a trifle over there, however. That day my tired, and I refused to recognize any familiar sounds on the conductor's lips, and my tired tongue refused to utter anything satisfactory to him. And there I was, a complete stranger in a strange land too tired to think or have any mental resources, not knowing but I might be put off at the next station. In fact just tired enough for fine worrying. It looked blue for a few moments, but not for long. A young man by the side, a Jew, spoke to me in excellent English. Was any sound ever so welcome! He straightened the conductor out, and then we fell to talking together. He proved to be a very intelligent, agreeable companion. I found his home was in the city where I was going. So we got off there together, and he simply devoted the rest of the day to me. He took me up to a good hotel, and while I was eating dinner, went and got his brother who had been in America, and who entertained me while I ate. Then he took me to his father's home, a large old mansion, overlooking the famous Luther monument, where I rested a while. And then a quick run to a few interesting points, and finally when leaving time came, he insisted on accompanying me to the station, and making sure I had a good seat, and then bade me a gracious goodbye.

That day lingers in my memory, as one of the green spots of that trip. It touched me to think that my Master graciously sent one of His own despised race to be my friend. Do you not think that that man, experienced where I was ignorant, and so sympathetic, was a living illustration to me of Jesus' name for the Holy Spirit—one called alongside to help?

One day recently, riding on a Lake Shore train in Ohio, I chanced to notice the conductor stopping to speak to a little girl sitting behind me. Then I noticed that she was alone and crying a little, quietly. She did not answer his question, but he must have been a father, I thought, because he seemed to understand so well. Speaking to a kind-faced motherly looking woman in the next seat he had the little girl go back and sit beside her, next the window. They did not talk much, if any, I noticed. But the girl was snuggled up close, and I knew from her face that she felt the warm sympathy of that friendly presence, and that the terrible feeling of loneliness had gone. Is not that woman another illustration of that name Comforter? Her mere presence was all that was needed to clear the skies and change the atmosphere for the little lone and lonely traveler.

But Jesus Himself has a very striking way of making clear just what He meant, by coupling another word with that new name the first time He used it. He says, "I will send another Comforter." The comparison is with Himself. He is one comforter. The Holy Spirit another one. The only other time this word is used is by John in His first epistle, and is translated by our word advocate, and refers to Jesus. Jesus practically says: "You know what I have been to you these months past? And they would think through the close intimacy of nearly two years. How He had spoken with unmistakable plainness when they were in the wrong, but also how loving with a strong love He had been, how patient, and gentle, and resourceful, and how He seemed to yearn over them that they might grow into His ideal for them. "Now," He said, "I am going away, but I will send you another one who will be you. And then you will not know."

There is really only one way to gain that knowledge. It is this: take the step which belongs to your side of the transaction between you and the Master Surrender yourself to Him to be changed and cleansed and used as He may choose. Then He will begin at once working out this idea that belongs to Him. You shall be filled with His presence. Then you will begin to know. Then you can sing

And now prevades the whole." And you shall go on knowing more and better until the day dawn and the shadows flee way.

REGINA March 18.—For the first time in the history of the Saskatchewan Legislative Assembly a member of the Opposition crossed the floor of the House and took a seat on the right of the speaker as a supporter of the government. W. H. MacKinnon, Independent member for Wadena, achieved this distinction after expressing "great admiration" for the clear concise budget statement presented by Premier Dunning last week.

I have a wonderful guest, Who speeds my feet, who moves my hands, Who strengthens, comforts, guides, commands, Whose presence gives me rest. He dwell within my soul, He swept away the filth and gloom; He garnished fair the empty room.
