geology does not conform to previously recognized rules and at least five major companies have bought up lands previously neglected. Millions of tons are being produced annually by the southern portion of Trinidad. Leasehold's Fyzabad Fields, at one time considered of no commercial value because of the synclinal strata of the bed rock, it was revealed. The Apex Oil Company expects profitable results from a drill which will be an estimated 7,000 feet deep when completed. Other companies were preparing to sink wells into other areas neglected previously. New equipment and tests, perfected in the last decade, have made much of the new activity possible. In general, the new developments will be at least twice as deep as operations now being exploited.
