GRAIN BOARD ALLOWS FOR MORE WILD OATS

(Canadian Press) CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 12.—Wild oats in farmers' grain, which costs the farmers money when his products arrives at the elevator, will not press so heavily on his pocket this year due to a new ruling by the Board of Grain Commissioners. Quite a saving will be derived by the new regulation which raises the dividing line on wild oat content from three and one-half to five per cent.

By the board's decision the farmer will be allowed a considerable quantity of wild oats in his grain before he is forced to make a deduction from the original price for his product. The regulation applies to elevators over the prairies and it is expected to be extended to take in Pacific coast points. The new order came into effect on Aug. 1.

Orange Cup Cakes

ROYAL BANK, HOWEVER, URG- ES CANADIANS CANNOT HOPE TO CONTINUE RECEIVING BENEFITS UNLESS THEY IN- CREASE PURCHASES FROM AUSTRALIA.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.—(By The Canadian Press)—The new treaty between the Dominion of Canada and the Commonwealth of Australia has given a wide variety of Cana- dian products a preferred position in the Australian market, and constitu- tes a basis of general optimism concerning the future development of trade between these two British Countries, states the August letter of the Royal Bank. Canadian au- tomobiles, newsprint, timber and canned salmon have been given special consideration, but when Canadian exporters have had time to make their goods better known in the Australian market there should be also a substantial increase in the volume of sales of a wide variety of other products. It has been stated that the value of the United States exports will suffer by about twenty-five million dollars, but there are so many opportunities which have been opened to Canadian exporters by this new treaty, that its full ultimate effect cannot be estimated close- ly. Of the 433 items which make up the Australian tariff schedules, there are 415 on which preference has been granted.

In the Australian fiscal year of 1929-30, the total imports of news- print amounted to about $15,000,000, of which $4,200,000 came from Cana- da. Under the treaty, Canadian newsprint will enter free of duty and the general tariff on this item will amount to $200 per ton. Aus- tralian imports of salmon amount- ed to $4,000,000 in 1930, and of this amount $2,500,000 came from Cana- da. The old preference in favor of Canada amounted to three cents per pound. The new preference is twice that granted in former years. Automobile chassis to a value of nearly $30,000,000 were imported, of which approximately $4,000,000 worth came from Canada and $19,000,000 worth from the United States. The new Canadian rates vary from 15% on unassembled chassis, to 35% on assembled chas- sis, while the general tariff varies from 22 1/2% to 45%. Many types of Canadian timber receive a prefer- ence of $5 per thousand feet where there has been no preference in the past. The total value of Australian imports of wood and wood products from the United States has been in excess of $10,000,000.

In the fiscal year of 1929-30, Cana- da exported to Australia, cotton- ficoneery, rubber manufactures, fish, furs, textiles (including silk, cotton and felt); gloves and mitts; socks and stockings; oilcloths; paper board, paper; wall, writing and wrapping paper; books; iron pipe and tubing; iron; farm implements; razors; nails; needles and pins; elec- tric apparatus; asbestos; coal; med- ical preparations; soda and com- pounds, and other chemicals; sta- tionery and musical instruments. There were exports to a value of more than $10,000,000 of each of these items. On almost every item men- tioned the preference in favor of Canadian goods is now larger than it was at the time these exports were made.

It is quite essential of course that this treaty shall be made no less attractive to Australia than it is to Canada. In 1929 and 1930 Canadian imports from Australia amounted to $3,500,000 and $4,200,000 respec- tively. Canadian exports to that market amounted to $19,500,000 and $16,300,000. Under this new treaty there are a number of Australian products which will receive preferential treat- ment upon entering Canada.

"People cannot sell unless they buy, and Canadians cannot hope to continue to receive these benefits unless Canadian purchases of Aus- tralian goods are increased," the let- ter adds. "The major benefits which will result from the treaty are those which have been granted to Canada, and under these circum- stances, Canadians can well afford to give full co-operation to those Australians who endeavour to find a market in this country. Where Em- pire trade can be promoted on a sound basis it will command the ap- proval of all business men as well as the commendation of those who desire that the bonds of Empire shall be more closely knit."

