NATIONAL SERVICE.— A successful meeting in the interests of the National Service League was held Thursday evening in Rustico Hall. Mr. Percy Pope and Mr. F. T. Morrow were the speakers. Although the weather was not favorable there was a large attendance. Mr. Joseph J. Doucette, J. P., occupied the chair. Mr Pope sought to arouse a keener appreciation of the seriousness of the present crisis and of the necessity of putting forward every effort to increase the production of foodstuffs, extending his appeal to the fishermen present. The meeting responded generously. Mr. Morrow dealt particularly with the recommendations of the Agricultural Committee of the National Service League, dwelling especially on the benefits to be derived from clean seed, good tillage and spraying potatoes. The meeting then proceeded to organize a branch of the National Service League including Wheatley River and Rusticoville. A nominating committee having been named by the chairman, presented the following names to constitute an executive committee with power to add to their numbers, viz; Messrs Cornelius Doucette, John H. Buntain, Felix Galant, Theophilus Pineau, Joseph Doucette, J. P., James Stevenson, John McKay and Simon Pineau. These gentlemen to elect a president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer from their number. On motion they were elected. A hearty vote of thanks was passed and tendered by the chairman to the speakers. The meeting then closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

FAREWELL TO DR. AND MRS. HOUSTON

A large number of the friends of Dr. and Mrs. Houston of Kensington gathered at the home of Gordon and Misses Glover on Wednesday evening last to bid them farewell. The news of the Doctor's enlisting for the Medical work came as a great surprise to his friends. Since Mrs. Houston and Gilbert intend spending the summer in Souris their fellow citizens took the opportunity of expressing their deep regret at their departure. The following addresses were read to Dr. and Mrs. Houston accompanied by a serviceable wrist watch to the Doctor and a beautiful cut-glass vase and tray to Mrs. Houston also a gold piece for Master Gilbert:— Address read by Lieut. Norman Lowther, To Dr. J. C. Houston.— "It is with a mingling of pleasure and regret that we your fellow citizens have learned of your intention of separating yourself from us for a time at least. We regret to lose one who has so faithfully worked for all that tends to uplift our citizenship and places the betterment of our town before personal aggrandizement.

It is only when some such event breaks the usual routine that we realize the assistance and support obtained from one of your stamp. You were always present at our social functions and ever ready to help in bringing to success anything whose aim stood for the right.

We glory in your courage, that courage which brings its inspiration to the thousand Allied forces and will enable them to crush successfully the murderous German Empire. And while we cannot but confess our surprise we cannot conceal our pride. You have been tried and found in all way more than equal to the test. So we wish by some token to testify our emotion therefore do us the kindness to accept this small gift in the same spirit in which it is offered.

To Mrs. Houston:— As much as we will miss the Doctor we fully realize that your sacrifice is incomparable with ours, but we trust you will find ample remuneration in knowing that you too are giving your best and dearest of earthly friends to defend the integrity of the Empire and to lessen the sufferings of those who are called upon to face the most fearful perils. In token of our appreciation of your services in all our social work we would ask you to accept this small gift as a momento of our esteem and love for you."

Dr. Houston replied in feeling terms for himself and family thanking the people for their kindness. The following gentlemen spoke in highly eulogistic terms of the Doctor and his lady. Rev. Messrs Goodwill, Sellar and Johnson also Messrs G. R. Mahon, Geo. Brown, C. Cooke H. R. Moase, Dr. Gillis and several others.

A dainty luncheon was then served by the ladies of the W. P. A. The gathering broke up by singing "Auld Lang Syne." Dr. and Mrs. Houston left on Friday for Souris, where the Doctor will await further orders.

SUNDAY TAKES FLING AT SELFISH MOTHERS

NEW YORK, April 30.—Afternoon and night Billy Sunday preached yesterday his sermon for mothers. There was not so much denunciation of the godless or ""beer-guzzling, gin-fizzling, whiskey-sizzling" mother as in some of Sunday's other sermons; it was more a depiction of the mother's joys on earth and reward in heaven. Only 607 persons hit the trail at the night session and 295 in the afternoon. The methods by which ushers and personal workers accelerated the trail hitting on the previous night were conspicuously absent yesterday, and in general the meetings were rather lifeless for a Sunday revival.

There was more thrill in the after noon when about 6,000 were present nearly all women, than at night, when 18,000 persons attended. Sunday's language was somewhat more picturesque in the afternoon; he lingered longer on the picture of the little white casket, the angels on the hearse, and the baby hands soon to molder to dust; he threw more pathos into the story of how his own mother "slipped away last June without even time to say, "Good-by, Willie.'" Many women burst into tears.