EXCAVATION POINT TO ANCIENT ROMANCE
(Canadian Press) EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 12.—Outstanding authority on ancient Rome and Greece, Professor Geneva Misener, Ph.D., believes that peo- ple call to realize the portent of exca- vations under way in Greece, Asia Minor and Egypt. Miss Misener is a professor at University of Alberta where she has created great inter- est among students with her lec- tures on the classics.

The finds of the excavations dur- ing the past few years, the profes- sor declares, have changed con- ventional ideas about ancient life in old-world countries. She de- plored the fact that more people are not reading the new books on archaeology wherein can be found funds of information regarding the sources of European civilization. Members of parliament, ministers, lawyers, doctors, have listened to lectures from Miss Misener, and they confessed, she said, to the awe that seized them as she un- folded her learnings of Greek and Lat- in.

It is quality and quantity that counts when studying the Greek, Miss Misener declared in maintain- ing it is of interest: both to the lit- erary and philologist's mind. Some students in science medicine and theology have discovered that study of Greek can be applied to their work. The early ages, abound with romance and the excavation partic- les, she hopes, will awaken interest in the classics.

Professor Misener came to Al- berta University in 1913 after she had spent lengthy periods of her career in Europe. On her back, she penetrated deserted sections of the old land, obtaining much knowledge for her work. At high school, in St. Catharines, Ont., she became at- tached to the classics under the tutelage of Miss S. Fitzgerald, med- icalist in the classics, who soon won Miss Misener into the field.

Miss Misener graduated from Queen's University in Kingston with the degree of M. A., and then studied at University of Chicago, where she obtained her Ph. D. de- gree. She won the American Col- lege Alumni Travel Fellowship and immediately went abroad to delve further into her chosen study. She studied at University of Berlin, at TOYE-MORRIS - Hart House Chapel provided a delightful set-ting on Saturday afternoon for a quiet wedding when Dorothy Macdon, daughter of Mr. Frederick Morley Morris, of Regina, became the bride of Arthur MacFarlane Toye, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Toye, of Toronto. The ceremony was conducted by the Reverend Gordon Hern, to the soft accompan- iment of the chapel organ, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends. The bride, who was unattended, looked charming in a tailored ensemble of yellow boucle, and carried a bouquet of blue cornflowers and Tullisman roses. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Toye left by motor for their wedding trip. On their return they will reside in Toronto. The above item appeared in The Toron- to Globe of Aug. 3. He bride is a niece of C. R. Morris, of Granville, and has many friends in that local- ity where she formerly resided.

PREACHED ELOQUENT SER- MON - It showered now and then, and rained hard at times, but a large crowd assembled on the Mar- ket Square last evening to hear Rev. On almost every item men- tioned the preference in favor of Canadian goods is now larger than it was at the time these exports were made.

It is quite essential of course that this treaty shall be made no less attractive to Australia than it is to Canada. In 1929 and 1930 Canadian imports from Australia amounted to $3,500,000 and $4,200,000 respec- tively. Canadian exports to that market amounted to $19,500,000 and $16,300,000. Under this new treaty there are a number of Australian products which will receive preferential treat- ment upon entering Canada.

"People cannot sell unless they buy, and Canadians cannot hope to continue to receive these benefits unless Canadian purchases of Aus- tralian goods are increased," the let- ter adds. "The major benefits which will result from the treaty are those which have been granted to Canada, and under these circum- stances, Canadians can well afford to give full co-operation to those Australians who endeavour to find a market in this country. Where Em- pire trade can be promoted on a sound basis it will command the ap- proval of all business men as well as the commendation of those who desire that the bonds of Empire shall be more closely knit."

EXCAVATION POINT TO ANCIENT ROMANCE
(Canadian Press) EDMONTON, Alta., Aug. 12.—Outstanding authority on ancient Rome and Greece, Professor Geneva Misener, Ph.D., believes that peo- ple call to realize the portent of exca- vations under way in Greece, Asia Minor and Egypt. Miss Misener is a professor at University of Alberta where she has created great inter- est among students with her lec- tures on the classics.

The finds of the excavations dur- ing the past few years, the profes- sor declares, have changed con- ventional ideas about ancient life in old-world countries. She de- plored the fact that more people are not reading the new books on archaeology wherein