Six-Year-Old Trail Hitter

The first trail hitter last night was a six-year-old boy, carried up in his father's arms. It was the same boy whom Rodeheaver, looking round on the second night of the revival for some child with the courage to sing alone a verse of "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," had opportunely discovered in the second row—a child who, it turned out, could sing with vigor and accuracy.

Next came four sailors, and then Pat McQuade, the old Turkish bath rubber, who was the second man to clap Sunday's hand in the revival, and who has been campaigning with vigor among other trail hitters ever since, brought up a man who had hit the trail on the previous night for a second clutch of Sunday's hand. McQuade has made a point of working with various trail hitters, and they always look considerably more presentable and more cheerful when he gets through with them.

As usual, many of the trail hitters stopped to try to talk to Sunday, and one woman, before she was hurried on by the ushers, whose duty it is to keep the stream flowing steadily, pressed into the evangelist's hand a long envelope, which was found to contain a red necktie.

In the preliminary services Rodeheaver repeated his gentle chiding of New Yorkers for their slowness in coming forward with the expenses of the campaign. More the $80,000 is still to be collected, despite the fact that New York has been unfavorably compared several times with Buffalo and Detroit. During the collection Sunday leaned down from the platform and shook hands with Bill Donovan, manager of the American League baseball team, who sat in the press box.

Hopes To See Moses's Mother

Sunday's text was the instructions given by Moses's mother by the daughter of Pharaoh, after she had discovered the child in the bullrushes and had sent for a Hebrew woman to nurse it—"Take this child and nurse it for me, and I will pay thee thy wages."

"I'm going to heaven some day, hallelujah, praise God," said Sunday, "and when I shake hands with Jesus I'm going to say, 'Jesus, I want to see the mother of Moses.' And I expect Jesus 'll have an angel page her; and then I want to ask her how much money she got for nursing her own baby. I'm kind of curious about that." But he stressed to other rewards that came to her, telling with vivid dramatization of the making of the ark of willow, the hiding of the child, the arrival of Pharaoh's daughter, the hurry of Miriam to find a Hebrew woman to nurse it. He told, too, of Moses's future, and how his firmness against Egyptian temptation was due to his mother's guidance.

"I'd fight for my child more than some of you mothers," he said. "You let some tango lizard—weasel-eyed, bullet-headed, hog-jowled, and rum-soaked—try to walk away with your daughters, I'd fill a forty-gallon squirt gun full of rough rats and buttermilk and I'd drown him. Yes, Sir.

"I believe there are more good mothers in America than in any land on earth, but some of them are good for nothing. If every boy had a Christian mother those dirty, rotten hellholes of the liquor traffic would be in hell.

Sunday drew applauses when he said that if the mothers were true to their trust they could send their boys away to school without any danger of having them come back weaned infidels. "The students are all right," he said, "It's some of the professors that are wrong—God forsaken professors who are wrecking the faith of boys and girls in Jesus Christ. When I preached at Princeton, in a church because they wouldn't let me preach in the university 600 of the brightest, snappiest boys on earth hit the trail; 600 at Pennsylvania; 600 at Dartmouth; 2,500 at Cornell. I tell you they're a gerat bunch at Cornell."

New "Society Drink."

In his attack on mothers of the wrong sort he added to his list of society drinks already comprises vintages, wines and champagnes, cocktails and frappes, a new member—the society bran mash, which he said some mothers fool around with along with cocktails and poodles. "A mother has a hard time making a man out of her son," if his father has no more backbone than a meat rind or a twine string. The Catholics have shown the only sensible way to reach the masses—by reaching the children and getting them started right."

He listed various undesirable kinds of mothers. One was "the delicatessen mother. She lives in apartments; her work is minimized; she spends her day visiting the neighbors, and her husband's nose in on the grindstone 365 days a year. A maid takes care of the children. Such a mother doesn't make a home."

Another was "the faddist mother, who wears a velvet hat in August, because it will be the style in October." There was applause at this, and Sunday added: "Hugh! I got down where you live there."

Then "the booze fighting mother, the souse. She's a bad one; I don't care if she's rich or poor. The children get drunk on their own mother's milk. Then the irreligious mother. She is a great source of evil to her girls. She holds up no ideals, on picture of love or service. Human life craves spiritual ideals. Life is not all fine clothes, frappes, grand operas, and banged hair."

He told the story of two boys who wanted to be missionaries, but their parents desiring business careers for them, refused to permit them to plan for that calling. The next day they went swimming and were drowned. "I think God wanted them," said Sunday, "and when their mother refused He said: "All right, I'll take them now. You're not fit to raise them."

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS THE BASIS OF ALL LAW

Nowhere in all the centuries of recorded speech will you ever find so brief and comprehensive a summary of the moral obligations due from one man to another as in the Ten Commandments. They form the basis of all the law, written and unwritten, that has ruled and guided mankind from the time of Hammurabai until the present. But they are only one of the inspired features that make the Bible the Book of Books, whose teachings have guided mankind for centuries. Big Print Red Letter and Douay Editions offered by The Guardian to its readers are the most comfortable and convenient form in which the Bible is printed. Suppose you read the coupon offer in today's paper, elsewhere you ought to have a copy for your family and yourself.

HENRY FORD LOSES MILLION LIBEL CASE

NEW YORK, April 30.—Overruling a demurrer filed by Henry Ford to the complaint in a suit for libel for $1,000,000 damages brought by the Vitagraph Company of America, Judge Mayer in the federal district court has granted a motion for judgment on the pleedings against Ford. Judge Mayer announced, however, that he would allow Ford leave to answer the complaint within twenty days.

The suit resulted from an article published by Ford in May, 1916, entitled "Humanity and Sanity," in which it was alleged he characterized a motion picture produced by the plaintiffs "with the patriotic end in view of promoting the best interests of the nation as an advertisement for munitions makers."

AN ECONOMICAL CREAM SEPARATOR

Attention is directed to the advertisement in this day's issue of he Renfrew Machinery Company of Renfrew, Ontario. This company are manufacturers of the famous "Standard" Cream Separators. This machine is entirely made in Canada. The company have an up-to-date plant and compete in the open market with machines from all over the world, there being no duty exacted on cream separators coming into Canada. The "Standard" has made great progress within a very few years, its success being due largely to the fact that it skims very closely. It will be noticed from the advertisement in today's issue that the "Standard" gets all but one-tenth pound of cream in one thousand pounds of milk skimmed, this claim being substantiated by tests made at government dairy schools. The "Standard" is now being introduced in the United States and New Zealand and is meeting with a favorable reception.

HIGH COST OF LIVING IN NEWFOUNDLAND

ST. JOHN'S NFLD. A commission has been appointed by the colonial government to investigate the increased cost of living in Newfoundland. The committee is empowered to take evidence under oath. It is composed of P. T. McGrath; President of the Legislative Council; W. J. Ellis, a contractor and builder, and former Mayor of St. John's; Thomas Hall, government engineer; Henry Lemessurier, Deputy Minister of Customs, and Charles Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice.

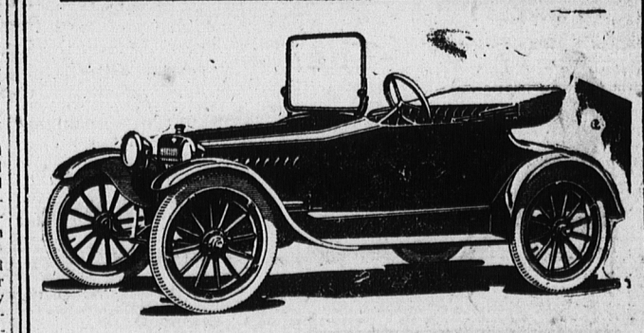
NEW METHOD FOUND FOR KEEPING EGGS

CHICAGO, J. S. Hockert of Suther which may revolutionize the cold storage business, if not eliminate it altogether. After experimenting a number of years and making more than a thousand trials, he has discovered a way to preserve eggs by dipping them in a chemical solution.

The eggs, after being given a quick dip, dry almost instantly, when they are ready to be placed in ordinary egg cases and to be put in storage until wanted. Eggs thus preserved will keep perfectly from season to season.

The coating on the shell is invisible to the naked eye, and consequently eggs so preserved have every appearance of being freshly laid. They taste the same as fresh eggs. The white and yolk separate readily and may be used for any purpose a fresh egg is used for.

SAXON ROADSTER



Greatest Value Low Priced Car

Strictly speaking Saxon Roadster is the greatest value low-priced car on the market. It is absolutely unequalled in the number and quality of the equipment and conveniences it carries. Note them carefully—best two-unit starting and lighting system built; new style body, big, roomy and comfortable; demountable rims with 30-inch by 3-inch tires; new style top with Grecian rear bow; electric horn; tire carrier; speedometer; new design carburetor that gives greater efficiency and easier starting; three speed transmission; Timken axles; Hyatt quiet bearings; Saxon high-speed motor of unusual power, speed, smoothness, flexibility and coolness; ventilating windshield; and twenty further refinements. Saxon Roadster $665 f. o. b. Detroit.

This is positively the best car on the market for doctors. If you are going to use a car this year I would advise you to order now so you may not have any annoying delay.
